Labor, Not The N.A.M., Made America Great

By Elliott Carlton, LABOR REPORTS Columnist

You've heard it, too.

Some Big Mouth usually spouts it on the radio. Mostly it's made up of a lot of words on how the American workingman has the highest standard of living in the world and how he ought to be grateful to the free enterprise system for it all. By the free enterprise system Big Mouth always means that all the works should be controlled by the National Association of Manufacturers — but, of course, he never does say so.

So we're all happy to hear that we've got public schools. We're all glad to be able to take Saturdays and Sundays and a few legal holidays off. We're glad, too, that we get home in time to see the wife and kids.

But what does that have to do with Big Mouth—or the major association of Big Mouths, the National Association of Manufacturers?

Are we supposed to say "thank you" to them?

Well, we're not going to. If anybody deserves the credit for what we've got, it's you and me—and other guys that make up the country's trade unions.

Who was against public schools? Why, the early Big Mouths, of course. Who was against the eight hour day? None but the N.A.M. and their associates. Who was against the five day week? Or social security? The answer is the same.

Sure we've got a high living standard. But if it were up to the Big Mouths we'd all be living in thatched huts — and some of us in caves. Let's not forget it: OUR HIGH LIVING STANDARD IS A RESULT OF THE WORK AND SACRIFICES OF TRADE UNION MEN AND WOMEN.

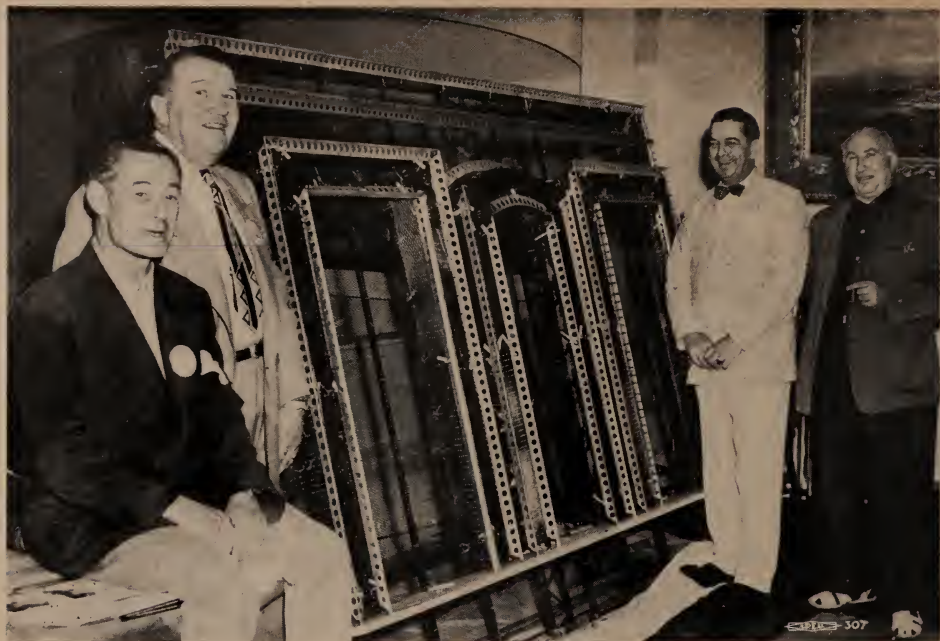

You see that even now. How active has the N.A.M. been in behalf of fair employment practices? Have you seen a Big Mouth blurb in criticism of the Ku Klux Klan? Have the Big Mouths supported legislation that would remove discrimination in housing? Would the Big Mouths get rid of the poll tax?

Just to ask the questions is to answer them. It's an historical fact that organizations like the National Association of Manufacturers seem to feel that they have a vested interest in perpetuating injustices. Things are always good now for the Big Mouths, let's keep them that way—that is their slogan.

Well, things weren't good for the working parents who tried to send their kids to school a century ago—for then there were no schools. Things aren't good now for a guy who can't get a job, or vote, or live in a house because his color or creed happens to be different. Things aren't good for a union that's been split apart by the seeds of racial and religious prejudice that have been planted by some crafty Big Mouth.

So we trade union folk still have plenty to do. Let's elect some boys for the Washington jobs who will see to it that jobs and the right to vote will belong to every American, no matter what happens to be his creed or color.

Let's do that and a hundred years from now our great-grandchildren will still be enjoying the highest standard of living in the world. And, again, a Big Mouth of 2050 will forget to tell him why.

Boston Apprentices

The Division of Apprentice Training, Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries, acted as host this year to the Fifth Annual Apprenticeship Conference, Atlantic Seaboard, at the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia, Massachusetts, June 15, 16 and 17, 1949.

Five hundred and seventeen (517) representatives of management and labor from twenty-eight (28) states participated in this three day event.

The Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union was well represented in the persons of Third Vice-President John P. Cook, Joseph L. Coullahan, Business Agent of Local 72, Frank Burke, Business Agent of Local 142, Roland LaValley, Business Agent of Local 25, and William Cohen, Business Agent of Local 6. The Conference arranged seventeen (17) sectional meetings involving various trades and industries. The purpose of these meetings is to explore various apprenticeship problems, offer solutions and improve apprenticeship in general. The section on Building Trades drew a tremendous number of delegates. This meeting lasted all day.

Another feature of the conference was our exhibition hall which housed exhibits from forty-one (41) firms employing apprentices who are registered with the various state apprenticeship councils that participated in the conference. This included a live exhibit which was under the direction of Vice President Cook. This exhibit was designed and erected by Apprentices Lawrence McIver and James Happle, in the classroom, then disassembled and transported to the conference and assembled much to the amazement of the many delegates present who had never had the opportunity of seeing lathers at work. The comments all during the conference of those viewing the erection of the exhibit were most praiseworthy. It was amazing the number of people who questioned Vice President Cook and the apprentices regarding their work.

I think that all of us who are associated with apprenticeship training, both in its promotion and its development, fully realize the only way an apprentice can really be taught his trade is under the guidance and supervision of journeymen mechanics on the job and by attending classes for related instruction for approximately 150 hours per year each year of his apprenticeship. These classes include trade science, blueprint reading, math as it is applied to the trade and certain practical problems that cannot be worked out on every job. Related classroom instruction for Local 72 apprentices is under the able direction of Vice President Cook assisted by William Carr, an architect employed by the firm of Perry, Shaw and Hepburn, one of the outstanding architectural firms in the country. Mr. Leo Renaud, Director of Vocational Education for the City of Boston, recently informed me that the instruction given Local 72 apprentices by Vice President Cook and Mr. Carr is second to none in the Commonwealth. This fine quality of instruction was most certainly evidenced by the extraordinary piece of work erected by apprentices McIver and Happle.

Great progress has been made in apprentice training in the last several years in every section of our country. This progress has been due to the full realization of management and labor that trained men do not appear just because some one wants them. They know that training is a primary responsibility of the industry, not just the employer, not just the union, but a joint responsibility of both parties. It was this realization that brought about the developing of a Joint Apprenticeship Committee for the lathing industry of greater Boston. This Committee is one of the finest now in operation in Massachusetts. Its success is due to the fine spirit of cooperation that has been given apprentice training by Joseph L. Coullahan, Business Agent, and the officers and members of Local 72, and Frank Baldwin, of the Master Lathers Association of Boston, and its officers and members. Both groups fully realize that the type of training received during apprenticeship determines the skill and quality of tomorrow's craftsmen.

Office and Warehouse Building of Mader and Cottrell, Pomona, California. See Page 5 for description of this job.

Lathers on Mader and Cottrell Job. See article below.

On the opposite page are pictures of the building erected for Mader and Cottrell of Pomona, California, to be used for offices, drafting room and warehouse.

Shown in the above picture are John Lucas, Lathing contractor of Pomona and San Bernardino; S. R. Sewell, lathing foreman; Fred Sanders and Lorne Larson, lathers, who handled this job.

The base of this building, including floors, is of cement.

The iron work is constructed of Milcor X-shaped steel studs.

All exterior walls are of 6-inch studs welded to floor runners, headers and cross-channel stiffeners.

The roof consists of Milcor Stay-rib clipped to steel channels, with reinforcing rods running opposite to the lath ribs.

The dividing interior walls, which separate the different offices and drafting space, are of 4-inch Milcor X-shaped steel studs.

All smaller walls, such as toilets and washrooms, are built of 2-inch solid Milcor studs.

Milcor products were used throughout this building, including base screed, door and window trim and galvanized 4-inch metal base.

A considerable number of visitors viewed this job while it was under construction and many of them inquired how its cost compared with wood construction. Such a comparative cost study is being made for this particular job.

This type of construction has many advantages. It not only creates work for us lathers, but it is profitable to owners and occupants, too, because it is termite-proof and also carries a very low rate of premium for fire insurance.

NOW WHAT DO WE DO?

by Ruth Taylor

So we lost. The picture is just the same as it was before our premature jubilation. We don't like it. But sitting down and beavailing our lot, crying "betrayal" and howling about "reactionaries" isn't going to get us anywhere. It just doesn't make sense. Sitting on the sidelines until a crisis and then making a show of our strength isn't the way to get what we want.

What can we do now? NOT sit still until just before another big election. NOT wait until our particular pet aversions are up for office. The slogan which has helped the labor movement grow into the force it now is was twofold "Elect our friends and defeat our enemies."

Notice two things about this phrase. First, it places the constructive act in the position of prime importance. Second, it is plural — and it does not specify only national elections.

Strength is a force that wanes with disuse. If labor is to prove effective at the next big election, each and every labor man has to begin right now to get ready for that day.

Get into politics. No, I do not mean to plan for a labor party. We are not set up on a caste system and there is no need for a class party. But government is the job of Labor just as much as it is of any group. It is the job of each workingman, just as much as it is of the lawyer, the banker, the industrialist or the professional politician. That is the latent strength of our democratic way of life. We all have a part to play. We all have work to do.

But we have to learn our job. And the place to begin is in local politics. Treat each local campaign with the seriousness and interest of a national campaign. Let your local politicians know your views — and that you are ready to work. Get in and fight for the local issues that concern the workers. Then when the big fight comes you will have experience and standing.

If you take your proper place in your local political set-up, if you prove the strength of organized labor in local issues, then when the time comes you will have a voice in the choice of candidates and won't have to just take the lesser of two evils. The candidates for whom you will fight, will be your candidates — your friends.

One thing more. Be a one-man-propaganda-team on the privilege of voting. Talk in your shop, in your local of the importance of labor registering for all elections. You know, and I know, that if labor men voted their convictions, there would be no anti-labor legislation. So get them in the habit of voting.

Now is the time to start — so go to it!

METAL LATH STANDS EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

An examination of the buildings undergoing the recent earthquake in the Pacific Northwest has proved once again the suitability and endurance of metal lath and plaster and other types of steel reinforced construction to withstand earth shocks.

Virtually no damage whatever was evident in buildings which were constructed of reinforced, monolithic materials and particularly so where metal lath suspended ceilings, steel studs in combination with plaster and two-inch solid channel, metal lath and plaster partitions were involved.

Exterior portland cement plaster also withstood the strains in unusually fine shape, and in many buildings where tile curtain walls were heavily cracked and damaged there were no cracks whatever in suspended or nailed-on metal lath and plaster ceilings.

As further evidence of the desirability of metal reinforcement, the many jobs which combined light stucco mesh overcoating over other types of lath before plastering also came through in good shape.

Northwest school designers were said to be giving particular attention to basic truths about design highlighted by the earth tremor.

The members of congress who fancy they are working hardest to hold back communism had better awaken to the fact that the tax policy which they support assures the destruction of the American enterprise system. As that is what they suppose they are protecting when they approve great outlays in support of military and foreign policy, they are lending themselves to a design far more dangerous to the American future than any that can be conceived to emanate from Moscow.

It is the height of illogicality for conservatives and devoted supporters of the incentive system to oppose Mr. Truman's domestic projects and at the same time to line up behind his foreign policy. This elementary truth must be understood before the country is destroyed by the very methods which are employed for the ostensible purpose of preserving it.

FIRST CHOICE OF THE TRADE FOR 64 YEARS

Man is a great builder. His edifices include magnificent terminals, huge hotels, mammoth theaters, impressive monuments, luxury liners, and aircraft of which our forefathers never dreamed.

These vast and magnificent triumphs of architecture and engineering awaken and deserve admiration. Yet man can live without hotels and theaters, he can even live without churches, but man cannot live without homes.

Yes, homes are the solidity of civilization, and those nations are strong where homes absorb the wealth of their communities. When homes are impoverished, and when new homes aren't built, nations, however spectacular may be their palaces and public edifices, are vulnerable to perils from outside and within.

Specify 2" Solid ROCKLATH* and Plaster Partitions

If you have a twelve-story building, it's possible to add extra space roughly equivalent to the addition of a thirteenth floor—by using 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions!

—On a smaller scale, you can gain enough room to accommodate an extra typewriter desk or filing cabinet in every 20 by 20-foot office!

With 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions you gain three inches along the length of every partition, compared with the conventional five-inch plastered partition.

2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions, properly plastered, have a one-hour fire endurance rating. They weigh only 16 pounds per square foot, installed, and have abundant strength. They cost no more, installed, than conventional partitions, and often cost less.

Ask your U.S.G. representative for the complete story of 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions next time you see him.

More than 25,000,000 low-income people live in slums or run-down city or farm homes. They can't afford better.

Now the government will help some of them through a public housing program.

It has three aims:

To get rid of slums. No one expects all the slums to be wiped out by this program. But it should make a dent in them.

Build houses — the so-called public housing — where low-income families, who have to pay low rent, can get decent dwellings.

Help poor farmers put needed repairs on their homes or even build new ones.

That, in brief, is the program. The big help from the government will be in money. The cost to the government:

Between $7 billion and $12 billion spread over 40 years in grants. These will be outright gifts of money.

Another $3 billion or so in loans. None of the money goes directly to individuals, poor or otherwise.

It goes to cities and communities. They'll have to hire private contractors to clear the slums and build the public housing for them.

When they can't foot the bill themselves, they'll get money help from the government.

They'll handle the slum clearance and run the public housing when it's built.

Some law to cope with national emergency strikes should be enacted. If labor tried to endorse the Taft-Hartley bill it could not have done a better job in that direction. The action of a few men surely made the people sit up and wonder what might happen if there was no law to protect them in the event that something might happen that would deprive them of necessities of life.

A one man control of a necessity might do just that. Then we might have another or many more such men as Harry Bridges who came into the country irregularly and beat an attempt by law of deporting him. What he can and did do here, he could not do where he came from.

There is no such word in labor's vocabulary as must, and no man in the movement can use the word "must". Some day there might be imposed on someone final authority that would be obligatory in our movement.

FAIR DEAL LABOR POLICY

From a speech by Senator Hubert M. Humphrey

Labor legislation does not determine the pattern of labor-management relationships, Mr. President. In that connection labor legislation is but one factor. Good will between employers and employees is another factor. A good community that is interested in the lives of its children and fathers and mothers is another important factor, a vital part of good labor-management relations. We can have all the law we want to have to tell the American people. "You cannot do this, that, or the other", but if we keep them living in slums, if we deny to a man the right to send his children to a good school, and if we deny a man health protection, we shall not be able to enact any kind of law which will make for industrial peace in this Nation.

I do not know whether we shall get around to doing that at this time, but I submit that the processes of democracy are as relentless and ever-flowing as the tide itself; and just as surely as we are here in the Senate Chamber today, if we fail to do our duty in 1949, there will be some of us who will be back here to do our duty in 1951, and I would not be surprised if there were new faces here then, because the American people, the working people of this country, the people who have been oppressed by this law, are determined that they are going to remove this kind of punitive legislation from the statute books, and are determined that they are going to have something to say about the processes of government, because this country is their country, as well as it is yours and mine.

STRATEGIC APPROACH

A young mother was having great difficulty with her three-year-old son who had locked himself in the bathroom and either could not or would not unlock the door. Finally, in desperation, she called the fire department.

After a brief wait, a burly fire captain ran up the front steps with an axe in one hand, a fire extinguisher in the other. She explained her predicament, but instead of going back for a ladder, he asked her the sex of the child.

When she had told him, he climbed the stairs and said in his most authoritative voice, "You come out, little girl!" Aroused at being called a little girl, the boy unlocked the door and marched out to confront the fireman. "It works just about every time," explained the grinning captain.

We have been giving billions to foreign countries. Some if it no doubt went to alleviate want and other good purposes, but much of it went to those who will dominate in any society. While we were giving this money away, as we might say, much of it could have been used to good advantage right here.

Now that the world is about fed up, let us try to get some money. So, if you need money for any purpose, homes, home repairs, clothes, sickness, don't worry. There is lots of it at the same source the money sent away came from. Write your Congressman, write your Senators to send you money, write plainly, stating your needs clearly and enclosing a stamped, return addressed envelope. Just don't be short, but you can expect to be disappointed.

MAGIC SEVEN

Seven is the holy number. There are 7 days in creation, 7 days in the week, 7 phases of the moon, every 7th year was sabbatical, and 7 times 7 years was the jubilee. There are 7 ages in the life of man, 7 divisions in the Lord's Prayer, 7 bibles, 7 churches of Asia, 7 Graces, 7 Deadly Sins, 7 Senses, 7 Sorrows of the Virgin, 7 Virtues, 7 Joys of the Virgin, 7 Precious Things of the Buddhas, 7 Sleepers of Epheusus, 7 Lamps of Architecture. The apostles chose 7 deacons, Enoch, who was translated, was 7th from Adam; Jesus Christ was the 77th in a direct line. Our Lord spoke 7 times on the cross, on which He was 7 hours; He appeared 7 times; and after 7 times

7 days He sent the Holy Ghost. There appeared 7 golden candlesticks and 7 stars in the hand of Him that was in the midst; 7 lambs before the 7 spirits of God; the book with the 7 seals; the lamb with 7 horns and 7 eyes; 7 angels bearing 7 plagues, and 7 vials of wrath. The vision of Daniel was 70 weeks; and the elders of Israel were 70. There were also 7 heavens, 7 planets, 7 stars, 7 wise men, 7 champions of Christendom, 7 notes in music, 7 primary colors, 7 sacraments of the Catholic Church, and 7 wonders of the world. The 7th son was considered endowed with pre-eminent wisdom; and the 7th son of a 7th son is still thought to possess the power of healing diseases spontaneously.

And the opposite of the dice total 7.

O. J. MISCHO, INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY-TREASURER, AMALGAMATED ASSOCIATION OF STREET, ELECTRIC RAILWAY AND MOTOR COACH EMPLOYES OF AMERICA, SAYS:

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness' are notable and historic words in America. All American workers envision these rights for themselves and those they love. They strive continuously to obtain them. In the course of this pursuit organized labor has been the most effective and consistent guardian of these fundamental concepts. During the course of its arduous history American labor has shown a wealth of ingenuity in finding methods to advance the interests of the workers. Foremost among them is the Union Label. No other force has implemented the economic power of American labor more than the use of the Union Label. Fair wages, decent hours, and healthful working conditions, which help to assure the rights of 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness', are symbolized by the Union Label. By patronizing firms that display the Union Label, Shop Card, and Union Button, we are protecting and guarding those rights for all."

TELL CHILDREN THE FACTS OF LABOR

I. M. ORNBURN, Secretary-Treasurer Union Label Trades Department
American Federation of Labor

Halloween falls on the eve of the last day of October. It is usually associated with spooks, witches, goblins, and numerous pranks. It always reminds me of the scare-crows and the many other bugaboos employed by anti-union propagandists and labor-baiting politicians against organized labor in order to scare the public. The best policy is to ignore them. Let's do a positive and constructive thing—like giving the American people the truth about the American Federation of Labor. Let's prove to them how labor unions have helped to make America the richest and choicest spot on the face of the globe.

The facts of labor should also be told to our children. A union man should be and can be the idol of American youth. It would be far better for America's future if our children learned skilled trades. That is why many A. F. of L. unions have instituted apprentice-training programs. After boys or girls have learned to be skilled workers—they will join a union. Many of them will then be better equipped for life than a college graduate from a liberal arts institution because they have specialized in a particular craft.

Over ninety per cent of employers pay little attention to the hate-spreaders, hired by the less-than-ten-per-cent of employers who usually pay sweatshop wages and do not desire to adopt decent working conditions which would place them in fair competition with honest employers in unionized industries.

Forward-looking business men who believe in good relations with their workers disregard also labor-baiting politicians. They go on turning out the goods and paying union wages that help to create purchasing power—the basis of our American economy, stability and prosperity.

It is the same type of alert and progressive managers of American industry who match their industrial ingenuity with skilled union craftsmen and produce the miracle products which bear the Union Label. The marvelous results of this labor-management cooperation can be witnessed in every display booth at one of our sensationally successful Union Industries Shows. We hope that it will not be long until our union-made products can be seen in the show cases and on the shelves of every fair merchandiser in America. We also hope that the services of those business establishments will be manned by union members.

However, if parents tell their sons and daughters the fake bedtime stories, concocted by subsidized copy-writers of anti-labor propaganda, our younger generation will be scared away from trade unions. Our American standards would be completely destroyed if the enemies of labor could have their way. Thank heavens, thinking people are learning the truth about American labor unions. Some have learned what they missed in life so they are educating their children about the facts of labor. They are teaching them to look for the Union Label, Shop Card, and Union Button.

Highlights Of Changes In Law Etc. Enacted at the 20th Convention

This Convention, attended by a total of 256 delegates, 222 from local unions and 34 from councils, plus 21 registered alternate delegates, was the largest and most representative ever held by our organization. The delegates displayed a spirit of genuine cooperation, and worked sincerely to advance the interests of the International.

Full details of all actions are furnished in the Convention Proceedings, now in process of publication, which will be sent to all local unions in the near future for distribution to their members.

The delegates enthusiastically endorsed the 1949 campaign of Labor's League for Political Education and actively supported it by their voluntary contributions amounting to $1,072.00 which have been forwarded to the League.

The Organizing Assessment of 25c per member per month was continued for three years upon the recommendation of General President McSorley.

The Convention Fund was retained and the Convention Fund Assessment was changed to 35c per member per month to provide for payment of salary, hotel expenses and traveling expenses of delegates from local unions as set forth in Resolution No. 10.

Section 198 of the constitution was amended to provide that convention delegates must have 6 months' membership in a local union immediately prior to their election.

Section 196 of the constitution was amended to provide for election of convention delegates no later than one month prior to the convention.

Section 179 of the constitution was amended to provide that a member must belong to a local 6 months before he can be classed as a local man.

Resolution No. 34 was adopted, specifying that the highest rate of wages paid to any journeymen (excepting foremen) on any job shall be established as the prevailing rate of wages on that particular job.

Section 3 of the International constitution was amended to include the words "or acoustical" after the word "plastic" on lines 8 and 12.

The next convention will be held in Houston, Texas on September 8, 1952.

Copies of the December 1, 1949 edition of the constitution, containing all of the changes in our laws as enacted by the 20th convention, will be sent to all of our local unions as soon as they are available.

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED!

By Ruth Taylor

How bad are things really? The unemployment figures are up, deflation, depression, recession, have become household terms, there is tension all over the world — and it is showing in frayed nerves here.

But — as a nation and as a people we have weathered worse storms than this. We can say that the only thing we have to fear is fear — but there is another sneaky little enemy that is a real Fifth Columnist, that bores from within. That is discouragement.

In one of his tales Kipling speaks of the tragic tale that is whispered among the rivets on a ship — of how one rivet grew discouraged at the magnitude of his task of holding the whole ship together, and so he pulled out — and the ship sank.

So it is when a man becomes discouraged. It is not only his own life that he affects, but the lives of those around him. They grow less sure, less confident in their own abilities. And the end is bad. For when many men become discouraged, then depression really settles down, for action becomes stultified, business slows down, industry grows cautious and the snowball has begun to roll, ever increasing as it plows along.

When a nation becomes discouraged, the end is in sight for that nation, for men become prey to the mouthings of the demagogues, feeding upon their fear, and promising change. We have seen it happen overseas. What is the Marshall Plan but a preventative of discouragement, the building up of people who otherwise might be too discouraged to resist subversive doctrines?

Of course, there are times when each of us is discouraged. I know with myself there are times when I just sit and look at my typewriter and groan over what I have written, when I feel I just can't express what I mean or what I should say. But there is one cure for that — a fresh, clean piece of paper.

So it is with our lives. The best cure for discouragement is a clean white piece of paper — a new day — and that is always ours. What matter the failures of yesterday — there is always another chance, an opportunity to use our God-given talents and ability to do something new.

Don't let discouragement get you down. The other day I was in Pat Gorman's office and I saw on the wall one of his sayings which struck home.

"A discouraged man is not always a quitter.

But a quitter is always a discouraged man."

You are no quitter — so don't let discouragement sap your strength and ability!

Our country has offered a greater opportunity for the common man than any other on earth, under a system of free competition. We are now threatened by those who would destroy this achievement by regimentation, price fixing and restraints which destroy all incentive to individual effort. Whether practiced by capital, government or labor, arbitrary fixing of prices of every nature will destroy the freedom that made us great, and through group control render us an easy prey to communism. Our present price fixing spree has already tripled the cost of all commodities, including housing.

If we do not return to free competition and individual freedom, subject only to the laws of the land, we will find ourselves drifting into a condition similar to that existing in Russia where all but government employes are little better than slaves with no incentive or opportunity for betterment.

Every now and then we hear from Washington about the "fixers" the "contact men" — today it's the "5 per centers." These are middlemen who talk big and impress gullible business men with their alleged influence with Government departments.

These gents usually have swanky offices and plenty of autographed pictures on the walls. They talk familiarly of their personal and intimate acquaintanceship with everyone from the President on down. Some business men get taken and taken heavily by these fast talkers. These men who claim to sell influence are vermin peculiar to the Washington scene.

Congress has been investigating their activities. We would like to feel optimistic about some real good coming from the investigation, but we simply cannot. Two reasons can be advanced for their continuance in some form or another in the Capital. One: Doing business with the Government is often made unnecessarily complicated. As long as it is complicated there will be a premium placed on the knowledge of procedures and practices. And this knowledge will be saleable. Two: As long as business men are willing to pay "management counselors" or the like for alleged aid in Washington, the breed will flourish.

The Veterans Administration warned it will take action against persons responsible for poorly and shoddily built homes for veterans which are financed under the GI loan provisions.

The veterans agency said that veterans complain daily about "serious defects" in construction. It told builders, lenders and appraisers that it expects conditions to be corrected "wherever they may arise."

The VA said that investigation showed that "structures have been erected . . . with poor workmanship or shoddy material."

"As a result," they said, "within a few months after the purchase of his home, the veteran is faced with inordinate repair costs and in many instances weaknesses in construction which are impossible to correct."

SHAPING CAMPAIGN STRATEGY FOR 1950 ELECTION

The American Federation of Labor is girding itself to concentrate all its political power, through Labor's League for Political Education, on the election of a large majority of liberals to Congress in 1950, regardless of party affiliations.

Plainly disappointed by the failure of the 81st Congress to enact repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and to adopt other progressive measures in labor's platform, the League's Administrative Committee blames the sorry record on the coalition of reactionary Democrats and Republicans.

The failure of repeal of the Taft-Hartley law has provided Organized Labor with a clear-cut blueprint of the task that must be undertaken in the 1950 election campaign.

Apparently, the die-hard reactionaries of both parties in Congress who managed to survive in the 1948 elections, still refuse to recognize the overwhelming mandate of the American people as expressed by their vote.

Thus, the A. F. of L. is faced with the fact that Labor's efforts in the 1948 campaign accomplished only a partial victory and that it must make certain to complete the job in 1950 if it hopes to gain the objective of good, progressive government in America.

As matters stand now the workers of this country can not feel safe and secure while reactionary forces are able to muster such strength in Congress as was manifested during the final arguments of the Taft-Hartley battle.

Even a cursory analysis of the situation in Congress today reveals the fact that instead of a 2-party system we have in operation a tug-of-war between reactionary forces from both parties on one side and liberals from both parties on the other. On many vital issues the pulling and hauling between these contending forces has resulted in a stalemate. No action at all, except on the Housing situation, has been taken by Congress after months of this session, on legislation deeply affecting the welfare of the American people.

It becomes clear, therefore, that a sizeable majority for the Democratic party in the 81st Congress offers Labor scarcely any greater comfort than the heavy majority the Republicans had in the 80th Congress. What Organized Labor and the country as a whole needs is a large majority of liberals in Congress, regardless of what their party affiliations may be.

To that end Labor's League for Political Education will dedicate its efforts in the 1950 campaign. From the reports submitted to the Administrative Committee it is clearly evident that the LLPE will be in a better position to carry on its work organization-ally and financially in 1950 than it was in 1948. Labor forces will soon be in a position to canvass voters on a precinct basis in every Congressional district in the nation and LLPE efforts are assured financial support from the great bulk of the 8,000,000 members of the American Federation of Labor.

Meanwhile, the league is going ahead with valuable and effective education and information work through the publication of a new weekly newspaper, the League Reporter.

What is the U.N.? An organization of the nations of the world to preserve peace. What is the Marshall Plan? A program whereby the United States supplies billions of dollars to back the U. N. objective.

What is the Atlantic Pact? The drawing up of an agreement between a group of countries to uphold the Marshall Plan. What is the new plan for arming European countries? That is a program to supply war materials to nations abroad which are in the Atlantic Pact, in order to back up the Marshall Plan, and thereby insure success for the U.N. and give us peace.

Since billions are being spent on these various projects and since peace comes no nearer, thereby necessitating more plans to help the plans already in motion, and perhaps to extend them to other nations, won't there soon be need of a program to keep the American citizen from being destroyed? Perhaps that is a reason why the great master minds are inaugurating a compulsory Federal health plan. The way Americans are bewildered and upset, there is bound to be a tremendous demand for doctors, nurses and hospitals.

WHY LABOR HATES INJUNCTIONS

By George Meany, Sec'y-Treas., A. F. of L.

Labor hates the injunction. Working people of this nation can never be reconciled to the use of judicial writs in disputes between labor and management. No other practice is so universally reviled among men and women who depend for life upon what they earn by their toil. And many millions of other Americans who believe in fair play join with labor in this detestation of government by injunction. Represented in this group are a substantial number of enlightened employers.

The most fundamental principle of our American governmental process is that the laws are written solely by men and women sitting in Congress and the State Legislatures who have been elected by the people. As a corollary of this principle, there is the rule that the law-making prerogative must never be usurped — not even to an infinitesimal degree — by the courts. The courts have their important work to perform — but this does not embrace the taking unto themselves of extra-legal powers.

It is also important to recall that the Constitution under which we live guarantees to each one of us certain rights — rights which are most precious and which are not to be set aside or nullified either by Congress or by a judge or by any other person or institution. These rights are freedom of speech, freedom of assemblage, freedom of the press and freedom of religion.

Nowhere does the Constitution speak of any right to issue injunctions to throttle these freedoms and to crush the lawful associations which wage-earners form to protect themselves against the arbitrary, brutal acts of greedy and ruthless employers. There is no such right under the Constitution — but in the latter part of the Nineteenth Century and for the first three decades of the present century a flood of anti-labor injunctions, compelling workers to desist from the exercise of freedom of speech, freedom of assemblage and freedom of the press, poured from the courts of the nation.

The courts which issued the injunctions were taking sides in the contest between workers and employers. And almost without exception, they took the side of the employer against the workers. Seldom if ever did a court hand down an injunction ordering an unscrupulous, grasping employer to deal fairly with his employees, to sit down around the table with the representatives of his workers and practice collective bargaining.

Seldom if ever did a court hand down an injunction ordering an employer to stop employing children 8 to 12 years of age for 50 to 60 hours a week in the mills, as children were employed in Massachusetts and other states for decades. No—injustices perpetrated by employers were not of interest to the same courts which were ready to issue sweeping injunctions against workingmen.

With the courts available for duty as highly effective strikebreakers, the anti-labor corporations laughed at labor's struggle to bring the working people of the nation out of the mire of the 14-hour day, and wages of a few pitiful dollars a week. In some industries the worker often had only a slip of paper at the end of the week showing that he owed the company money — after deductions for rent of a company-owned hovel and for purchases at the company's food store.

It takes little imagination to appreciate the jubilation of the mighty anti-union barons when they discovered that their dirty work was gladly performed for them by lawless judges. The Fricks and the Pullmans, whose aim was not only to block any betterment of the workers' condition but to smash and destroy the workers' unions, slashed wages, fired union members, did everything imaginable to provoke their employees to strike action and then they sent their lawyers into court.

The corporation's attorney would pull out of his pocket a sweeping injunction against the workers. The document would be all ready for the judge. Usually the judge would affix his signature without the change of a comma. The injunction would go into effect. Immediately the news would be spread over the front pages of the newspapers. The law-abiding citizen, with his deep respect for the law, would conclude that the workers were in the wrong, that they were to be regarded as criminals whom the law had to restrain.

This is how a typical injunction would read:

"The workers aforesaid are hereby restrained from combining together or with others with the design or purpose of causing a strike at the John Doe Company, and from ordering, recommending or approving or advising others to quit the service of the John Doe Company.

"The workers aforesaid are hereby further restrained from carrying, or in any manner or in any wise, exhibiting, any banner, sign, reading, printing, dodger, card or notice of any character having upon the same any statement that the John Doe Company is unfair to said workers.

"The workers aforesaid are additionally restrained from conveying, directly or indirectly, by means of any act or statement, or printing of any kind, in any publication of said defendants, any statement of the facts, or from which such facts could be reasonably inferred, that the plaintiff and his firm were or are unfair to organized labor."

One does not have to be a lawyer to note, in a quick scrutiny of the typical injunction recorded above, that the court had wiped out the workers' freedoms of speech, assemblage and the press.

WHAT'S SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE IS SAUCE
FOR THE GANDER

As the inflationary period began to show signs of ending, it is becoming all the more apparent that men over forty-five years of age are going to be the hardest hit. Yet those are the men who in the main are the better, because they are usually more skilled, more stable in habit and mind.

On the other side of the coin, who is it that appears to have the best chance to keep his employment come what may? On the bosses' side it is the over forty-fivers that count. Take a look at the bank and insurance company presidents and directors. Then take a look at the Senate. If you're under seventy, no need applying for a job there!

ANSWERS ON AMERICAN LABOR MOVEMENT

What is the American labor movement? When was it organized and how did it grow? How many unions and union members are there in the United States today? These are but a sample of the wide variety of questions which the Department of Labor is asked daily by workers, employers, public officials, students, and labor representatives from other countries. The Department attempts to answer these inquiries by describing in general and specific terms the history, structure, and activities of American unions.

From the time of the Philadelphia cordwainers (shoemakers) who organized in the 1790's to the present, the labor movement has been a typical "American product" — vigorous, militant, and dedicated to the improvement of the wages and working conditions of workers. It has weathered many depressions and has rebounded from numerous setbacks.

As it exists today, organized labor in the United States is made up of about 200 national and international unions. One hundred and five of these unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor (AFL). Thirty-nine, including two organizing committees, are affiliates of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO). The remaining 50 to 60 unions are known as "independents;" that is, they are not affiliated with a larger federated group such as the AFL or the CIO. Outstanding among these unaffiliated unions are the railroad brotherhoods, several organizations of telephone and Government workers, and also, at the present time, the miners and the machinists.

American labor unions early in 1948 claimed a new high in membership of more than 15½ million workers — the highest on record. Of this total, the American Federation of Labor, which was founded in 1881, reports more than 7 million dues-paying members. The CIO, formally established in 1938, says it has about 6 million members.

Since the low point of the depression of the early 1930's, total trade-union membership has increased fivefold. It is three times as large as the peak recorded in 1920 after World War I. Today roughly one out of every six persons 21 years of age or over belongs to a labor union.

A GENERAL COULD BE WRONG

General Omar Bradley recently appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee, and among other things said that one General Marshall or one General Eisenhower is worth many lesser men.

General Bradley's "lesser men" are in all probability those millions of boys who at least helped win the last war but who hold no rank higher than buck private.

We think it was an unkind remark on the part of General Bradley though we hold both Generals Marshall and Eisenhower in the same high esteem as does he. So long as wars must be fought for a democracy such as ours, equal credit should be given to those who give their lives in the cause of liberty.

It will be bad, indeed, if any of our high ranking generals ever consider the ordinary enlisted man as unimportant as did Napoleon at the height of his career. In one of his letters to Josephine from the battlefield, at which time his forces suffered temporary reverses, he wrote that the losses that day had been heavy but he thanked God there were no casualties among his officers.

Perhaps dead ordinary soldiers can be more easily replaced than top ranking officers, but who will say that the courage of the men in the front line is not equal to the courage of the general in charge who gives orders in most cases miles behind the actual scene of battle.

We admire General Bradley as a brave soldier — one of the best in a long line of illustrious officers who have served our nation in time of armed conflict.

It might be well to mention that every country that fought with the United States in the last war to preserve liberty throughout the world has erected a tomb to an unknown soldier. We have not been informed that any nation has erected a tomb to an unknown general.

It may be that the common soldier is born to fight and die unheralded, but we should not consider that in doing so he wastes any of the fragrance of liberty on a desert of insignificance.

HOW RUSSIA DOES IT

An official U. S. document, prepared by the Library of Congress, gives some interesting insights into the methods employed in Russia to speed up production. A few years ago, some Russian efficiency experts worked out figures showing the average production of workers in all lines of industry and agriculture. Prizes and bonuses were then offered, plus vacations, for production higher than the average. As a result, a percentage of the workers speeded up and produced more. Next year, however, the Russians boosted the average production figure, without raising wages, and required all workers to come up to it. Those who failed had their wages cut.

Today in Russia few workers can earn bonuses because the required production quotas are so high. Insanity and industrial fatigue, as well as accidents, are on the increase. Many average workers are breaking down; they cannot stand the inhuman speed-up.

In spite of these desperate measures, Russian production per worker is only about a fourth of that performed by the worker in an American plant.

In addition to workers who receive wages, the Russians also employ thousands of slaves — the best obtainable figure is 3,000,000—who receive no wages, poor food and live in barracks-like prisons.

That's the Communist way.

NOT A PRETTY PICTURE

Sizing up the current situation in halls of Congress, John R. Walsh, Representative from the Fifth Indiana District, had this to say:

"I regret to state that Un-American alliance of partisan politicians, Dixiecrats, and champions of special interests, has defeated the people recently in the halls of Congress. Politicos who have posed as the friend of the colored race have killed the anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, and other 'civil-rights' bills for which the people voted last November 2.

"Many of my constituents know that the poll tax, a vote requirement in many states, for example, is not wholly crippling to the rights of the colored folks alone. In the poll tax states, only one negro is deprived of his vote for every two white persons who are denied that constitutional right.

"Tactics of the opponents of the common man consist of having no constructive program but of resorting to blind opposition and opportunism. The Taft-Hartley bill has been kept on the books thus far in the 81st Congress by the opponents of labor resorting to endless argument, endless debate on crippling amendments, procedural delays, and by feeding a continuous barrage of anti-labor propaganda to the press and radio."

LABOR ODDITY

For our little "Labor Oddity" this time, let's consider some odd names of unions. We have mentioned the Skunk Skin Scraper's Union of St. Louis, which for a long time we thought the most unusual name that had come to our attention. Now we are not sure! Anyway, in this age of specialization, we come up again with this: Out in North Hollywood — that's in California, of course — there is a branch union that was called the Flea, Tadpole, Worm, Cockroach, Rodent and Bird Workers. It was a branch of the Animal Trainers and Handlers' Union No. 24096, which was duly chartered by the American Federation of Labor, September 5, 1945. That branch, again, was the Flea, Tadpole, Worm, Cockroach, Rodent and Bird Workers! (Labor Leader, Indianapolis, Indiana.)

WHY RUSSIA FIGHTS THE MARSHALL PLAN

The end of World War II found Soviet Russia the most powerful military nation on the European continent. At first U. S. policy was based on the belief that USSR would join with other nations to promote world recovery and peace. This belief was proved utterly false, first by Molotov's withdrawal from the British-French-Russian conference on the Marshall Plan, then by the Soviet's revival of the Communist International under its new name Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) with politbureau member Andre Zhdanov's instructions to its leaders: "As to the USSR, it will bend every effort in order that this (Marshall) Plan be doomed to failure."

It is easy to see why this course of action is essential to Soviet strategy. For the peoples behind the iron curtain in Soviet Russia and its newly acquired satellites, communism means living in abject poverty, in constant terror of the secret police and concentration camp, with basic freedom and justice denied. If these people see economic recovery and rising standards of living in western Europe under governments which protect individual freedom and justice, it will be the final proof that democracy is superior to communism. The falsehoods of the communist propaganda machine would then lose their power. These peoples might attempt to throw off the communist yoke and seek the benefits of cooperation with the west.

In the Soviet sphere, no genuine attempt is made to improve living conditions of the people. Civilian welfare is sacrificed to the promotion of war potential and production of military equipment. Also, the colossal inefficiency of Soviet government-controlled industry keeps living standards far below those of free and democratic countries.

Reliable surveys and figures show that under Communism the average worker's "real" wages have declined preceptibly, while "real" wages in the United States rose almost 100% over the same period.

Workers' income and conditions have deteriorated drastically in countries recently sealed off behind the iron curtain. For instance, from Czechoslovakia comes the report that since the communists took over in February 1948 the "additional wages upon which workers' existence was based have been abolished in many places, and . . . promises of 'popular democracy' to the workers have mostly resulted in smaller incomes, longer hours of work." The trade union general secretary, Antonin Zapotocky, "curbs the workers more strictly than any private employer has ever tried to do." The Soviet therefore seeks to keep living standards in Western Europe near its own levels.—(Monthly Survey, A. F. of L.)

After nearly 31 years of the dictatorship of the proletariat, Russia is suffering from low living standards and loss of individual freedom at home, and in international affairs has become an aggressive threat to world peace.

Domination of British affairs by the Labor party has resulted in financial crisis and austerity in living standards. The Labor government has been unable to avoid work stoppages, and has recently been in the midst of a transportation tieup.

MORE INFORMATION ON HOUSING SOON

The United States Department of Labor has expanded its housing statistics program for the fiscal year 1949-50 to include an on-the-spot survey of housing activity in 15 metropolitan areas. This expansion is due to an increased demand for local information on homebuilding.

Beginning with July, data on the volume of new housing started, and its characteristics are being collected by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. This material will cover the cities of Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, San Francisco, Seattle, and Washington, D. C. Each of these places is a major housing market, and in most of them the shortage of living accommodations is marked.

Results of the survey will be useful to all those interested in homebuilding, particularly builders and suppliers of building materials, and to housing agencies as a guide in making policy and administrative decisions.

The most important information developed will be monthly estimates of the number and average construction cost of non-farm dwelling units started in the areas. Such estimates can be of great value.

In addition, the Bureau is examining the kinds of housing being supplied. How many of the new units are in apartment buildings? How many of the new houses are served by community utilities? How many are stone, brick, frame, stucco, or a combination of these? To these and other questions the BLS hopes to find answers in the current area housing survey.

Publication of the results of the study will begin in the early fall, through press releases issued in the areas and through articles appearing in the Labor Information Bulletin and the Monthly Labor Review.

THE FIGURES DON'T LIE

In 1935, the cry went up that social security would ruin private insurance companies. In 1949, public housing is being attacked on the grounds that it will force private builders out of business.

Today there are 78 million life insurance policies in force in America. These are valued at $200 billion. These figures show that social security has helped private insurance companies just as it has aided millions of American people.

PROPOSED EXTENSION OF SOCIAL SECURITY

The House Ways and Means Committee has agreed on details of legislation extending social security coverage and increasing old age benefits.

There is a chance that the House may debate the bill before it adjourns this year, but virtually none of Senate action.

The committee measure goes a long ways toward meeting the social security goals of liberals.

Here is how the legislation would extend coverage:

At present, 35 million workers are covered by social security. Under the committee measure, an additional 11 million would be added to social security rolls—bringing the total to 46 million. In July, 59,720,000 persons were employed.

The 11 million to be added to the rolls include:

Certain self-employed persons, other than farmers—4,500,000.

Employees of nonprofit institutions, other than ministers—600,000. ((Nonprofit organizations would not be compelled to participate. But employees of them could get some social security protection even though their employers did not join the program.)

Domestic workers not in farm homes—750,000. (To be covered, domestic employees must make at least $25 every three months.)

State and local government employees—4 million. (States would have to make agreements with the Federal Security Agent in order to participate. Employees under state or local retirement systems could enter the program only if participation was approved by a two-thirds vote.)

Federal employees not under a retirement program—100,000.

Employees of miscellaneous groups—500,000. (These include the food-processing industry, nonprofit agricultural organizations and voluntary employee benefit groups.)

The committee also repealed the amendment to the Social Security Act enacted by the 80th Congress which kept 750,000 salesmen from participating in the social security program.

But the committee failed to include 5 million farmers and 3,500,000 farm workers. Liberals believe these two groups should be given the protection of the social security law.

Under the proposed legislation, minimum old age benefit payments would be increased from 50 to 150 per cent. The minimum primary benefit for old age pensions would rise from $10 to $25 a month. The maximum family benefit would move from $85 to $150 a month.

To finance the expanded program, payroll taxes would be increased from the present 1 per cent figure to 3¼ per cent by 1970.

AFL POLITICAL CONFERENCE SETS BIG DRIVE FOR 1950 ELECTIONS

Labor's 1950 election campaign strategy was mapped out at a conference of some 300 national and state AFL leaders called by Labor's League for Political Education.

Pointing for the defeat of anti-labor reactionaries in both Senate and House, the conference voted to recommend to the administrative committee of the LLPE a proposal to solicit from AFL members and their friends a $2 contribution for political work at the national, state and local precinct level.

Joseph D. Keenan, LLPE director, said the league would concentrate its activities in states where it has "better than an even chance to win."

Specifically, Mr. Keenan mentioned the states of Ohio, Indiana, Missouri and Colorado where the LLPE will concentrate its resources to defeat Senators Robert A. Taft, Homer E. Capehart, Forrest C. Donnell and Eugene Milliken.

The LLPE chief said, however, that labor would "have a pretty tough fight" to insure the reelection of Senators Wayne Morse, of Oregon; Carl Hayden, of Arizona; Lister Hill, of Alabama; Olin D. Johnston, of South Carolina; Brien McMahon, of Connecticut; Warren G. Magnuson, of Washington; Francis J. Meyers, of Pennsylvania; Claude Pepper, of Florida, and Elbert D. Thomas, of Utah.

The fund raising proposal submitted to the conference by a committee headed by Cornelius J. Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the California State Federation of Labor, urged the collection of $2 from each of the AFL's 8,000,000 members on a voluntary basis. The funds would be collected by the national LLPE which would, in general, retain half of the amount and return the other half to state and local branches. It was stressed, however, that in many cases the funds plowed back into state and local contests would exceed half or more of the total collected in those areas. The committee report, adopted by the conference, urged that the funds be used "in sections where it is most needed."

Expressing hope that the LLPE branches would have a political chairman in each Congressional district, Mr. Keenan said he also hoped that precinct captains would be named in some 50,000 of the 80,000 election precincts.

Comments of league officials who spoke at the conference served to emphasize labor's determination to wage a vigorous drive for the election of a Congress which would be receptive to labor's program.

William Green, AFL president, spoke of what he said was labor's success in the 1948 campaign, but he blamed the failure of labor to have its program enacted by the present Congress on "reactionaries." He also blamed reactionaries for the growth of communism. It was to teach the "reactionaries" a lesson that the Labor League for Political Education would have to devote itself next year, he added.

George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, suggested that the Senate vote on the Taft omnibus labor bill be the political "yardstick" for labor in 1950.

Mr. Keenan told reporters that organized labor would seek to make a solid front with other groups in order to join the congressional battle next year for common objectives.

High up on the labor list for attainment, he said, will be repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and reenactment of a modified Wagner Act.

Then would come social security legislation and minimum wage extension, he added. Labor would also press for health insurance, civil rights legislation and federal aid to education.

WIT and HUMOR

A New Way of Viewing It

An irate enthusiast, who had watched his home team go down to defeat, stopped the umpire as he was leaving the field.

"Where is your dog?" he demanded.

"Dog?" exclaimed the umpire. "I have no dog."

"Well," said the grouchy one, "you're the first blind man I ever saw who didn't have a dog."

Hearing a crash on the platform, the agent dashed out. He was just in time to see the tail end of the train vanish from sight, while a very disheveled young man lay flat on his face, surrounded by upset milk cans and the contents of his suitcase.

"Was he trying to catch the train?" the agent asked a small boy.

"He did catch it," replied the lad, cheerfully. "But it got away again!"

Two patients were sitting alone in the doctor's waiting room. One turned to the other and said:

"I'm aching from neuritis!"

"Glad to know you," said the second. "I'm Mendelhaus from Chicago."

The plasterer's wife asked the little grocery boy his name.

"Humphrey," answered the boy, and added that the last name was Bogart.

"Humphrey Bogart, eh?" said the wife. "That's quite a well-known name."

"It darn well ought to be," the boy agreed. "I've been delivering groceries in this neighborhood for four years now!"

Bishop Dignan tells of the time he was walking toward Maynooth College in Ireland and the pleasant Irishman with the heavy brogue stopped him with a cheerful, "Gooood mrrrrnin', Bishop."

They talked of Maynooth, of the professors there, of Ireland, and of the U. S. Finally, the Irishman said, still in his rich brogue, "Sure and it's a schmart lot of porfessors they have in Maynooth. Latin, they know, and Greeek, and some of them Hebrew. Would you be after remembering aany of your Hebrew, Bishop?"

Bishop Dignan confessed that his memory there was tricky. The Irishman reached into his pocket and pulled out a program. "For if you did rrremem-ber aany of it, faather," he said, "you might like a look at the program of the opening of our new syna-gogue in Dublin."

The Irishman with the delightful brogue was the rabbi of that synagogue.

She had insisted on taking along every garment she owned. They arrived at the station loaded with baggage.

"I wish," said the husband, thoughtfully, "that we'd brought your piano."

"Now, let's not try to be funny," came the frigid reply.

"I'm not trying to be funny," he sadly explained "I left the tickets on it."

Sober Observation

First Drunk: "Whassat sign say?"

Second Souse: "It sez, 'Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Dresses'."

Traveling Crowded at Times

"Stand up!" shouted the evangelist, "if you want to go to heaven."

Everyone got up but one old man.

"Don't you want to go to heaven, brother?" shouted the preacher.

"Sure," said the old man, "but I ain't going with no excursion!"

"Certainly, Mum, I dined with—oh, well, you don't know him; and we went to several places I don't suppose you've been to; and finished at a queer little club—I forget its name, but it's in a cellar somewhere in town. So everything's all right isn't it, Mums?"

"Of course, darling. It's only that I just like to know."

Didn't Bother Her

The waiter was taking the order of a pretty girl who was accompanied by a florid, pudgy, middle-aged man.

"And how about the lobster?" the waiter inquired.

"Oh, he can order whatever he likes," came the startling reply.

A local farmer down in Texas was driving along in front of an out-of-stater when he pulled over to the right, reduced speed, then turned directly in front of the following car, causing a nasty collision.

When the Texan became noisy about the damage to his car, the tourist politely reminded him that slowing and pulling to the right did not indicate a left turn. "Furthermore," he said, "I didn't see you give any hand signal."

"Signal, hell!" shouted the irate farmer, pointing at the dirt road into which he was headed. "Everybody knows I live right up there!"

AMERICAN LABOR IN 1949

By Maurice J. Tobin

Secretary of Labor, United States Department of Labor

The year 1949, finds the American wage earner better off than any other wage earner in the world, and assured that his freedom will be protected and his economic advantages improved.

Our standard of living has been mounting steadily for a century. Today an ordinary worker's hourly wage buys four times what his great grandfather's hourly wage bought in 1847.

His weekly wages represent a three-fold gain in purchasing power over 100 years ago, for a work-week that has shrunk by one-third.

The quantity and quality of goods and services available to him beyond the basic requirements of living have contributed substantially to his wellbeing and enjoyment of life. They are the measures of the high standard of living which he enjoys.

There have been marked improvements also in his health and life expectancy, education, recreation and travel, civil and political rights.

The growth of the labor movement has given him a greater participation in group economic and political decisions, and a more direct voice in his government.

Two factors have contributed to the constant improvement of the purchasing power of his hourly and weekly wages: increased productivity and greater bargaining power.

Increases in real wages, or purchasing power, have more nearly approximated increases in productivity in recent years when union strength was on the upswing and protection of the right of collective bargaining became a government policy.

The labor movement is 16,000,000 strong today, and showing signs of continued vigorous growth.

American wage earners and their unions have contributed to the strength and welfare of the nation.

Productivity is again on the upswing as technological developments made during the war are adapted to peacetime production.

This will provide for further improvements in our standard of living if the workers are given their just share of the productivity increases.

The future welfare of labor and the nation depends on a free, democratic union movement that can bargain wisely and well with free management for a just balance between productivity, wages and prices.

Government has its part to do, to improve the health and insurance facilities available to all the people, especially the unfortunate and weak, and to keep the economy strong.

Those programs add up to a policy of progress and evolution attained through a democratic free people.

We are going forward, the way we always have, under a system of justice and freedom to all our citizens.

SITUATION AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

No union can expect almost automatic wage increases to accrue from so-called national wage patterns.

Those days are over. From now on, labor leadership is going to have to work overtime to build solidarity and militancy in the shops. Trained shop stewards and an aggressive rank and file are the best insurance for labor survival today.

Unorganized workers are uneasily aware that hitchhiking can have drawbacks. As long as workers were in demand, many unorganized plants had to pay wages comparable with those in organized shops. That necessity no longer exists today. There's plenty of fertile soil for new organizational activities. It is well worth remembering that union membership sharply declined in the "prosperous" 20's and climbed during the "hungry" 30's. Naturally, the Wagner Act was a powerful factor but it is the urgent need for organization that actually brings workers into the labor movement. Resentment over job conditions is increasing and so is interest in unionism.

It is, of course, futile to speculate upon the future intensity of union activity on a national scale without knowing the nature of the new labor legislation. Whether or not an equitable federal labor law will be enacted is still very uncertain. There is at least an even chance that the T-H Act will be repealed in name and its more odious sections reborn in new legislation carrying a less infamous title.

But in any event organized labor has learned the techniques of political action and education. The unions are now learning to coordinate and combine both political and economic tactics in self defense.

The fate of the T-H Act is now in the hands of the politicians. But the future of the American labor movement is still in the hands of America's organized workers.—(Labor Digest.)

A GOOD UNIONIST

A good union man takes a real interest in his union; he attends meetings regularly, expresses opinions, and is always prepared to serve faithfully in any job assigned him.

A good union man is loyal; he knows his union well and is ready to defend it staunchly and intelligently against the criticism of labor's enemies.

A good union man is patriotic and public-spirited; he has deep devotion for the principles of democracy and free enterprise, and is quick to speak out against any forces which preach radicalism; he is active in community affairs and works hard for good government—local, state, and national.

A good union man is a good American and a good citizen.

No other city has done more for its illhoused than New York. That doesn't mean the shortage is over. New York still needs another 200,000 apartments.

New York, which has twice the population of Chicago, has about six times as many public housing units. Most of New York's 60,000 public housing units have sprung up since V-J Day. Since that time the city has added to its skyline 43,000 units, buildings from five to sixteen stories tall. That's an average of 1,000 new flats a month.

New York City doesn't depend altogether on housing handouts from Uncle Sam. It has its own program of self-help which has resulted in 20,000 city-backed, city-built flats now under construction at a cost of $200 million.

This program, "city financed housing without cash subsidy," means that the city government guarantees the money, but does not put up any cash, merely credit. These "subsidy without cash" buildings are built by the New York Housing Authority which sells bonds to raise the money. The city, which put up no cash, backs up the bonds with its own guarantee.

These projects are not tax exempt, but they do get a break on taxes. They pay only the taxes that prevailed before the property was improved.

VIGILANCE

Keep a close and continuing watch over your legislators. See to it that they pass laws that will benefit all citizens and thereby will keep this nation prosperous. Remember, that reactionaries, anti-Fair Deal Big Business, and the communists are hoping for the United States to have another depression soon. Don't forget that these groups are religious, after a fashion, they "prey without ceasing!"

Only we workers of all classes by our industry, political activity, eternal vigilance and united efforts can avert a depression. In fact, if we, the workers, really work together we will be the children of the dawn of a new era, one that will be better than any that the world has ever known.

The principal sources of revenue of the United States are from excise duties on imports and exports, taxes upon liquors, tobacco, certain luxuries, such as theater admissions and income tax, which is at present by far the greatest source of revenue. No part of the taxes raised by the States is turned over to the Federal Government.

Let the communists have China; it will prove an interesting laboratory. They will have a real problem at last, for there is little of capitalists' property left which can be seized as a starting point. The communists must build almost from the bottom up. In other lands, they have taken over the earnings, work and products of several centuries of capitalistic labor and management — in China they can confiscate but will have only a fistful after they seize.

Although Treasury officials won't confirm it publicly, it's no secret in the prosperous farm states that many millions of dollars of income-tax revenue are being lost through widespread tax evasion by farmers. Some observers estimate that in Kansas alone more than 25,000 evaders get away with not reporting agricultural income up to $100,000,000 a year. One frequent dodge is to avoid records by selling grain to out-of-state agents for cash at a small discount from the local elevator price. Other "off-the-record" deals involve cashing checks in distant banks, selling products out of the county and investing in land or other assets on the spot, and maintaining bank accounts away from home.

VERNON A. HOUSEWRIGHT, PRESIDENT, RETAIL CLERKS INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION, SAYS:

"When the ancients discovered the principle of the wheel and lever, the stage was set for mechanized civilization. Ever since the gold and silversmiths of England started guaranteeing their craftsmanship by placing hallmarks upon their handiwork, the services and products of men and machines have had a higher material worth and an intangible worth—when they bore a Union Label. The Union Label is labor's trademark of excellence; the Union Shop Card and Union Button are the public's assurances of distinctive service. As a representative of the retail sales-people, I believe that all of us should pull together to make labor's teams—Union Label and Union services—the best in any league."

UNION LABEL LIKE ALADDIN'S LAMP

*I. M. ORNBURN, Secretary-Treasurer Union Label Trades Department
American Federation of Labor*

In the Arabian Nights, we read about Aladdin and his wondrous lamp. We recall that when he rubbed it, he could pluck from trees whatever he pleased and thus possess riches galore.

Well, Union Labels, Shop Cards and Buttons are like that lamp. However, they do not perform magic. They exist and are realistic. One gets practical results in higher living standards when he patronizes firms that display them.

After seeing the gorgeous displays of highest quality union-made merchandise and actual demonstrations of efficient union services at our Union Industries Shows, consumers are convinced that they can obtain all the necessities of life made or performed under union conditions.

They are not miracles. They are the results of a combination of inventive genius and skilled craftsmanship of union workers and fair employers under our free enterprise system. They are positive proof of America's industrial leadership in the world.

Now, if all these union-made articles and union services can be assembled in one great A. F. of L. exhibition, they can be made available by merchants to consumers in every city and other locality. They are obtainable in numerous cities now — but if not — demand them often enough and you'll get them.

Report of Delegates to the Forty-second Annual Convention of the Building and Construction Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor

The convention convened in the Continental Room of the St. Paul Hotel, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Minnesota, at 10 a. m. September 28, 1949 with Mr. Nick J. Smith, President of the St. Paul Building and Construction Trades Council presiding as Temporary Chairman.

The invocation was made by Rev. Francis J. Gilligan, St. Paul's Seminary.

Temporary Chairman Smith then made an address of welcome to the assembled delegates.

He next introduced the Honorable Luther Gundahl, Governor of Minnesota, who made an excellent address in which he expressed his wholehearted support of the workers in their aims and objectives.

The Mayor of St. Paul, the Honorable Edward Delaney, was then introduced and he too welcomed the delegates to the City of St. Paul.

The Commissioner of Public Safety, Honorable Robert Peterson, and Mr. Frank Thill, President of the Minnesota Building and Construction Trades Council, also made addresses of welcome.

Chairman Smith then turned the gavel over to the President of the Department, Richard Gray, who gave a short talk and then introduced Mr. John F. O'Connell, Representative of the National Constructors Association of Employers who discussed labor and management cooperation and the great progress made along these lines in recent years.

Mr. Ralph Wright, Assistant Secretary of Labor also addressed the assemblage and discussed the new and effective set-up in the Department of Labor, the Housing Act, activities of President Truman's National Labor-Management Conference, the Taft-Hartley Act, and the national economic picture.

The Credentials Committee then made their report and the various convention committees were appointed and assigned to their various tasks.

President Gray then introduced Mr. Jesse Larson, Administrator of the General Services Administration, who, among other things said:

"The vicissitudes of time have brought me to the responsibilities of the head of the General Services Administration, created by the enactment of Public Law 152 and signed by the President on June 30th of this year. That law brings together what was formerly the agencies constituting the Federal Works Agency, namely, the Public Buildings Administration, the Bureau of Community Facilities, and for a short time the Bureau of Public Roads was likewise in this family of agencies, under the head of the General Services Administration. We have also under our jurisdiction the Bureau of Federal Supply, the Office of Contract Settlements, the National Archives, and we have the responsibility of liquidating the surplus property program currently being carried on by the War Assets Administration.

There is on the statute books today Public Law 105, which provides for the building of approximately 450 Federal buildings scattered in every Congressional District in the United States.

There is available, or will be shortly, $40,000,000 for the acquisition of sites upon which to build these buildings. There will be available shortly, within a few days, $30,000,000 to carry on needed maintenance for the coming fiscal year in existing Federal buildings. We will pursue this program as rapidly as Congress sees fit to make the money available and as rapidly as private construction fails to meet the needs of keeping the construction industry at the top employment in the various communities throughout this country.

We will, of course, be working closely with your organization and be sensitive to your interests in carrying out this great program of building Federal buildings to house the activities of the Federal Government.

There exists today, in my humble opinion, the need for 100 billion dollars worth of public construction in order to provide the people of this country with those things which they need in their communities for the general welfare. The school program alone involves a 10-year program costing upwards of ten billions of dollars, and there is legislation in the Congress today to relieve the very drastic and urgent situation that exists in many of our communities to furnish housing for the rapidly growing population of school age. We trust that that legislation will be enacted, and we appreciate interest which this organization and the various parts of the building and construction trades have manifested in that program.

Did you know — I did not know until it was brought to my attention — that 80 out of every 100 school buildings in America were built prior to 1930? Did you know that 20 out of every 100 school buildings in America were built between 1870 and 1890? I am merely citing this one example to emphasize the vast need for public construction and a public works program in this country.

There is today approximately eighteen and a half billions of dollars being spent in construction. Of that amount only $5,200,000,000 is being spent in public construction. There exists today a backlog of blueprints of public works—I mean public works past the planning stage, but in the blueprint stage on the shelf ready to be executed, of only about four billions of dollars, or less than one year's work if public construction is carried on at the same ratio as it is being carried on today.

Recognizing as you always have the soundness of advanced planning of public works, the American Federation of Labor and particularly the building trades organizations have been and are behind today, I hope, the one hundred million dollar advanced planning program which is pending in Congress, which was adopted by the Senate on Friday and is currently tied up in the Rules Committee of the House. We hope that it will come out during the week. This one hundred million dollars would only provide for blueprinting an additional three billion dollars of public works. You have recognized the need for planning public works when times were good, when there did not exist unemployment in the construction trades of your communities, so that when a period of unemployment came, the valleys could be leveled out in our economy by implementing and effecting and putting into construction those blueprints that we build up on the shelf when times are good. There are many people in the Congress and throughout the country, people in responsible positions, people in industry and people in public life who are prone to forget the necessity for sound planning of public works and they want to brush it aside when times are good and everyone is enjoying a degree of prosperity. But those of you who lived through the black period of the 30's as I did in a public capacity, and you in your responsibilities to your members in your own locals, know the disaster that can quickly come upon the country and the communities of this country.

So I urge you to give consideration, as I am sure you will, to the support which you have always indicated for the advanced planning of sound public works for the general welfare and the economic welfare of this country."

The first day's sessions of the convention then adjourned.

On the second day the invocation was rendered by Rev. Alton M. Motter, Executive Secretary, St. Paul Council of Churches.

Addresses were delivered by Mr. John P. Frey, President, Metal Trades Dept., A. F. of L., and by Rear-Admiral John J. Manning, C.E.C., U.S.N. The Admiral's address concerned a strong Seabee reserve force in the event of future war.

An address was also made by Mr. William F. Patterson, Director, Bureau of Apprenticeship, U. S. Dept. of Labor, commending the Building and Construction Trades Department for its training of apprentices, who today number 150,000 of all trades.

The afternoon session of the second day was addressed by Mr. James D. Marshall, Assistant Managing Director, Associated General Contractors of America, and Mr. George Meany, Secretary-Treasurer, A. F. of L.

Secretary Meany discussed at length the political and economic condition of the country with special emphasis on the workings of the Taft-Hartley Act and what Labor must do to increase its friends in the halls of Congress.

Mr. Thomas E. Ryan, Director of Labor Relations, Public Housing Administration, also addressed the afternoon session, discussing slum clearance and housing and their numerous ramifications.

Seven resolutions were introduced: (1) pertaining to Jurisdiction and Control over Construction Work on Dams, River and Harbor Improvement, etc.; (2) pertaining to per capita tax in Local Building and Construction Trades Councils—this was referred to the Committee on Law; (3) pertaining to a proposed amendment to Section 42 governing Local Councils was also referred to the Committee on Law; (4) pertaining to Water Pollution and the Erection of Plants for Treatment; (5) referring to Loans for Advanced Planning in Public Works; (6) calling for Federal Funds for Local Public School Agencies; and (7) referring to Agreements Relating to Settlement of Work Jurisdiction. This last resolution was adopted. It states that agreements entered into between and among Building Trades Unions relating to settlement of work jurisdiction shall be binding only on those organizations which were parties and signatories to said agreements and shall not affect the claim or rights of organizations not parties to the agreement.

The other resolutions, with exceptions noted, were also adopted.

A. F. of L. President William Green gave a lengthy address to the delegates with emphasis on the political activities of organized labor—its past accomplishments and what it must do in the future to eliminate the enemies of labor from public office and to elect our friends.

The report of President Gray dealt with a variety of subjects which are covered in the report of the Committee on the President's Report submitted by Committee Secretary Delaney as follows:

We your Committee on Report of the President want to compliment the President for his enlightening and educational observations dealing with all phases of the construction industry in his printed report to this convention.

The delegates to this convention should convey the information contained in this report to their membership in appropriate articles to be printed in the respective journals of National and International Unions composing the Department.

Economic Situation in the Industry

The Economic situation as outlined in the President's report under that caption gives a full and concise report based upon figures for the year 1948 and the first six months of 1949. This portion of the President's report is encouraging. It points out the increase in dollar volume of new construction for the first six months of this year over a comparable period in the year 1948, also the expectancy that the dollar value will reach a new high of 19 billion dollars.

The report further calls to your attention that man-hour productivity has increased and that the contractors find they must be satisfied with more reasonable profit. This condition should materially benefit both the contractors, the building trades and the public.

Your attention is called to the shift from private to public construction. Private construction fell off 5 percent in the first six months of this year. Public construction has increased 37 percent. The building trades can anticipate a further increase in public construction through slum clearance and public housing legislation.

Wage rates of building tradesmen in the first six months of this year have increased approximately 2 percent as compared with 7 percent for the corresponding period last year.

Employment in the construction trades has been good. It is expected this condition will continue for some time.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

The Taft-Hartley Act

Your Committee cannot too strongly urge upon each and every delegate to this convention the importance of reading President Gray's report on the Taft-Hartley Act. Make a careful study of this report so you will be able to return to your respective organizations and bring to the attention of your membership the importance of their fullest cooperation with Labor's League for Political Education in order that we will be fully organized for the purpose of defeating those members of Congress who voted against the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and any other Act which is detrimental to organized labor.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Jurisdictional Disputes

President Gray, the Executive Council and nineteen Presidents of the Building and Construction Trades Unions approved the new agreement for the settlement of jurisdictional disputes subject to the approval of this convention. This plan, while it may not be perfect, will give this Building and Construction Trades, Department and the contractors' committee an opportunity to settle jurisdictional disputes without interference on the part of those who know nothing about this industry.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Housing

The American Federation of Labor Housing Committee with the able assistance of President Gray is to be congratulated on the splendid work done in connection with housing, slum clearance, urban development and redevelopment, public low rent housing, farm housing and housing research. Through their untiring efforts this bill has now been passed.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Rent Control

Your Committee notices with interest that portion of the President's Report dealing with Rent Control.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Apprenticeship Program

The President in his report to this convention has outlined the wonderful record made by the unions composing the Federation in establishing adequate apprenticeship training programs in cooperation with the Bureau of Apprenticeship of the Department of Labor, and in conjunction with their respective employers' associations to provide a sufficient number of apprentices to take care of not only the present but the future need of the building and construction industry. Mr. Patterson in his remarks to the convention gave the building trades organizations credit for the fine work they have performed in providing all the apprentices needed under the circumstances. We recommend that the apprenticeship training program be continued by the building trades, and that in the future more time and effort be expended in seeing that all apprentices indentured to the trade be given ample opportunity to secure the proper technical training to permit them to become highly skilled journeymen of their respective trades and be a credit to the industry.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

The Armed Services and the Violation of the Davis-Bacon Act

The Department is to be commended on the action it has taken on this matter, since all building trades organizations will benefit directly by the recommendations of the two branches of the Armed Services when the question of maintenance and repair and new construction work is decided.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Navy Seabee Reserve Program

Your Committee noted that portion of the President's Report dealing with the Navy Seabee Reserve Program and recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Atomic Energy Labor Relations Panel

Your Committee recommends that President Gray and Secretary-Treasurer Rivers continue to serve as members of this committee and render every assistance possible.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

The Department of Labor

Under President Truman's Reorganization plan the Bureau of Employment Security has been transferred back to the Department of Labor by an Act of Congress. This by no means satisfies all of labor's demands in so far as the Department of Labor is concerned, therefore your Committee recommends that the incoming officers of the Department cooperate to the fullest extent with the present Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin in an effort to have the United States Department of Labor restored to a position that can adequately represent the interest of labor in every field that affects the workers. We are of the firm belief that the President of the United States will also use his power and influence to have the Secretary of Labor take his place with other Cabinet Members, and be recognized as a Cabinet Member in every sense of the word, and that he will be given an opportunity to restore the Labor Department to a level that will give labor proper representation in the conduct of governmental affairs. The Department in the past has been despoiled of its most important functions and in the words of your President, "funds allocated to this Department have been reduced from time to time, making it impossible for it to function for the best interests of the workers."

The Building and Construction Trades Department demands that adequate appropriations be made for the future conduct of the Department and we again demand that the Department be restored to its former strength and position, and in addition thereto that it be expanded.

Your Committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Overtime-on-overtime Legislation

Your Committee commends the action of the Department in this most controversial question which is now covered by Public Law No. 177.

Your committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

State Labor Legislation

Your Committee recommends that all Building and Construction Trades Councils be called upon to render every assistance possible to State Federations of Labor for the purpose of combatting anti-labor union legislation and returning to private life those members of the state legislatures who introduce and approve of such anti-union legislation.

Your committee recommends adoption of this portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

Life Magazine Round Table Discussions on Housing

Your Committee recommends adoption of that portion of the President's Report.

(Adopted.)

This concludes the recommendations of the Committee on the Report of the President and we respectfully request approval of the report of the Committee which is signed by the full committee.

John J. Murphy, Chairman
A. H. Cronin
John W. Garvey
Jos. J. Delaney
M. A. Hutcheson
COMMITTEE ON PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

The motion to adopt the report of the Committee as a whole carried unanimously and the Committee was discharged with a vote of thanks by the Chairman.

A stirring address was delivered by Mr. Joseph Keenan, Director, Labor's League for Political Education, in which he gave a report of the activities of the League in the past and what he hopes it can accomplish in the future in furthering the interests of the workers of the nation.

The Committee on Law, of which our General President McSorley was Chairman, reported. On Resolution No. (2) the Committee recommended an amendment which would permit local councils to charge not more than $1.00 per month or $3.00 per quarter per capita tax instead of the $0.50 and $1.50 mentioned in the resolution. After some discussion on the floor of the convention the matter was referred to the Executive Council.

Resolution No. (3) which would require some changes in the laws of the Department was also referred to the Executive Council.

Various other committees made their reports.

One of these was the Committee on the Report of the President (see Page 3) and another was the Committee on the Report of the Executive Council. Both of these reports, which include activities of the Department and actions taken on every matter referred to them, are too lengthy to report on in detail as they cover 55 printed pages.

Covered in great detail in the President's report were such matters as the economic and political situation, Taft-Hartley Act (5 printed pages) including elections, legal attacks on unions for secondary boycotts, various legal decisions, injunctions, violations and alleged violations of the act, etc., jurisdictional disputes, housing, slum clearance, low rent housing, farm housing, housing research, rent control, apprenticeship program, the armed service and violation of the Davis-Bacon Act (which requires payment of prevailing wages), Navy Seabee Reserve program, atomic energy labor relations panel, the Department of Labor, overtime-on-overtime legislation, state labor legislation and the Life Magazine round table on housing. In concluding his report President Gray stated:

During the year I testified before both the Senate and the House Banking and Currency Committees in support of the slum clearance, urban development and redevelopment and public housing bills; I appeared before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee to testify on repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. In addition I submitted a brief on two bills which would have continued and expanded apprentice schools for veterans and permitted veterans enrolled in such schools to work on public buildings of all kinds. This legislation, if adopted, would have gone far to destroy our present system of training apprentices in the industry. I appeared on a number of radio programs, addressed the annual convention of The Associated General Contractors and the annual meeting of the Building Trades Employers Association of New York, and gave the keynote address at a mass graduation of apprentices in San Francisco, California.

I was active during the year on a number of committees, including the Housing Committee, the Tax Committee and the Legislative Committee of the American Federation of Labor. I served as a member of the Committee appointed by President Green on Labor Relations in Atomic Energy Installations. In addition I was a member of the Public Works Construction Advisory Committee of the General Services Administration (formerly the Federal Works Administration), the Labor Advisory Committee to the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and the Policy Committee of the Construction Industry Advisory Council.

In concluding my report, I want to thank my colleagues on the Executive Council, the Presidents of the affiliated national and international unions, as well as the officers of the state and local building and construction trades councils, for the wholehearted cooperation which I received from them in the past year.

Fraternally submitted.

RICHARD J. GRAY, President.

The report of the Executive Council is quite lengthy and covers many different subjects. The Council decided 37 cases and the report covers 26 printed pages.

One of the cases considered and acted upon by the Council is of great importance to the Lathers' International Union and also to other International Unions. The case is printed as follows:

CASE NO. 2. Protest of Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union Re Case 65, National Joint Board.

At the January meeting Vice President McSorley presented protest in reference to the recognizing of an agreement of record by the Board of Trustees between two trades affiliated with the Department

CORRECTION

Local 215 has reconsidered its action of revoking the apprentice indenture of Luke Anthony Labagnara, published in the October 1949 issue of The Lather, and has restored his status as an apprentice as of January 3, 1947, the original date of his indenture.

Report of Delegates to 42nd Convention

as being recognized as a decision and binding upon other trades. He referred to the presentation of an agreement entered into between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Sheet Metal Workers International Association by the late President Hynes of the Sheet Metal Workers International Association to the convention of the Department in 1928, which agreement was approved by the convention by majority vote, after protest by the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union. Vice President McSorley in his protest referred to Article III, Section 1, third paragraph of the Plan for National Joint Board for Settlement of Jurisdictional Disputes.

This matter was thoroughly discussed and the following motion was carried, Vice President McSorley dissenting: That the action of the Board of Trustees set up under the National Joint Board for Settlement of Jurisdictional Disputes in Case 65 be approved.

Although our General President McSorley cast the lone dissenting vote on the Council's action at the time it was acted upon, other trades finally came around to his way of thinking and as a result, a resolution introduced by the Ironworkers International Union stating—as had President McSorley months before—"that an agreement between two or more International Unions should be binding only on the parties to the agreement", was unanimously adopted by the convention without a single dissenting vote.

The many other cases were of no direct importance to our membership with the exception of a few items that have been printed in The Lather from time to time.

Secretary-Treasurer Rivers made a report of his activities, mostly routine office work. He reported 19 International Unions in good standing with the Department, the issuance of new charters to 16 new Councils and the reinstatement of 5 others.

All of the former Vice-Presidents were re-elected. They are as follows:

L. P. Lindelof, First Vice President
Wm. J. McSorley, Second Vice President
Daniel J. Tobin, Third Vice President
Robert Byron, Fourth Vice President
Wm. E. Maloney, Fifth Vice President
Daniel W. Tracy, Sixth Vice President
Martin P. Durkin, Seventh Vice President
M. A. Hutcheson, Eighth Vice President.

Respectfully submitted,

Wm. J. McSorley,
Harry J. Hagen,
Walter Matthews, Delegates.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNION SECRETARIES AND MEMBERS

Effective December 1, 1949, the Convention Fund assessment is raised to 35c per member per month as voted at the 20th Convention, making a total of $1.60 to be sent for each member with your monthly report to headquarters.

Another law which becomes operative on that date is the one which provides that one-half of the renewal fee for withdrawal cards belongs to the International. After December first, secretaries must send $2.50 to headquarters when they report the renewals of both regular and honorary withdrawal cards.

The revision of the International constitution to include all of the laws passed by the 20th Convention will be completed by the end of this month. We will then mail to all of our local union secretaries a copy of the revised constitution for each of their members and charge the accounts of the locals with the number of constitutions sent to them at the rate of 15c each.

Terry Ford,

LABOR LOSES A GREAT FRIEND

With the death of Mr. Justice Frank Murphy of the United States Supreme Court, labor lost one of its greatest friends. He was a true liberal who believed passionately in the rights of man. He always fought for man as a human being, not as a mere unit in society.

One of Mr. Justice Murphy's strongest expressions in this regard came when he spoke for the Supreme Court in ruling that iron and bituminous miners are entitled to underground transport pay. Said the jurist:

"The issue can be resolved only by discarding formalities and adopting a realistic attitude, recognizing that we are dealing with human beings and with a statute (Federal wage-hour law) that is intended to secure to them the fruits of their toil and exertion. We are not here dealing with mere chattels or articles of trade but with the rights of those who toil. The statute must not be interpreted or applied in a narrow or grudging manner."

The Supreme Court judge had an extremely varied background. He had been lawyer, teacher, mayor, state governor, Philippines Governor-General and High Commissioner, Attorney General, and officer in the U. S. Army in both world wars before ascending the bench of the highest judicial tribunal.

The record of Frank Murphy is one of unselfish service to his fellowmen. Few leaders of our time can be compared with Frank Murphy in the humane approach and fidelity to his ideals with which he performed his tasks. Labor and the nation have lost a great friend. We will not see his like for many a year.

When a country ceases to produce rich men, it begins an era of economic stagnation, a communal level, nobody rich, where everything is based on the bread and butter level of the ordinary working man: art, culture, inventions, growth and new things are not produced.

Eliminating all the rich people, present and future, will not eliminate poverty. When men make fortunes, thousands profit directly and indirectly, there are more jobs, materials are purchased, money is kept in circulation. Where all are poor, ambition, incentive, is dead.

Just the loudmouthed leftists enjoy the fat of the land as they did with such succor as we contributed to the people of the European countries, hoping and intending it would reach the more needy. Maybe some of it did, but not until the bellies of the more aggressive were filled up. It was Ingersoll who said, "Here is a penny for the needy, and here is a dollar to get it to them." So goes the world today and always. There always will be those who will get everything, and those who get the leavings.

We are Americans all. Color or creed or class must be no barriers to our brotherhood. Our aristocracy must be one of individual, not inherited worth. All we ask is opportunity to work for ourselves, our family, our nation. We do not ask for special privilege—only to be American.

Thanksgiving

THINK and thank, the great dictionary tells us, grow from the same stem. To think is to thank. The thoughtful are always thankful; ingratitude is an element of thoughtlessness.

We have lived to see a thankful generation give place to a thankless one, and both impress us with their honesty of attitude. The former generation did not pretend to be thankful, nor does the present one, yet the former without pretense was thankful and this without pretense is not. Their likeness is in their lack of pretense. Their difference can be resolved, not by denouncing it, but by explanation, and fairly to do this we must understand.

This generation is cut off, in its conscious experience, from the sources of its life. Pavements interpose between its feet and the soil; the shelves of grocery stores between its food and the fields; the colossal shelter of cities between its face and the elements, and the fallacies of civilization between its soul and God. Seedtime and harvest pass unheeded; it bows down to laboratories and machines, to banks and warehouses; it worships all conveyances of supply as if they were the source, for these are all the source it knows. When, therefore, in a recent year, we saw the President's Proclamation laid aside by one with the remark that he knew what he had to thank for what he had—his own right arm, his industry, his foresight—we took it as an honest act. His thanking went as far as his thinking.

For thankfulness is but the grateful perception of the order of life, appreciation and approval of the preparation—Providence, really—which so amply meets the human need and yet affords such scope for man's enlargement that never has he even glimpsed the nearer limits.

Presidential Proclamation recommends giving thanks to Almighty God for the blessings of the year; this is a footnote to that document, directed to those who cannot reach as far as thankfulness, yet able perhaps to attain to thoughtfulness about it all. All that we have is a gift. Our friend who thanked his good right arm, his industry and his foresight, will presently see that they are gifts. Our ability to serve multitudes through our industrial civilization is a gift. There is nothing that we have that was not given us. Experience is a gift, and the power that turns it into wisdom and character is also a gift. These considerations bring to mind the thought of a giver.

We think the Giver is so generous that thanks makes no difference to Him, "for He is kind unto the unthankful and the evil," but it may make a difference to us. A gift is giving and receiving, not giving alone. You cannot give your son his opportunity unless he will take it. God Himself cannot give us more than we will receive of Him. And receiving has its degrees. He who receives greedily receives much less than one who receives appreciatively. The dinner of herbs eaten with thankfulness is more—even nutritionally—than a banquet with ingratitude. In the end we believe the thankless have really nothing to be thankful for, as nothing can be owned by whom it is not appreciated, so nothing is really possessed except in thankfulness. Thanks is the final act of appropriation, the seal of ownership.

Beneath our Thanksgiving custom there is, therefore, something very sound. It is not mere form that leads them to thank God. The more thoughtful one grows, the more clear it becomes that perceptible providences, numerous as they are, must be greatly outnumbered by the unperceived providences surrounding our lives. But even when men start with daily bread, the lines run back and back.

Back of the loaf is the snowy flour,
And back of the flour the mill,
And back of the mill
The wheat
And the shower
And the sun

Report of Delegates To The Sixty-Eighth Convention Of the American Federation of Labor

Pursuant to law, the sixty-eighth convention of the American Federation of Labor convened in the St. Paul (Minnesota) Auditorium on October 3, 1949. Among those extending a most cordial welcome were the following: The Hon. Edward K. Delaney, Mayor of St. Paul; Judge Gustavus Loevinger; Robert A. Olson, President, Minnesota State Federation of Labor; and George Lawson, Secretary, Minnesota State Federation of Labor.

The invocation was delivered by the Most Reverend James Byrnes, Auxiliary Bishop of St. Paul.

President Green responded to the warm welcome extended to the delegates and others in attendance in well-chosen and sincere words of thanks.

In this great keynote speech, President Green declared "the trade union movement will mobilize every ounce of strength it possesses to defeat the Taft-Hartley supporters and elect friends of labor to Congress." He called attention to the membership of the Federation of 8,000,000 members as compared to a membership of 2,000,000 at the time the Federation held its convention in St. Paul thirty years previous. Quoting from his speech: "that's deeply significant; it proves that we have a movement that grows and expands in strength and influence, and that it will continue to grow and expand as we increase the desire in the hearts of the working men and women that they want to enjoy a higher standard of life and living." Calling attention to legislation effected that is highly beneficial to workers President Green stated: "There is Social Security legislation that we are fighting for. I am happy to tell you that we secured the passage of the Housing Bill that we had supported for many years. It will be of tremendous benefit to all the workers of the nation. Our Fair Labor Standards Act was amended so as to substitute a 75c an hour minimum for a 40c an hour minimum, so we have made some definite progress in that direction."

President Green recalled the success of labor in the 1948 elections when reactionary Senators who voted for the Taft-Hartley law were defeated in Minnesota, West Virginia, Illinois and Tennessee.

"It is my opinion that, conscious of our responsibilities and our duties and of the power we do possess, the votes of the workers of the nation can be mobilized, united and vote and freedom can be restored to the workers of the nation to engage in collective bargaining without legislative restrictions of any kind whatsoever," President Green said.

He called this the freedom of contract. He said the AFL believes in the four freedoms—speech, assembly, religion and press.

"And the workers of the nation will add to those four freedoms the freedom of contract—to sell across the table all we have to sell, and that is our labor—under the most advantageous circumstances and the best conditions obtainable," he said.

"It is our purpose to fight to regain that freedom that has been taken from us by this reprehensible piece of legislation," President Green said. "We maintain that we have just the same right to sell our labor across the conference table under the most favorable circumstances possible as the employer may exercise the right to sell the product of the factory to the customer under the most favorable circumstances possible."

"Why should freedom be protected for him to engage in the sale of the products of labor unrestricted but labor be denied the right to sell its labor across the table—all it has to sell—under the most favorable circumstances possible?"

President Green said that this freedom of contract is closely inter-related with the economic philosophy of the AFL. He said the AFL stands "an uncompromising force around, behind and beside this government against the threat at home and abroad from ideological experiments."

"In the preachings of 'isms', let it be fascism, nazism, communism, or any other kind of 'ism,' we have explored the situation sufficiently to know that it is in the heart and the mind of American working men to remain devoted to only one 'ism', and that is Americanism," President Green said.

The Credentials Committee reported upon the credentials of 619 delegates, representing 93 national and international unions, 4 departments, 44 state branches, 130 central bodies, 57 local trade and federal labor unions and three fraternal delegates and recommended that they all be seated. All of our delegates were appointed to serve on various committees.

Secretary Meany read a communication from President Truman to the convention. In his message, the President said that the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law ranks in the number one position labeled "unfinished business" as far as he and his administration are concerned. He asserted that the welfare needs of the people can best be satisfied by close cooperation between the farm and labor elements of this country.

Secretary-Treasurer Meany's report was examined and reported on by the Auditing Committee and showed the following: that the total receipts for the twelve month period beginning September 1, 1949 and ending August 31, 1949 amounted to $3,571,481.90 and the expenses for the same period amounted to $3,258,519.84, an excess of receipts over expenses of $312,962.06, and a balance in the treasury

August 31, 1949 of $1,223,682.55. The paid-up membership as of August 31, 1949 was reported as 7,241,290, an increase of 21,000 during the past year.

Secretary Meany read a Summary of the Executive Council's Report. (The report itself covered 210 pages, covering its activities on the domestic and world fronts during the past year.)

The Council urged reconsideration of the Shorter Standard Workweek and Work-day through collective bargaining, citing their belief—that a reduction in the hours of work will be necessary over the coming years to keep our national productivity in line with our national income. This is essential if high unemployment is to be avoided. The highlights from the Executive Council's report follow:

Taft-Hartley Act — "Developments under the act since 1948 have further confirmed all objections of organized labor to that law. . . . The more experience organized labor has under Taft-Hartley, the more obvious it becomes that total repeal must be accomplished at all costs."

Social Security — Benefits of present law called far too meager and coverage too limited. Action by Congress is urged on improvements proposed by House Ways and Means Committee.

Health Insurance — "We reaffirm our support for a national compulsory health insurance program as the only practical means of meeting the health needs of wage earners and others in middle income groups."

MVA — "Our position in support of a Missouri Valley Authority remains unchanged."

Merchant Marine Reserve — Proposed legislation for such a reserve is denounced. "Its underlying purpose would be that of a strikebreaking agency," the council warned.

Rent Control — Relaxing of controls in many areas is criticized. Rent control program, the council said, "must be maintained and strengthened until new homes are built in sufficient volume."

World Situation

As indicated in the introduction to their annual report, the Executive Council is keenly aware of the importance of the international situation to America's wage earners, both as workers and as citizens.

Under the above named title, and the subheads under this general title, a concise but comprehensive accounting of their work in the international field was presented.

An account of the work of the A. F. of L. International Labor Relations Committee; the activities of the A. F. of L. representatives in Europe; their activities in Germany and Austria; Latin America; Mexico was submitted.

The very important activity of the A. F. of L. in the International Labor Organization was outlined in the section under this caption.

There was also included a report of the Trade Union Advisory Committee on International Affairs of the U. S. Labor Department.

It will be noted that the Federation continues its active participation in the affairs of the United Nations and its component units, wherever and whenever we have been accorded an opportunity to do so.

Economic Cooperation Administration

The work of this agency for economic reconstruction of Europe is vitally important to America's wage earners. Under the above title, there was related a brief but important statement of the work of the Economic Cooperation Administration and the policies which are being followed by our Federal Government dealing with the rehabilitation of Europe's economy.

Formation of New World Organization of Labor

Attention was directed to the fact that the Federation is participating in efforts which are now under way to form a new world organization in furtherance of sound world unity of free labor and genuine labor solidarity and cooperation for freedom, economic well being, social justice, and lasting peace.

The Executive Council and its International Labor Relations Committee have offered definite principles and suggested positive proposals and policies for the organization and effective functioning of such a constructive world labor federation. We were officially represented in the provisional conference to form a new world trade union movement which was held in Geneva in June, 1949. The work of that conference was outlined for the information of the delegates.

Quoting from the Summary of the Executive Council's report:

"The Federation will also be represented at the meeting to be held in London, England, in November of this year for the purpose of setting up such a world organization of free labor."

Housing

"As indicated in the title, this section of our report deals with the very important subject of housing for workers. We regret that inadequate housing is still a major problem for millions of families in 1949. The housing problems of workers have been additionally complicated by the rent increases resulting from the weakening of the rent control program after passage of the Housing and Rent Act of 1949.

Attention is called to the fact that the A. F. of L. Housing Committee will need the continued assistance and support of every A. F. of L. affiliate in the coming year in order to successfully carry out Labor's housing program."

Wage and Hour Administration

"The very antiquated provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act are recorded in this section of the report. We therefore call for an increase in the minimum established by the 1938 Act, and adequate enforcement machinery to carry out the provisions of this important legislation."

A subheading under this general title — "Labor Standards on Government Contracts" calls attention to the fact that the U. S. Department of Labor has, during the past year, continued its program directed toward bringing up to date the wage determinations made under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act. Your attention is further directed to the 7 new determinations issued during the past year, and the activities of our organizations in achieving these higher minimum rates for the industries concerned. The importance of this program is difficult to over-estimate. We urge the Department of Labor to accelerate its program to the end that during the coming year all minimum rates under the Walsh-Healey Act will be brought up to date with the prevailing wage practices throughout American industry."

In Memoriam—Frank Morrison.

With deep sorrow, the Council reported briefly but none the less sincerely, the passing of Frank Morrison, who served so well for 43 years as Secretary-Treasurer of the A. F. of L. until his retirement in 1940.

The Hon. Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor addressed the convention on the second day. In his speech he advised that "since the FDIC Law was written, only 25 million dollars has been paid out to depositors in the banks of America, and the reserve fund is 25 times, or better, greater than $100,500,000,000 guaranteeing the deposits of all Americans in the banks of this country. Of necessity, that's naturally a great help to the economy but the greatest help to all has been what the Wagner Act has made possible, raising the members of organized labor from three million in 1933 to sixteen million by 1947."

Regarding the Taft-Hartley Law, Secretary Tobin stated that the repeal would certainly come in 1951, if not 1950, according to his own opinion. He stated that the special elections in New York, New Jersey, and San Francisco would have a lot to do with the repeal in 1950, should the Democrats sweep in these three affairs.

Welfare Program

Were it not for the labor movement, exploitation would still rule the land, Tobin said.

"Who fought against child labor; who took little children out of the mines and mills of America?" he asked, and then answered: "It was the American Federation of Labor."

"Who pioneered in unemployment insurance? None other than your own 'Bill' Green back in 1912 when he was a member of the Ohio legislature."

Among others who addressed the convention were the following: The Hon. George W. Malone, Senator from Nevada; the Hon. Hubert Humphrey, U. S. Senator, Minnesota; the Hon. George M. Rhodes, U. S. Congressman, Reading, Pennsylvania; Mr. Eiler Jensen, President, Danish Congress of Trade Unions; Fraternal Delegates Lincoln Evans and Tom Williamson, British Trades Union Congress; Robert Rintoul, Canadian Trades and Labor Congress; Mr. Charles Peyer, former President, Hungarian Trade Movement Federation; Irving Brown, European Representative of the A. F. of L.; Henry Rutz, Representative of the A. F. of L. in Germany and Austria; the Hon. Paul G. Hoffman, Administrator, Economic Cooperation Administration; David A. Morse, Director General International Labor Office; Mr. Jerry Voorhis, Executive Secretary of the Co-operative League; Serafina Romualdi, A. F. of L. Representative for Latin America; George N. Craig, National Commander, the American Legion; Albert Woll, General Counsel, A. F. of L.; Oscar Ewing, Administrator of Social Security Agency.

A statement from Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, U. S. Special Representative in Europe addressed to the convention, was read by Mr. Boris Shiskin, Director, European Labor Division, Economic Cooperation Administration.

Major General Philip B. Fleming, Chairman, U. S. Maritime Commission also addressed the convention, as well as the following: John D. Connors, Director, Workers' Education Bureau, A. F. of L.; Congressman Roy W. Wier, Minneapolis; and the Hon. Louis Johnson, Secretary of Defense.

The Committee on Building Trades affirmed the endorsement of the Executive Council of the Sparkman Middle-income Housing Bill. We quote for your information from this Committee report, which was unanimously adopted by the convention:

"A careful study of the payments which an average union family must spend for housing indicates that almost one-half of their housing expense must go towards meeting principal and interest payments on the money which made possible construction of their home.

Under the Sparkman bill, direct loans by the federal government would make possible a 3 percent interest rate, compared to the 4½ or 5 percent rate now prevailing on real estate loans. Savings made possible by the reduced interest rate, the cooperative non-profit form of organization, and other provisions in the Sparkman bill would enable 4½ room units constructed under this program to rent from $50-$60 a month. This compares with the actual average rent of $96 a month for the same size apartment under the existing FHA loan provisions.

The Executive Council report also comments on developments in the administration of the rent control program. Under the existing rent control law, many communities and a few states have utilized the 'local option' provision to eliminate rent controls in their area. In several cases, this has led to extreme hardship in which union families have found their rents raised by as much as 30 percent. Although we wish rent controls to be terminated as soon as practicable, it is vitally necessary that these controls be effectively maintained in those areas where the supply of new housing accommodations is not yet equal to the demand.

These recent developments in the field of housing make it abundantly clear that A. F. of L. unions must maintain particular vigilance on these matters during the coming year. Your Committee is convinced that the most practical method of handling problems of housing is through community-wide activity by local trade union groups. In particular we urge each Central Labor body and each Building Trades Council to establish a Housing Committee. As we view it, these Housing Committees would have the following functions:

1. To take an active interest in local public housing and slum clearance projects under the new law, making certain that organized labor is fully represented.

2. To follow developments in rent control, seeing that the interest of union families is protected.

3. To stimulate interest in labor's 'middle-income' housing program.

With these recommendations, we ask for approval of these sections of the Executive Council Report."

The following sums up action of the convention on most important subjects confronting organized labor, and maps out its program for 1950:

1. An immediate start by Labor's League for Political Education to elect a Congress next year that will repeal the Taft-Hartley law and enact other liberal legislation.

2. Approval of President William Green's demand that the United States Senate pass at this session the expanded social security bill overwhelmingly enacted by the House of Representatives.

3. Endorsement of federal aid to education; provision of housing for middle-income families; repeal of Taft-Hartley law; a federal public health program.

On education, the convention urged federal funds for desperately-needed public school buildings, loans to needy students, worker education programs, promotion of economic trips for foreign travel, higher salaries for teachers and improved welfare services for children.

4. Reiteration of support for organic unity of all labor unions in the nation.

5. Consideration of an Executive Council recommendation to hold the annual convention on the third Monday of September each year.

6. Pledges from President Truman and Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin to work for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and enactment of liberal legislation for all workers.

7. A plea from Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator, to support increased imports from Europe so that she can help herself.

8. Appeals for continued A. F. of L. support of the worldwide fight against communism and totalitarianism from fraternal delegates and A. F. of L. representatives from Great Britain, Canada, Latin America, Germany, Hungary, Denmark, and other European countries.

9. Award of a plaque by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to Mr. Green for distinguished service in the fight for the abolition of racial discrimination in the labor movement.

10. Plans to start in January a drive for a million new members as a tribute to Samuel Gompers, first A. F. of L. president, and to coordinate it with the political education campaign for repeal of Taft-Hartley law and election of a liberal Congress.

11. Adoption of an international relations program supporting formation of a new free democratic world labor organization in London and urging against appeasement of communism and fascism anywhere. The A. F. of L. delegation will represent one-fifth of the 40,000,000 organized workers from 35 countries to be represented at the London meeting beginning November 28.

Provide military aid to Asia and China to repel Communistic aggression and provide economic aid to strengthen Europe on a continental scale.

Withhold friendship from antilabor and antidemocratic governments in Latin America.

Throw the full resources of this country into President Truman's "point 4" declaration to supply technical assistance to the underdeveloped areas of Asia, Latin America, Africa and other parts of the world

12. Endorsement of a shorter work-week to spread jobs and reduce unemployment.

13. Further moves to induce the International Association of Machinists to reaffiliate with the A. F. of L. and to merge all organized labor under the A. F. of L. banner.

14. Israel—The State of Israel was greeted upon its arrival among the family of nations, and its people and Hivadrut trade union movement praised for the tremendous obstacles overcome in the past year. The American people can be proud of its contributions to the world's youngest democracy.

15. Rail Unions, and specifically the A. F. of L. Railway Employees' Department was praised on the winning of a 40-hour week at 48 hours pay, plus a seven-cent increase, the convention hailing the achievement as an example "for the consideration of all our unions."

16. Reiterated its former stand against peacetime military conscription

17. While lauding congressional action on a 75-cent an hour minimum wage, the convention urged that sufficient funds be appropriated to provide for "effective enforcement" of the wage-hour act. A fight to extend coverage of the wage act to millions who are now unprotected will be carried on next year.

Labor Press. While authorizing a nightly nationwide radio program for 1950, the convention stressed that "the labor press is still the vital and most reliable medium for the education and enlightenment of trade union members."

Labor's League for Political Education. During the sessions of the convention, one day was set aside for a meeting of Labor's League for Political Education. At this time were discussed all of the subjects affecting the League in the coming campaign in the Congressional elections for the year 1950 and also the previous action taken by the Committee of thirty to raise a voluntary contribution in the sum of $2.00 from the membership of all affiliated organizations in order to carry on a successful campaign to elect congressmen and senators that would be favorable to the aims and objects of the working men and women of the United States. Reports were received from the Executive Committee of the League, as well as from Secretary Meany and Director Joseph Keenan. These reports were approved by the Conference of the League most enthusiastically—which in our opinion means that a strenuous campaign will be carried on by Labor's League for Political Education in order to elect our friends and defeat our enemies wherever possible.

Other members of our organization representing Central Bodies as delegates to the A. F. of L. convention were: Neil Haggerty, representing the California State Federation of Labor; Sal Maso, representing the Paterson New Jersey Central Body; John J. Vohden, representing the Essex County New Jersey, Central Labor Union; and Jerome B. White, representing the Madison Central Labor Union.

"A UNION MAN WHO LOAFS AT $3.00 AN HOUR"

"I know a union man who gets three dollars an hour, and he spent the first two hours yesterday morning loafing. I know a union man who carelessly smashed a three-hundred-dollar tool at our shop the other day. I know a union man who came on the job drunk this morning. I know a company where the union prevented the workers from turning out more than a certain number of units per hour with the result that the best workers were practically loafing all day. I know a union run by a small clique of thugs, and the membership never hears any financial accounts read at the union meetings."

Have you ever heard this litany of complaints against unions and union men? So have I, brother.

Do these abuses exist in certain portions of the union movements? Most certainly they do. Do similar abuses exist in every other sphere of American life? We all know they do. Twenty-five-thousand-dollar-a-year men have been known to loaf on their jobs. Some think nothing of taking a party of friends out for an evening, spending about eight hundred dollars, and charging it up to public relations. On the company account, of course. Business executives have been drunk on the job.

Yet, strange to say, the reaction on the part of the average American is notably different when he is judging the abuses of union men than when he observes similar abuses on the part of business executives. Why do so many Americans gnash their teeth and tear at their hair when they come across abuses among union men, while at the same time, Next Convention City. Invitations were received from Houston, Texas, Cleveland, Ohio and Miami, Florida. The Executive Council of the Federation is to decide this question at their coming meeting.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Council, Houston has been chosen as the convention city.

President William Green was reelected for the 26th term and Secretary-Treasurer George Meany for his 10th term. The following 13 Vice Presidents were reelected as a group, thus avoiding 13 nominating speeches and as many seconding speeches:

William L. Hutcheson, 1st Vice President
Matthew Woll, 2nd Vice President
Joseph N. Weber, 3rd Vice President
George M. Harrison, 4th Vice President
Daniel J. Tobin, 5th Vice President
Harry C. Bates, 6th Vice President
W. D. Mahon, 7th Vice President
W. C. Birthright, 8th Vice President
W. C. Doherty, 9th Vice President
David Dubinsky, 10th Vice President
Charles J. MacGowan, 11th Vice President

D. W. Tracy, 13th Vice President

Respectfully submitted,

WM. J. McSORLEY
HARRY J. HAGEN
WALTER MATTHEWS, Delegates.

they can accept as expected, to a certain extent, similar abuses among other Americans? In the interest of fairness, let us examine this.

By a strange twist of logic, millions of Americans have adopted a double standard of judgment; one for union men and one for the rest of Americans. Every abuse which is observed among a few union men is attributed to the whole union movement.

At the same time, similar abuses observed among men of other professions and other walks of life are attributed only to the persons guilty of those abuses. A crooked businessman is branded personally; all business is not condemned. A major league ball player disgraces himself by unsportsmanlike conduct; the fans in the stands do not condemn the game. A doctor who is callous and careless in his treatment of patients is condemned personally; the medical profession, itself, is still regarded as worthy of honor and respect.

People fail to realize the obvious fact that union men represent a cross section of the morality of the American people. Misled by propaganda, caught up in a hysteria of prejudice, polite women over tea-cups, the man next to you on the subway, that nice fellow who lives next door, all set up a criterion of angelic behavior for members of unions.

It would be wonderful, of course, if union members should live up to this criterion, and we hope that they will make some progress in that direction. But it is obviously unfair to demand this criterion here and now, while we shrug our shoulders at the existence of similar evils in other walks of American life.

LOOKING AHEAD

A timely warning comes from the National Planning Association in a proposal to start a long range plan to insure America's economic future.

So critical are the world's problems that we have no time "to blunder into the future; we must plan for it," says the NPA. And this planning does not encompass any new and fantastic economic schemes but "the most trusted economic principles of the past."

The National Planning Association calls for a vast program, long-range in nature, to build a better America. Says the association, "There is work in this country crying out to be done, not all of which an unaided capitalism can undertake. There are slums to be cleared; houses and roads, schools and hospitals to be built; railroads to be modernized and reconditioned. There are natural resources to be husbanded through reforestation, soil conservation and flood control. There are substandard areas in the deep South which urgently require intensive effort."

This business of making America stronger for the future will go far not only in insuring prosperity and solvency tomorrow, but will be essential to help the whole world out, for America is the pivot point of world stability — the Western world that is.

The broad program of the National Planning Association is backed by business, labor, agricultural and civic leaders. It is a plan worth serious consideration by the United States Congress.

HOW TO PICK THE PEOPLE'S POCKETS

We can't keep your rent from rising. But we can at least explain why it's going up. After that it will be up to you. You, and the other members of your union, the other families on your street, can take care of the people responsible for picking your pocket and handing you what amounts to a pay cut. You can do it with your little ballot in November, 1950.

Here's the story:

A few months ago the landlord lobby renewed its assault on the last remaining citadel protecting the cost of living—rent control. It demanded and got from Congress a change in the rules of the game.

Before this change a landlord had to show that he had made "major capital improvements," or that other rents for similar space in the neighborhood were substantially higher, before he could hike your rent.

After this change he could get permission to boost your rent by showing that he wasn't getting what they call a "fair net operating income." Graciously the rent control people at Washington decided that this should be 25 per cent of his investment, whether or not he was repairing the steps, or painting the place, or keeping the plumbing in shape.

Under this change in the rules hundreds of thousands of workers' families are now facing a choice between eviction or paying higher rent. In Cincinnati alone over 2,000 petitions from landlords who want to hop on the gravy train were received by the rent control office in the last two weeks of July.

Next step in this wholesale pocket-picking operation was for Congress to write into the law a clause giving cities and states the power to decontrol rents. The landlord lobby figured it would be even easier to buy decontrol from city councils and state legislatures than from the U. S. Congress.

As a result of this move, 118 communities had rent controls lifted by local government. Four states passed decontrol laws. This wasn't enough to please the landlord lobby. City councilmen and state legislators were living too close to the irate tenants and didn't dare lift the lid.

So now comes the latest blow. Speaking on August 17 before a convention of disabled vets in Cleveland, Mr. Tighe E. Woods, Housing Expediter, announced that on or before October 1 the rent ceiling will be taken off in 350 of the 1,000 counties still remaining under rent control.

The reason, said Mr. Woods, is that Congress slashed his rent control budget from $26 million to $17.5 million, or 35 per cent. Congress made this cut although it knew full well the work load of rent control offices had increased by as much as 50 per cent as landlords fought to get into line for those "fair net operating income" increases, and as tenants pleaded for continued ceilings.

That cut in the budget, amounting to $8.5 million, is a typical example of the way the "economy bloc" in the Congress "saves" money for the taxpayers. They "save" $8.5 million by a slash which will cost the tenants many times that amount.

Obviously, the landlord lobby decided it could accomplish through budget-chopping what it had failed to accomplish by changing the rules and by opening the way for cities and states to raise rents. By pulling the strings on its Charlie McCarthy friends in Congress (one of the lobby's warmest friends is actually named McCarthy, the Senator from Wisconsin) it saw a chance for a triple squeeze play:

Squeeze a few million out of the rent control budget.

Squeeze the rent control offices by forcing fewer people to handle a growing load, making necessary the 35 per cent wholesale decontrol move.

Squeeze more dough out of you by giving the landlord a free hand to charge what the traffic will bear.

Who is responsible for this high-level pocket-picking operation?

You can blame the landlord lobby in part, for they certainly masterminded the play.

But mostly you can blame those pusillanimous members of the United States Congress who use their votes to take money out of the pockets of the many to fill the wallets of the few.

And who are the watchdogs for the landlord lobby?

Why, they're the Dixiegops again! the GOPsters and the polltaxers. The Tafts and the Rankins. That same coalition which refused to repeal Taft-Hartley, which killed the President's civil rights program, the Brannan plan and 80 per cent of the Fair Deal program.

When the rent goes up as a result of these shenanigans, don't rest at cussing the landlord. Go down to the Board of Elections and register to vote. You can help take care of the guy responsible by getting your friends and neighbors to the polls in 1950.

Who would think that the affairs necessary to stabilizing Western Europe after the war would wind up in a fracas like that of a bandit's fracas, but that's what it looks like to me. Instead of giving Germany aid in her aspirations, the opposite seems to be the case.

We, the United States, are under great expense in efforts to restore Western Europe to its former standing. To restore Europe we must include Germany, the traditional workshop of Europe. We cannot defend Western Europe unless we can defend certain rivers that divide Europe. In fact, we can do nothing beneficial to Western Europe while we allow Germany's industrial plants to be torn down and shipped east, or to India, or somewhere else. You cannot restore Europe to its former greatness without restoring Germany. Germany is the pivotal nation in Europe, and Europe will only be as great as Germany. Why spend money in Europe and tell a great nation in that section that she is to be outlawed forever from the rest of the nations that go to make up Western Europe?

All we hear is Russia this, and Russia that, Russia, Russia, Russia. Restore Germany to her former strength and she will take care of Russia. In fact, Europe needs a strong Germany to cope with Russia, and we might as well tell Europe that now.

The United States, as the ark of freedom—including freedom of enterprise—should give to the West Germans full sympathy and support in their evident aspirations. We are striving, at almost boundless expense, to restore Western Europe as a self-supporting area.

We cannot do so unless our reconstruction plans include Western Germany, the traditional workshop of productive Europe.

We cannot defend the Rhine and the Elbe unless we mobilize the manpower and the industrial resources of Western Germany. We cannot do either if we permit the remains of Germany's industrial plants to be torn down and shipped east of the iron curtain, or if we continue to tell the penitent West Germans that they are to be outlaws forever from the rest of civilization.

On a dark and stormy night the trainman was, signaling to the engineer when he dropped his lantern to the ground. A yard clerk passing by tossed it back to him on top of the car. In a few minutes the engineer came rushing up.

"Let's see you do that again!"

"Do what?"

"Jump from the ground to the top of that box-car."

PUBLIC OPINION VIA 3c POSTAGE STAMP

"Write to your congressman! Tell him how you want him to vote!"

How many times have you heard that cry on the radio or read it in the newspapers when a vital issue was being debated in Washington? And how seriously do the voters take this call to duty?

Very seriously, indeed. Today there are few congressmen who receive less than fifty letters a day; most receive more.

Our senators are snowed under. For example, Robert A Taft of Ohio receives about 700 pieces of mail daily; Claude Pepper of Florida about 250; Paul H Douglas of Illinois close to 500; and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota over 400. Senator Humphrey's monthly average is over 10,000.

Representatives generally receive less though the volume is still impressive. Frances P. Bolton, from Ohio's 22nd District, receives from 75 to 200 letters a day; Helen Gahagan Douglas, of California's 14th District, averages around 600 a week. W. Sterling Cole, representing New York State's 39th District averages between 75 and 100 letters daily; during a controversial debate in the House he may receive as many as 1,000 in a day.

How much influence do these letters, telegrams, wires, petitions and postcards have on the voting of our representatives?

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas votes according to what she thinks will best benefit her constituents. Their communications may substantiate her position on an issue, but do not influence it once she has studied the matter and made her decision. Senator Humphrey finds the barrage of mail useful when he is undecided on an issue, but generally finds them a not too "accurate gauge of public opinion back home."

Letters do perform the important function of alerting our congressmen to the questions that the citizenry feels are urgent. Letters to congressmen which express the personal views of the writer are more influential than form letters or mimeographed petitions or sentences lifted bodily out of the bulletins and propaganda sheets of pressure groups.

Though the task of replying to the thousands of communications takes hours and energy from the overcrowded lives of representatives, senators and their staffs, the mail is generally appreciated. It is one of the media through which the legislators can ascertain the views of their constituents on public matters.

As Senator Humphrey has said: "It is high time that we pay careful attention to the actual practical workings of our system. One of the ways of making our citizens interested and concerned with this problem is making them realize how important it is that their representatives hear from them."

Dave Hyatt,

Assistant Professor, New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University

You might expect an airplane to cross the peak of a mountain two miles high, but you wouldn't expect an ocean-going ship to do it.

Yet this is what happened at a point in the North Pacific Ocean 800 miles west of Seattle. The Pathfinder, a ship equipped with scientific survey instruments, located a huge undersea mountain and took its measurements.

The peak proved to be 11,500 feet high. This tops the record previously held in this area by Mount Miller, which rises 11,300.

The North Pacific's biggest undersea mountain is now being studied by scientists.

Navigators predict that ships will some day be equipped with instruments which can locate underwater peaks and use them as guides. Just as they use landmarks today, so they may some day chart their way by "seamarks" below the surface.

"VOLUME-DESTROYING" TAXES

Labor agrees with President Truman on most things but can't see eye to eye with him on the question of the war-time excise taxes. Though these taxes are a burden on business, reducing sales and employment, particularly at a time of slackening industrial activity, the President favors their retention. Labor believes they should be eliminated or reduced.

Striking evidence of the effect of the taxes has just come from the Western Union Telegraph Co., whose business is hampered by a 25 per cent excise tax on telegrams. Reporting a deficit of $5,091,795 in the first 7 months of this year, compared to a loss of $1,192,500 in the same period in 1948, the company attributed it to the reduced business activity and to the "volume-destroying effect of the telegraph excise tax."

For the 7 months, revenues from telegrams sent by the public, which bear the full impact of the tax, declined 9.1 per cent, the company added.

The Commercial Telegraphers Journal said some months ago:

"The war is over. Telegraph employes want employment. The excise tax is discouraging and impairing the use of telegraphs. It should be eliminated entirely."

The same thing could be said of the wartime excise taxes on transportation fares, electric light bulbs, amusement admissions, luggage and other things. They should be eliminated or at least greatly reduced.

Switzerland is the model country of Europe. Here Catholics and Protestants, Germans, Italians and French live happily side by side. The fact that German language predominates among Switzerland's five million odd inhabitants, does prevent the election of French and Italian people.

There is no record of racial or religious intolerance within the Swiss borders. When refugees of the wars of the middle ages settled in Switzerland they put common interests first as a protection from rapacious bordering countries from which they fled to find peace and comforts. Perhaps Switzerland shows the way to the solution of Europe's problems. Why contention between those of different religions or national extraction?

Russia awaits only the opportunity to satisfy the mania of its leaders for world conquest and dominion. What difference if the people of Russia, the little men and women of that country, don't want war — as we hear so often among ourselves? They don't make wars — they only fight them.

The leaders, vain, glory-seeking, with dreams of a page in history as the saviors of their people, keep aggravating another nation and then, calling upon their countrymen, to avenge insult and uphold the glory of the fatherland, declare war — and it's waged as usual — with these same leaders basking in publicity and patriotism, the little men and women fighting, suffering, starving, dying.

The state of the building industry is the best criterion of the nation's welfare. The prosperity of the nation depends on the prosperity of the building industry. There are more different industries that contribute to construction than to any other industry. There are more different conveyances of materials to a construction operation than any other feature of industry, in other words more industries depend on construction than any other feature of our many industrial enterprises. Count the different materials that are hauled to a plastering operation, and you will have a fair idea of the many industries that contribute to a construction operation.

Any Way You View It

What good is it to be rich when you're dead? It's a lot better to be not quite so poor when you're alive.

And that's what the labor movement is for, Brother. That's why we're union men.

Let's remember that.

Do not overlook this either: what's good for you is good for the union. You can turn that around, too! What's good for the union is good for you.

It can be reversed in still another way: What's bad for the union is bad for you.

WIT and HUMOR

A mother, testifying on behalf of her son, swore that he "worked on a farm ever since he was born."

Triumphantly the opposing lawyer leaned over to her and thundered: "You tell this court that your son worked on a farm ever since he was born?"

"I do."

"What did he do the first year?"

"He milked."

Sailor—"Don't bother me. I am writing to my girl friend."

Marine—"But why are you writing so slowly?"

Sailor—"She can't read very fast."

Social Outcast—"Say, doc, do you remember last year when you cured my rheumatism? You told me to avoid dampness."

M. D.—"That's right. What's wrong?"

S. O.—"Well, can I take a bath now?"

Suggestion Seconded

An old Irishman collapsed in the street and a crowd of neighbors gathered around him, all trying to help and each making suggestions.

One, Maggie Riley, kept shouting, "Give the poor man whiskey," but little attention was paid to her amidst the excited babble.

Then the agonized voice of the Irishman rose above the din: "Will the lot ov ye hould yer tongues and let Maggie Riley speak."

Mrs. Murphy: "What's a jeep? My boy Mike writes that he's running around with one."

Mrs. Clancy: "It's an Army automobile."

Mrs. Murphy: "The saints be praised. I thought it was a female Jap."

"Why are you wearing spectacles, old chap?"

"Well, through crossword puzzles I've contracted an optical defect. One eye travels vertically and the other horizontally."

Ask the Clerk

Uncle Ephraim is an aged dorky, who has retired from his labors to sit upon his shady veranda and watch the world go by.

"Mandy," he said to his faithful wife the other day, "I has noticed one big difference twixt men and women."

"Whut's dat?" asked Mandy.

"Jes' dis," answered Uncle Ephraim: "a man'll gib $2 for a $1 artikle dat he wants, an' a woman'll gib $1 for a $2 artikle dat she doan' want."

One morning Brown looked over his garden wall and said to his neighbor: "What are you burying in that hole?"

"Oh," he said, "I'm just replanting some of my seeds, that's all."

"Seeds!" shouted Brown angrily. "It looks more like one of my hens."

"It is. The seeds are inside."

"All those who would like to go to heaven," said the Sunday school teacher, "please raise their hands."

All did except one.

"Why, Johnny," exclaimed the teacher, "wouldn't you like to go to heaven?"

"Nav," said Johnny, "not if that bunch is goin'."

Visitor—"I suppose you find poultry raising a good paying thing?"

Farmer—"Well, not to me, but my son does fine with it. I bought the fowls for him, I have to pay for their feed, then I buy the eggs from him, and he eats 'em!"

Another Theory

The teacher asked Johnny, who was in the third grade, if the world was round. He answered: "No."

"Is it flat?"

"No."

"If it isn't round and it isn't flat, what is it?"

Johnny looked very confident as he replied: "Daddy says it's crooked!"

Pretty Good Haul

The small boy sat holding a fishing pole with the line dangling in a flower bed.

"What are you fishing for, my man?" asked a passerby.

"Suckers," was the reply.

"Catch any yet?" continued the onlooker.

"You're the eleventh today," said the fisherman.

Mandy had been robbed and was telling the court the circumstances of the case.

"Wall, suh," she said, "on this particular day there was a big Republican parade going on. Ah was leaning out mah winder when this guy sneaks up and slams the winder down on mah neck and robs me!"

"Do you mean to say that while all those people were in the street, you let this man rob you without making an outcry?"

"Yessuh. Ah coulda outcried, but Ah didn't want them people to think Ah was cheerin' a Republican parade."

Meany Puts Finger On The Dixiegos

Secretary-Treasurer George Meany of the American Federation of Labor put his finger on two of the chief sore spots on the body politic in a speech recently at the New York State Federation of Labor Convention.

He jumped on Dixiecrat Senators as "wolves in sheep's clothing" and on the Republican Party as "the tool of the small number of individuals who control and direct the most powerful corporations."

These reactionaries are due for a sharp surprise in 1950, Mr. Meany predicted, if the members of organized labor and their families and friends make certain to register and vote, "because the American worker today doesn't vote the way the corporation-owned newspapers advise him to vote."

Hits Dixiecrat Group

Without pulling his punches, Mr. Meany named Senator Byrd of Virginia, Senators Eastland and Stennis of Mississippi, and Senator George of Georgia as typical of the Dixiecrat group "all of whom might more accurately be described as the Senators from the Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers."

After reviewing labor's unsuccessful efforts to obtain action on repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act at the current session of Congress and after detailing the various compromises agreed to by AFL leaders — short of the anti-strike injunction, which labor will never swallow — Mr. Meany lit into the Republicans. He said:

"Before I close I want to call attention to the very sad plight of one of our major political parties. I refer to the Republican Party. There are some good men in the Republican Party, but they are woefully outnumbered.

Suicide Contemplated

"Let's be frank about this. What is the Republican Party trying to do? Is it determined to commit suicide? It certainly would appear that way to any observer.

"Look what happened in 1948. The Democratic Party was split three ways. There were, first of all, the regular Democrats. Then there were the so-called Dixiecrats, the reactionaries who walked out of the national convention and set up their own candidate for President. Then there were the Henry Wallaceites, made up of extreme left wingers.

"And yet the Republican Party, confronted with a situation that surely seemed ideal from its standpoint, lost the election once again. The last time the Republicans elected their Presidential candidate was away back in 1928.

"Isn't it time that the Republican Party stopped to consider what the trouble is? Or does the Republican Party want to go along in the same way, never forgetting anything and never learning anything, until the party disintegrates and vanishes from the scene?

"What is the trouble with the Republican Party? Why has it been unable to win a national election since 1928?

Tool of Corporations

"The answer is obvious. The Republican Party has lost consistently because it has had no program to offer to the people. The party has made itself the tool of the comparatively small number of individuals who control and direct the most powerful corporations.

"What these greedy men want, the Republican Party has leaped to perform. Instead of serving the many, the Tafts and like-minded Republicans have preferred to serve the tycoons of industry

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

By

Harry J. Hagen

(Re-printed from St. Louis Labor Journal, issue of Dec. 15, 1949.)

(Editor's note: Hagen in a later article in the Post Dispatch, elaborated on the article contained in this column. He said in part: "The only reason I have for writing these articles is the hope that it might assist some people to make up their minds to quit smoking before it is too late, as I have seen many of my friends die during the past 40 years from cancer of the lungs and throat and others have sections of their tongues and lips removed due to infection, causing, their Doctors said, by excessive cigarette smoking.")

In the People's Column of the Post-Dispatch Nov. 5, 1949, there appeared the following:

SCIENTIFIC DATA ON SMOKING

The comment of Dr. O. P. J. Falk in the letter column regarding the increase in cancer due to smoking was very timely.

News of cancer deaths due to the use of tobacco is suppressed by most newspapers because tobacco firms spend about $50,000,000 a year in advertising.

Supporting the opinion of Dr. Falk in this matter is a most important document issued several years ago by Dr. Raymond Pearl of John Hopkins, showing how tobacco shortens life.

Recently Andrew Salter in "Conditioned Reflex Therapy" (Creative Age) has used the documented facts. Salter gives the following table of average ages at death:

Non-smokers.....67.7 years

Moderate smokers.....65.5 years

Heavy smokers.....57.7 years

"Notice," Salter writes, "that while moderate smokers paid with only 2 1/2 years of life, heavy smokers had 10 years less of life than non-smokers."

"Some computations also show:

"The moderate smoker pays with 12.7 minutes of life for every cigarette he smokes.

"The pack-a-day smoker pays with 1 1/4 hours of life for each pack of cigarettes he smokes."

Numerous times the American Medical Society and medical conventions report on the increase in lung cancer due to smoking but the daily press for the most part suppresses the facts.

HARRY J. HAGEN.

The first scientific, documented report from the head of the biology department of John Hopkins University, Dr. Raymond Pearl, listing tobacco as first in impairing life, as causing users, of whom there are tens of millions in America alone, to die earlier than non-users, was a sensational story and worth the front page of any newspaper not corrupted by cigarette advertising. It was suppressed by the more than 200 big daily papers in America, some 1,700 smaller dailies and many thousand weeklies (with the exception of less than 1 per cent) and these few printed a few lines but had the story buried in the financial and death notices pages.

The facts, scientifically established by Dr. Pearl and others, are that the more tobacco a person uses the earlier he dies. Cigarette impairs the health of all users, moderate and heavy. But the tobacco business spends fortunes each year to keep the American public in ignorance.

Four companies alone — the makers of Camels, Lucky Strikes, Chesterfields and Old Golds — spend $50,000,000 annually to hide the truth. The American press and radio, beneficiaries of the tremendous annual expenditure are not going to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, even though such news is of tremendous importance to the public.

Rather they will prostitute the press and radio to the dictates of their advertisers, especially the larger ones — big business — the free enterprisers — free to poison the public mind and health with advertising that is misleading and imperils the health of the nation.

In February, 1938, Dr. Raymond Pearl, then head biologist at Johns Hopkins University, gave the New York Academy of Medicine the scientific results of a study of the life histories of some 7,000 John Hopkins cases, which, for newspapers should have constituted a story "to scare the life out of tobacco manufacturers and make the tobacco users' flesh creep," as Time magazine commented at the time.

In brief, Dr. Pearl discovered that smoking shortens lives. Between the ages of 30 and 50, 61 per cent more heavy smokers die than non-smokers. The average span of life is impaired in direct proportion to the amount of tobacco he uses, but the impairment among even light smokers is "measurable and significant."

The Associated Press, United Press and special correspondents of New York papers heard Dr. Pearl tell the story. But a paragraph or two buried under less important matters in one or two papers was all that the great free press of America cared to make known to its readers, the consumers of approximately 250,000,000,000 (250 billion) cigarettes a year.

A few weeks ago another of the most important documents in the long history of the fight by American doctors against cancer has been suppressed by a large part of the American press.

The reason for the suppression is simple: it deals with the effect of cigarette smoking as a cause of lung cancer.

The document is the report made by Dr. Everts A. Graham to the Inter-American Congress of Surgery, Chicago, Oct. 23.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the 1 per cent of the United States press which is always rated as honest, responsible, and worthy of an honor roll, published the Chicago Associated Press story in full, more than half a column, while the other 99 percent or more of the press either ignored the story or printed a few confusing lines. The Chicago Tribune, voted the "worst newspaper in the U. S." by correspondents printed the story in part on the obituary and death notices page.

The story is of tremendous importance to the American people and the new facts are of vital interest to every smoker. This column carried the documented story of Dr. Pearl at the time of its release and herewith submits the AP story as it was printed in the Post-Dispatch.

"CHICAGO, Oct. 23 (AP) — A St. Louis surgeon said today that in his study of 400 cases of lung cancer 'it has been very rare' to encounter a man with the most common form of the disease who had not been an 'excessive cigarette smoker at one time.'

"Dr. Everts A. Graham, professor of surgery at Washington University School of Medicine and surgeon-in-chief at Barnes and St. Louis Children's hospitals, addressed the sixth Inter-American Congress of Surgery.

"Dr. Graham said that lung cancer, a rare condition 50 years ago, has become so common in recent years 'that now there is evidence indicating that, at least in males, it is the most common visceral cancer.'

"Seeking an explanation," Dr. Graham noted that Internal Revenue Department figures show an enormous increase in the production and sales of cigarettes during the last 50 years."

"So, with the co-operation of a number of surgical clinics he has been making a statistical study.

He told the congress "It is too early to give even a preliminary report of this study. But it can be stated that in 400 cases of bronchogenic carcinoma (lung cancer) it has been very rare to encounter a man with a squamous (scaly) bronchogenic carcinoma who had not been an excessive cigarette smoker for years, or at least who had not formerly smoked cigarettes excessively."

"By 'excessive' smoking is meant more than one pack a day. It should be emphasized that it is not necessary that at the time he should be an excessive smoker, because from the abundant work on the experimental development of cancer in animals it is well known that there is considerable time lag between the application of the carcinogenic (cancer forming) agent and the development of the cancer, which in the human apparently may be a matter of five years or more."

"Dr. Graham added: 'The use of tobacco in other forms, as in pipes or cigars, appears not to bear the same important relationship to cancer as does the use of the cigarette as an etiological (cause) factor. It is something in the composition of cigarettes which contains the carcinogenic agent.'

"Various possibilities suggest themselves, perhaps something used in the curing of tobacco, insecticides employed during its growth, or maybe even something in the paper."

"He went on to say that 'the remarkable etiological relationship of cigarette smoking to bronchogenic carcinoma which seems to be developing applies chiefly, if not entirely, to squamous, or epidermoid, carcinoma.'

"This is the carcinoma which is by far the most common lung tumor, and it is the one which has shown the striking increase. It is overwhelmingly a male disorder (in our last 75 to 18 years of age) or for men."

"It arises usually in a major bronchus (windpipe) and it represents a transformation of adult epithelium (cellular tissue covering a free surface or lining a tube or cavity) into cancer tissue."

"In our experience when a woman has such a tumor, almost invariably she is or has been a heavy smoker. It is a common belief in this country, women are as much or even more addicted to cigarette smoking than men."

"However, a statistical study of this question, not yet published, indicates that only about 40 per cent of the women of cancer age smoke at all and of these only a small percentage smoke to excess. The younger women who have not reached the cancer age are more likely to be heavy smokers."

"In treating lung cancer, Dr. Graham said, 'the results of many cases indicate that the disease is curable if the cancerous lung is removed early enough.'"

QUARTERLY MEETING OF NEW YORK STATE COUNCIL

The fourth quarterly meeting of the New York State Council of Lathers was held in the City of Schenectady, N. Y., on Saturday, November 19, 1949.

Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for Local Union 120, Schenectady, N. Y., and former Secretary-Treasurer of the State Council Arthur Dinsmore, Sr., opened the meeting with an address of welcome and a summary of the program which was to follow in the evening.

Chairman Dinsmore, in explaining the reason for the exceptionally large membership attendance at this meeting, stated that on his personal recommendation an invitation to attend this meeting of the state council was extended to as many of our new members and all the apprentices of the local unions affiliated with the council, in order that these men will appreciate and understand the purpose of a co-operative council, gain some fundamental knowledge along with some of the principles of unionism from the ideals on which the trade union movement was founded.

He went on to say: "Our state council was organized in 1936 by a group of local unions who were far apart in opinions but struggling for a solution to their many problems. Today I am happy to relate that this group has united, and has improved the conditions for themselves and our industry in general, and through the capable leadership of our officers has attained recognition and respect throughout our International Union.

"In particular I wish to express sincere thanks for Local Union 120 to our President Tim Spillane for the grand job he has done through his capable leadership in uniting the divided forces that existed between the leaders of various groups at our recent 20th International Union Convention, resulting in the most peaceful, harmonious, and successful deliberations of any convention in our history."

Michael J. Finn, former Business Representative of Local Union 46, member of the War Industry Board in Washington, D. C., during World War II, and now District Representative in the Syracuse, N. Y. area for the Operating and Hoisting Engineers, A. F. of L. (with a Lathers Union card), confined his remarks to the importance of the support of each individual worker in combating the political reactionary forces striving through enactment of legislation detrimental to, and which will ultimately destroy, the forces of labor in this country. Your American Federation of Labor several years ago was compelled to form its own Political Arm known to all of you as Labors League for Political Education, for the sole purpose of exposing the labor record of all lawmakers in, and also those seeking, public office, and to protect the rights of all working people of our country. Your parent body is in politics, and with your voluntary support and contributions we have already gained recognition in the 1948 National Election as a powerful defensive force against the reactionaries. In our recent election this month you have again demonstrated that the forces of labor demand proper representation and recognition. In 1950 we have a greater job to do. Therefore with your continued support of Labors League for Political Education and your personal efforts in its behalf in your home communities we will be assured of another great victory for Labor along with the removal of repressive Labor Legislation off the Federal Statute Books.

Fifth International Union Vice-President John J. Langan addressed the meeting stressing the necessity of each individual to be on the alert for all the work on jobs that comes within our trade jurisdiction. He stated: "I have spent considerable time in various localities straightening out jobs where other trades were doing our work. In most cases our local union representatives are to blame for letting this work get away because they do not go after it or they neglect to lay claim to it because of a shortage of manpower in their locality. It is the privilege of any Business Agent to move men from one job to another in order that our work be protected. In so doing we can be assured of continuing to enjoy our present working conditions, teach the younger members the principles of unionism, perpetuate our organization, and above all set a good example to the youngsters so they will realize the importance of giving a fair day's work for a day's wages."

General Secretary-Treasurer Terry Ford expressed his pleasure in having the opportunity to address the members of his own State Council and his gratification to see so many young members present at a State Council meeting. Brother Ford advised all apprentices that success or failure in their careers is a matter of the individual's own choosing. He said: "Strict adherence to your work at all times is of utmost importance, as ours is a complicated business and we can only expect reward for the amount of effort we put into it. Your State Council has always been a successful and aggressive organization and I extend my best wishes for your continued success in the future.

If it were not so serious it would be laughable to watch the present furious effort to oust communism. It is about 10 years late. When voices were raised years ago protesting the placing of Communists in key positions in our government, the bold attempt to build Stalin up in the guise of a democratic leader, the resentments of the clear thinking minority at the burden laid on the American taxpayer — what were we called? Isolationists!

The majority of Americans swallowed the propaganda and enjoyed it. Now, when the danger is apparent to all, the few who saw clearly from the beginning wonder what they are going to do about it. Another case of closing the barn door after the horse has gone.

The union label, service button, and shop card are evidence that those who are entitled to use and wear these emblems are engaged in a crusade for the perpetuation of American ideals and the provisions of our established way of life. These symbols say to the world that we will resist to the full extent of our resources all attempts to destroy those principles for which America stands.—William Green.

Sweden is slightly larger than California. Area about 170,000 square miles; population approximately 6,600,000.

Although founded nearly 1,000 years ago, Stockholm contains some of the world's most modern architecture.

Concerned over the consequences of his invention of dynamite, Sweden's Dr. Alfred Nobel bequeathed the interest from his entire fortune as a yearly award to those who serve humanity best.

The high quality of Swedish steel is due to the exceptional purity of the iron ore found in tremendous quantities in the vast Lapland iron fields.

The Swedish Riksbank, founded in 1656, is the oldest banking institution in existence.

More than half of Sweden is covered by forests, backbone of her economic life.

FIGHT FOR JUSTICE A NEVER ENDING BATTLE

The struggle for justice is a never-ending business. There will be a struggle to attain it as long as men lust for power. It is the power of a few men over many which is the source of injustice. It may be landlords or cartels or banks on the one hand, or a political clique or a political party or a ruling class on the other. The eternal struggle of man for justice is the fight to keep any one group, whether in government or out of government, from being too powerful. It is the struggle to keep political and economic power diffused among many groups and to prevent its concentration in the hands of a single clique. —Justice William O. Douglas, U. S. Supreme Court.

A. F. L. UNIONS RAP ANTI-LABOR POLICY OF ARMY ENGINEERS

An important unit of the military, the Army Corps of Engineers, was accused this week by the A.F. of L. Building Trades Department of maintaining a policy hostile to organized labor.

For that reason, the Building Trades unions hailed a proposal that civilian functions of the corps be transferred to the Interior Department. This would take from the "brass hats" many big flood control and navigation projects.

As an example of the attitude of the Army Engineers, the Building Trades Department cited the fact that the Engineers let the contract for construction of the big Bull Shoals dam in Arkansas to Brown & Root, one of the toughest "open shop" contractors in the nation.

Later, the A. F. of L. unions won an election among Brown & Root employees at the dam project, but the company refused to enter into an agreement. Meantime the unions charged the management did wholesale "chiseling" on wages by paying skilled men laborers' rates and in other ways violated a Federal law, the Bacon-Davis Act, which requires payment of prevailing wages.

"Only the contracting agency is authorized to enforce that law, but the Army Engineers showed no interest in enforcement," the Building Trades Department said.

"Again the Army Engineers have shown no interest in this abuse," the Department asserted.

"This is typical of our experiences with them in the past. For these reasons we would welcome a transfer of all civilian functions of this branch of the armed forces to the Department of Interior."

"Well, it is a fact that this formula used to work very nicely. It worked in the 1880's, it worked in the 1890's, and it worked, to be frank about it, right up to the great depression which began the stock market crash of 20 years ago.

"Yes, it used to be a successful formula. But no more. The American worker today doesn't vote the way corporation-owned newspapers advise him to vote. The Republican Party has to make a decision, and it has to make it pretty soon. It has to decide whether to keep on with its asinine hope that it can hoodwink the voters as it used to do years ago, or get in tune with the times and offer the people of America a program that deserves to be supported.

"One thing is certain — if the Republican Party continues to stand forth as the party of greed and the party that places shackles on free American labor to please the big campaign contributors, it will continue to go down to defeat."

ARE YOU REGISTERED?

It was just a year ago that an elated organized labor emerged victorious from the political skirmishes of the 1948 election campaign. Our union men and women had done a job and done it well. We looked for great things from that 81st Congress we elected. Some of the good things have come to pass—the public housing bill and minimum wage legislation for example. Of course these did not follow the full pattern labor would have liked to see them take but they were a definite step forward and in the right direction. But the biggest issue, the one that is tantamount to life and death in the labor movement,—and of course we refer to Taft-Hartley—is still on the statute books. Organized labor did a job in 1948 but the job wasn't finished. It couldn't be finished because there simply weren't enough Senators and Congressmen up for reelection. Well, one year from now we will have another chance. November 1950 will provide us with the opportunity to finish the job. According to voting records in the House and Senate we need only 14 more Congressmen and five more Senators on our side to repeal Taft-Hartley—plus keeping the Senators and Congressmen already on our side in the Senate and the House.

The 1950 election will be a crucial one in many states. As the months go by we will keep you advised of voting records so you may know just how your Senators and Congressmen measure up when it comes to the issues which affect you as members of organized labor.

But—and this is important—you have to be registered before you can vote and, if you live in a poll tax state, your poll tax must be paid before you can vote.

President Green of the A. F. of L. has often been heard to say that organized labor does not have money but it does have votes. However, splendid as was the record we made for ourselves in the 1948 election, there were hundreds of thousands more of our people who could have gone to the polls and didn't — they were not registered.

France has 40,517,923 people, seven million less than Great Britain. Their land is somewhat smaller than Texas. It is rich in farmland and minerals. The capital is Paris, long known as the world's most beautiful big city.

France ranks fourth in the world in iron ore, fifth in coal. This combination has produced a thriving steel industry. France also stands high in textiles, automobiles, radio sets.

Most Frenchmen are farmers. France is a leading producer of potatoes, sugar beets and wheat. The country has more cattle than even Australia. Most are dairy cattle.

Only Canada and Great Britain carry on more trade with the U. S. than France. The French merchant fleet, even after war losses, is the sixth largest. France exports much wine, women's wear, perfume and other luxuries.

France is a republic. All power is held by the National Assembly.

France has the second-largest colonial empire. Algeria has valuable farmland; West Africa, forests, gold and chocolate; Indo-China, rubber (third highest in the world) and rice; Madagascar, vanilla and coffee.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch is one of our favorite newspapers, particularly because of its liberal policy and its complete honesty in reporting. Here's a recent item gleaned from its pages under the heading "Here We Go Again."

"I also want to apologize for General President McSorley not being present at this meeting due to an emergency call to Chicago, Illinois, and I want to extend his best wishes for successful deliberations, and the continued success of your State Council."

Dinner and entertainment for 155 as guests of Local Union 120 followed at Grell's Grove private dining room at eight o'clock p.m.

The officers and delegates of the New York State Council express their sincere gratitude to the officers and members of Local 120, and the local Committee on Arrangements for the most hospitable, social and constructive program ever arranged for similar meetings of the State Council in the past.

The delegates voted to hold the next meeting in the Labor Temple, 714 Charlotte Street, Utica, N. Y., on Saturday, February 18, 1950.

WHO LABOR IS

The Camden (N. J.) Union Reporter answered this important question by pointing out that, in general, labor and the public are the same people, when it said:

"Just who is this 'John Q. Public' or 'average citizen' or 'taxpayer' or whatever else he is called? What does he do for a living? He is not a railroad man; the railroad men are 'labor' and have deprived the 'public' of transportation on occasion.

"He surely doesn't work in a coal mine; the miners are laborers . . . And he obviously isn't an automobile worker; the automobile workers went on strike just when 'John Q. Public' wanted a new car.

"Nor is he a truckdriver or a meat-cutter or seaman or longshoreman or a steel worker or a clothing worker or an electrician or an office employe or a typesetter or a carpenter or a shipyard worker or a musician or a barber or stagehand or a building laborer . . .

"Apparently 'labor' and the 'John Q. Public' are really the same guy . . . Labor is the people. Those who say that labor is too strong are those who fear the power of the people."

RESOLVED!*By Ruth Taylor

Two hundred years ago, Jonathan Edwards, eloquent preacher of early Colonial days, carefully penned his resolves — the creed by which he planned to live. Strict they were, for he was firm with himself, but among them one stands out which every American needs to take to heart on this New Year's Day, 1950.

"Resolved: never to do anything which I should despise or think meanly of in another."

This is a resolve which can and must be kept, and which, in spite of its negative phrasing, is constructive.

It can be kept, because this land of ours is free. We are free souls. Overseas the accounts from behind the Iron Curtain show how the hapless and terrified people of Communist-dominated nations have been forced into acts utterly foreign to their own religious and national ideals. Their souls as well as their bodies have been regimented. They hate and worship at the nod of a power-drunk State or petty dictator. Here we are free to think. No one can make us do anything we do not want to do. No one can make us lie, or cheat, or steal, or be cruel, or intolerant, or bear false witness against our neighbor. We are free to make our own decisions and we are free to do right. We can make a resolve — and we can keep it.

It is constructive — for its very negation calls for action. We despise cruelty; we can avoid it by being kind. We despise treachery; we can avoid it by being true to our ideals. We despise lying; we can avoid it by speaking the truth. We despise sabotage of elected authority or community programs; we can avoid it by cooperating with our fellow-men for the good of all. We despise discrimination; we can avoid it by treating our neighbor as an individual, never generalizing in derogatory terms about any group. We despise unfairness; we can avoid it by being fair.

What the next year may mean depends upon each and every one of us. Let us resolve, therefore, to set our own house in order, to be the person we want to and can be — and never to do anything which we should despise or think meanly of in another. What Jonathan Edwards wrote 200 years ago was true long, long before he wrote it. It is still true. And it will be true for all time.

DECISIONS OF THE INTERNATIONAL EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Outside of Executive Session, Published in accordance with Section 123, International Constitution, which provision follows:

"All decisions of the General President must be published in the following issue of The Lather, together with a short, concise synopsis of the case. All decisions of the Executive Council must be published in the following issue of The Lather, showing how each member of the Council has voted."

The Council voted to grant the following request: Request of Local No. 315 to levy an additional assessment of $150.00 against Edouard Levesque, 39368.

A businessman from one of the Latin-American republics tells that he wrote a letter placing an order for an engine capable of a thousand revolutions a minute. The letter was intercepted by government agents, whereupon the businessman was called before El Presidente who said: "One revolution a day we can handle but a thousand revolutions a minute—too much!"

FROM THE MACHINIST JOURNAL OF OCTOBER, 1899

D. Douglas Wilson, Editor

President McKinley has been elected a member of the Bricklayers and Stone Masons' International Union, No. 21, of Chicago, Ill. This was done so that he could lay the cornerstone of the new government building on the ninth day of this month.

He will be the first President of the United States, and the first ruler of any nation to become a member of one of the building trades affiliated with the Building Trades Council of Chicago.

The laws of this body make it compulsory for the President to have a working card before he could handle a trowel on any building in Cook County, Ill.

The Secretary — Mr. Stamm — of No. 21 was instructed originally to make this card out from September 1, but as this would necessitate the presence of his excellency in the parade on Labor Day under a penalty of $2, it was decided not to issue it until after the celebration.

CORRECTION

Suspension for nonpayment of dues of N. Bradley 43923 by Local 345, published in the December 1949 issue of The Lather, was reported to headquarters in error and it has been removed from his record.

CORRECTION

Transfer of H. Pingston 10680 from Local 505 into Local 5, published in the May 1949 issue of The Lather, should have been issued to H. W. Pingston 27556. This transfer, now on file at headquarters, has been corrected and so have the records of both of these brothers. H. Pingston 10680 is still a member of Local 505 and H. W. Pingston 27556 is a member of Local 5.

CORRECTION

As the result of a misunderstanding by Local 491 G. J. Peebles 40858 became automatically suspended on December 15, 1947 and was subsequently reinstated in Local 491 and issued a withdrawal card by that local on September 23, 1949. This reinstatement and withdrawal card issuance were published in the November 1949 issue of The Lather. Since then brother Peebles has forwarded to headquarters receipts which establish the fact that as of October 31, 1948, he renewed the withdrawal card originally issued to him by Local 491 on October 31, 1947. In view of this evidence, headquarters has removed from the record of brother Peebles the automatic suspension of December 15, 1947, the reinstatement in Local 491 and issuance of withdrawal card by that Local on September 23, 1949. Renewal of his withdrawal card on October 31, 1948 and its deposit in Local 491 on October 31, 1949 have been recorded.

TAX-EXEMPT MEMBERS

The members listed below have fulfilled all of the conditions specified in Section 97 of the International constitution, namely

I. M. ORNBURN GAVE LIFE TO ORGANIZED LABOR CAUSE

The sudden death of I. M. Ornburn, Secretary-Treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, was a great shock to his associates and numerous other friends. He died early Saturday morning, December 17, at Cornwall Hospital, Cornwall, New York. Services were held on Tuesday in Washington, D. C.

There were many causes for the rapid ascendancy of I. M. Ornburn in the American Labor movement. His unique position of strength and power could be attributed to his unswerving loyalty to his associates and to his ardent advocacy of the true principles and purposes of labor unionism. He urged a constant demand for Union Label products by members of labor unions and their families. He fully realized the great benefits to society derived when intelligent buying is coupled with collective bargaining. With his great energy and dynamic character he generated enthusiasm in others for practical, united effort of both labor and industrial leaders.

Under the leadership of Secretary-Treasurer Ornburn the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor had made more rapid progress than during any period since its establishment in 1909. That important branch of the American Federation of Labor is the clearing house in which the promotional and publicity activities for all Union Labels, Shop Cards and Buttons are centered.

It was through the valuable school of practical experience in labor unionism that Mr. Ornburn received his education. He was secretary of the Connecticut State Federation of Labor from 1912 to 1923. He was vice president of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America from 1918 to 1926, when he was elected president. He served as president until January 1, 1936. From 1918 until his death he had been a delegate from the Cigarmakers' International Union to the American Federation of Labor conventions.

Mr. Ornburn had been granted a leave of absence from 1930 to 1933 while he served as a member of the United States Tariff Commission. He had also been an active member on several important committees and commissions to which he was appointed by both governors of Connecticut and presidents of the United States.

He was elected secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor in 1934 and held this position until his death.

In 1935, Mr. Ornburn introduced a resolution at the Atlantic City convention of the Union Label Trades Department to form the American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor which, in the light of today's events, is one of the most progressive steps ever taken by the American Federation of Labor.

Inspired by a powerful incentive to bring labor and management together Mr. Ornburn conceived the idea of a great national exhibition of union-made products and union services, now known as the Union Industries Show. It is the greatest event of its kind in the history of organized labor. The first one was held in Music Hall, Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1938. Mr. Ornburn was director-general of this exhibition. The labor-management exhibitions were discontinued during the war but due to a growing demand after the emergency several other shows have been held. Each one has been a sensational success. At the time of his death, Mr. Ornburn was making arrangements for the forthcoming Union Industries Show to be held in Philadelphia next May.

Several times each year Mr. Ornburn delivered addresses over a coast-to-coast network of one of the major radio broadcasting chains. After each broadcast many thousands of requests poured into headquarters for copies of his timely talks. His popularity as a speaker at various labor gatherings had increased to such an extent that he received many invitations to address various conventions, banquets and other meetings.

During World War II Mr. Ornburn was appointed by the Office of Price Administration to serve on its Labor Policy Committee. He was also a member of the Labor Advisory Committee of the Nutrition and Food Conservation Branch, War Food Administration.

Through an arrangement with union manufacturers of cigarettes, Mr. Ornburn made possible the shipment of millions of Union Label "smokes" to members of our fighting forces overseas during the emergency.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Ornburn's great work was so suddenly interrupted. His life was entirely devoted to the organized labor cause to which he sacrificed his health to advance the welfare of workers everywhere. No one could bring him to live in peace and rest when he felt that a single injustice was being done to any man or woman toiler.

Case No. 1—REQUEST FOR CONTRIBUTION TO THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

In recognition of the splendid work being carried on by this Foundation and in keeping with our past custom, the Executive Council instructed the General Secretary-Treasurer to make a contribution of $250.00.

Case No. 2—NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR LATHING AND PLASTERING, INC.

From the reports of the General President, it was noted that the National Foundation for Lathing and Plastering, Inc., was continuing to progress and was obtaining better support from the members of the industry throughout the entire country. As this Foundation was formed through the efforts of our International Union and has continued to receive our support, the Executive Council authorized the General President and General Secretary-Treasurer to contribute the sum of $7,000 to this Foundation.

Case No. 3—RESOLUTION No. 25 REFERRED BY THE 20th CONVENTION TO PROVIDE FOR A 30-HOUR WEEK WITH NO REDUCTION IN PAY.

Your Executive Council in concert with the American Federation of Labor endorses the principle of the 30-hour week, when and if conditions in our industry warrant and all other prevailing factors permit. While this resolution is endorsed in principle your Council is not concurring in the resolution as presented, as we feel this is a matter to be handled by our Local Unions on the statement of principle rather than as an edict handed down by the International Union.

Case No. 4—RESOLUTIONS No. 24, 30 and 31 ALL DEALING WITH THE ELIMINATION AND CURTAILMENT OF THE SOLICITOR.

These three resolutions were non-concurred in by the Executive Council as we are firmly convinced that the existing Constitution of the International Union contains sufficient safeguards and protection when wisely and judiciously used by our Local Unions. The Executive Council appreciates the service rendered to our trade over the years by the constructive, fair solicitor and believes that a splendid service can be rendered by this class of employer within the framework of our constitution when the Local Unions properly apply the various Sections contained therein to be used as a part of their autonomous functions.

Case No. 5—VISIT OF MR. WHARTON CLAY, SECRETARY-TREASURER, PERLITE INSTITUTE.

Mr. Wharton Clay, Secretary-Treasurer of the Perlite Institute, addressed the Executive Council in regard to the important contribution being made to the Lathing and Plastering Industry by the light weight aggregates for plaster and concrete. The introduction of these new materials has practically revolutionized construction methods in certain parts of building and has offered a vast new field of employment for members of our organization.

In his remarks Mr. Clay covered the many technical and practical problems encountered and the methods being used to overcome them.

Tests are now being made by the Perlite Institute, which is the promotional branch of the manufacturer. The results of these tests, in which fire ratings will be established for Perlite used in various parts of buildings, will be available to the officers and members of our International Union in the near future.

Certain sections of obsolete building codes which prohibit the use of light weight aggregate must be changed before a full measure of success can be developed.

Many architects, builders and owners, who are unaware of the many possibilities of the new materials, must be contacted and furnished literature that provides the desired information.

Minutes Of International Executive Council Meeting

Held at New York City, January 16 to 20, 1950

The Council urges all our local officers and members to fully acquaint themselves with the tremendous possibilities for employment offered by the new materials — not only by their use in the place of other materials but by the great saving made in the superstructure of buildings when the lightweight materials are used. By having the full data at hand officers of local unions can promote our industry in an intelligent and convincing way.

Local Unions should contact the Perlite Institute, 35 West 53rd Street, New York City 19, for literature concerning fire tests, etc., of Perlite aggregate.

Case No. 6—RESOLUTION No. 14 REFERRED BY THE 20th CONVENTION DEALING WITH THE CONTROVERSY BETWEEN LOCALS 6, 244 and 308 Vs. LOCAL 46.

Pursuant to instructions contained in the report of the Committee on resolutions and law adopted by the 20th Convention which reads: "Your Committee recommends that this resolution be referred to the Incoming Executive Council and urged that Council bring about the satisfactory adjustment of this controversy in the best interest of all parties concerned."

Your Executive Council held full and lengthy hearings on this matter at which verbatim records were made by a court reporter permitting all parties to this controversy unlimited time to present their testimony and fully set forth their position. It was the hope of your Executive Council that a satisfactory adjustment could be made of this dispute and every effort was made to adjust this situation during the session of your Council. It is with deep regret that we are compelled to report our failure to bring about an adjustment as the evidence submitted and the attitude of the parties convinces us that the present controversy exists due to the failure of the parties to carry out to their full intent and purposes, the terms and conditions of the 1920 Convention by which Local 46 was reinstated and placed in good standing with our International Union. Your Council believes that compliance with this document by Local 46 with the full cooperation of Locals 6, 244 and 308 would prevent continuation of this controversy and bring about a more harmonious condition for the future. It is therefore the recommendation of the Executive Council that Local 46 live up to and comply with the conditions set forth in the above-mentioned document in its entirety, applying the various sections of that document in good faith and sincerity and in the best interests of the membership of our Local Unions in greater New York and surrounding area. We therefore urge and recommend that locals 6, 244 and 308 interpret the spirit and intent of the action of the 1920 Convention and in cooperation with Local 46 in applying its terms and conditions in good faith and in harmony with the administration of Local 46 as we believe that this document contains the proper spirit and intent to bring about harmony and constructive action on behalf of the members of the disputing locals in our International Union.

Case No. 7—PROPOSITION FROM AUERBACH EDUCATIONAL PRODUCTIONS.

The Council had before it a proposition submitted by the Auerbach Educational Productions for the production of a motion picture showing the history, background and accomplishments of our International Union. While your Council believes that this type of educational material would be helpful, it was decided not to venture into this project at this time due to the financial cost involved.

Case No. 8—DISCUSSION OF GROUP INSURANCE.

In response to an invitation of our General President McCoskey, Mr. Matthew Woll, President of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company, and Mr. Ed. Tobin, his assistant, visited our Council session discussing group life insurance in its various phases. Your Council spent some time in discussing this important subject matter and authorized the General President and General Secretary-Treasurer to submit to the Union Labor Life Insurance Company the necessary data from which they could present to International officers a concrete proposal showing benefits, premium rates and other detailed costs to cover our entire membership; also further authorized International officers to compile all this data after a complete study for presentation to the Council at its next meeting.

Case No. 9—RESOLUTIONS No. 1 and 3 REFERRED BY THE 20th CONVENTION.

Both of these resolutions have for their purpose the increase of funeral benefits. The subject matter contained in both these resolutions was discussed at some length with President Woll and his associate who explained the complications inherent in increasing funeral benefits in excess of $500 due to the laws existing in a number of the States. It appeared from the information before your Council, a sum in excess of $500 for funeral benefits would automatically place our International Union under the control of a number of different State laws with no uniformity of administration through our International Office. It was therefore the decision of your Council to hold any action on this subject matter in abeyance, pending completion of the study now under way by the General Officers, at which time we would be in better position to make a more intelligent and beneficial decision.

Case No. 10—RESOLUTIONS No. 2, 23 and 26, REFERRED BY THE 20th CONVENTION ALL DEALING WITH PENSION PROGRAMS.

Resolution No. 26 was adopted by the 20th Convention instructing the International Officers to investigate the advisability of our International Union adopting a pension plan adapted to our craft and to make a report at the next convention. Your Executive Council instructed the International officers to continue this study now under way and obtain all possible data for the purpose of devising a pension plan for our members, if such is feasible and can be financed without too great a drain upon the membership of our International Union. As this resolution No. 26 was a mandate from the Convention and its provisions are now being carried out, it was the action of the Executive Council that Resolutions Nos. 2 and 23 be filed at this time.

Case No. 11—EXCESSIVE WORK RESTRICTIONS BY LOCAL UNIONS.

Your Executive Council is obliged to take this means of calling attention to an injurious practice indulged in by some of our affiliated local unions who are placing themselves in a bad competitive position in the building industry and permitting the increased use of substitutes for lathing materials by the unwise practice of placing excessive restrictions and narrow limitations upon the amount of work permitted by the members of these particular local unions. The construction industry is known as the most competitive of any industry in this country and all segments of the industry, including the Lather, are in the same competition. From information at the general office it is shown that a large amount of lathing work is being replaced by substitutes thereby eliminating our work and job opportunities for our members as well as injuring our entire craft and trade. The Executive Council feels compelled to add this note of warning at this time and to suggest to our member locals that they act judiciously and with full recognition of the injury that has been done and will continue if excessive restrictions and narrow limitations are placed upon lathing.

Due to illness, Fourth Vice President Sal Maso was only able to attend one session and therefore did not participate in the decisions and findings of the Executive Council.

Having completed the agenda and there being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

Harry J. Hagen, First V. P., C. J. Haggerty, Second V. P.
Chairman Secretary

EXEMPTION FROM TAFT-HARTLEY ACT SOUGHT

Employers and employees in the building trades have united in asking the Government for a blanket exemption from Taft-Hartley labor law election requirements for the construction industry.

This action was foreshadowed months ago, when the employers and unions in the construction industry called to public attention the great difficulty and cost of holding elections as required under the law. This latest step was taken in an appeal to the National Labor Relations Board.

Ineffectiveness of the Taft-Hartley Act has also been made evident by the experiences of the printing trades and the shipping industry. With respect to the former situation an A. F. of L. statement was to this effect:

"What this maze of technicalities boils down to is that the Taft-Hartley Act has disrupted the arrangements for mutual cooperation which unions and employers in the printing industry have worked out over a period of nearly a century.

"It is only now, two and one-half years after Taft-Hartley, that the union and employers are finding out how to accommodate themselves under the new law."

Deficiencies of the Act.

The deficiencies of the act have, however, probably been most marked in the construction trades.

The industry's major management and labor groups claim that strict application of the Taft-Hartley law to them will wreck longstanding collective bargaining practices and hamper building activities.

The management appeal, filed by a group of contractors' organizations, said they represent employers who do about 80 per cent of the construction work in the country. Included is the Associated Contractors of America.

The labor request was filed by the A. F. of L. Building and Construction Trades Department, an organization of 19 major unions that bargains for two million members.

Both Ask It Be Waived

Both the employers and unions ask that the Taft-

Hartley requirements for elections among workers be waived for the entire industry.

The law requires elections before unions can be certified as the collective bargaining representative with which employers must deal. Certification protects employers from charges of unfair labor practices in dealing with unions that do not represent a majority of the workmen.

Also, elections are necessary before unions can get a union shop agreement, by which all employees must become union members after they are hired.

Contractors and union representatives met with the NLRB some months ago, and written recommendations were drawn up. The board plans another meeting with employers and unions soon.

Because workmen in the building trades are employed only a short time on any given job, and because workmen shift from city to city and job to job it is extremely difficult to arrange and hold elections. Both employers and unions want the NLRB to work out a plan whereby employers will recognize unions with which they have been dealing and will employ only union members.

Local 46 Of New York Purchases Their Headquarters:

We are sure our brother members of affiliated locals will pardon our understandable pride in using the medium of these pages to announce that the members of Local Union 46 have attained a long-sought goal.

Like so many other people in the year 1949 we had been house-hunting; like them, we had dreamed about that great day when, for the first time, we would step across the threshold of our own home. Unlike many other people, however, we knew just where to find the home that we wanted — it was right at 1322 Third Avenue, on the corner of 76th Street and Third Avenue, in the heart of New York City, in the building which we have occupied as tenants for many years. Our problem was to convince the owner that he should sell — and at our terms.

It wasn't enough merely to dream about owning our new home — the situation called for action. Supported by the unanimous vote of the membership in favor of the purchase of the property, our elected officials, shown in Photo No. 1 January issue, consisting of Business Manager Walter Matthews, President Hugh Birney, Vice-Pres. Tim Doherty, Recording Secretary John Cassidy; and Business Agents Brian Dillon, Tim Spillane, and Frank Robinson; Chairman of the Executive Board Thomas Donnelly; Executive Board Members Richard Walsh, Richard O'Hare, Frank Conifrey, Thomas Smith, James Brennan, and Joseph Bohan; and Sergeants-at-Arms T. King and Ben McSweeney, went into action and came out a winner.

Whether it be a new car or a new home, the proud owner likes to show the boys a few photographs. We have them and we want you to see them. We honestly admit that the photographer was instructed to get these shots from the best angle. He told us, however, that could not be done. Seems that the building looked perfect from every angle (at least it does to us). Picture 2 appearing in January Journal shows the outside of the building. Picture 2 was taken from the Third Avenue side of the property. Take a look at those windows — it looks like we will have plenty of air and light. What is more, we can serve our members with everything from groceries to haircuts in the stores on the street level of the building, which are occupied by our tenants. Just to prove that Local 46 knows how to pick a winner — look at the election sign in our window. We had the right ticket last election day!

Picture 1 on Page 5 of this issue shows the building from the 76th Street side. If you look closely, in the lefthand corner of the picture you will see the stairway to the Third Avenue Elevated Railway — just one of the many convenient transportation facilities serving our new home.

Picture 3 in the January Journal and Picture 4 in this issue show our meeting room with seats for 350 men. Our members who served so honorably in the Armed Forces in two World Wars have not been forgotten. Our service flags hold the place of honor in our Hall.

Picture 2 in this issue shows our Executive Board Meeting Room at which the numerous problems confronting every labor union these days are discussed and considered.

Picture 3 in this issue shows the general business office of the Union and Picture 4 in the January Journal the office of our Trust Fund which exists for the benefit of our members.

The girls shown in the pictures constitute but a part of our efficient, and, need we add, good-looking office staff.

You will note many photographs on the wall in Picture 4 in the January Journal. You may ask what they have to do with you. Well — your picture may be there. Those photographs were taken in '39 — that last happy occasion when New York City in general and Local 46 in particular, endeavored to play the role of "genial host" to the assembled delegates to our International Convention. We know that our members had a good time at that convention — we hope you did, too. What is more, we look forward to a renewal of the acquaintances made on that occasion. We are vain enough to believe that we had a lot to boast about on the occasion of our last International Convention in New York City, but now for the first time, when and if the Convention comes to our home town again, we can truly say: "Drop in at our home; see our new building; make it a place to renew old acquaintance," and if, in the meantime, you come to New York, please drop in and say "Hello."

Walter Matthews,

Business Manager, Local 46.

NEW PLASTER AND LATH METHODS ARE DESCRIBED

New methods of using lath and plaster to reduce the cost of homes and other construction were outlined by scientists at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The institute's Armour Research Foundation, which conducted the tests for the department of commerce, reached the conclusion that in the past many joists have been stiffer and more costly than necessary because of a 120 year old stress formula not applicable to modern materials or methods.

Also it decided walls can be made stronger and more resistant to plaster cracks by merely changing the position of lath for better reinforcement where greater stresses occur, and that plaster strength increases when the proportion of sand included decreases.

"Adoption of ideas in the foundation's report would lead to sturdier plaster construction, lower cost of upkeep, and enhanced appearance of the plaster surface by reducing cracks," said William T. Savage, supervisor of Armour's materials section, who was in charge of the project.

For more than a century builders have accepted a rule that if plaster is not to crack, the beam to which the lath is attached must not bend in service more than 1/360th of its length. Armour Foundation research workers made the first laboratory test of this deflection formula.

The scientists found that the rule is out of date because conventional lime-sand plaster and wood lath have been replaced by stronger materials, plaster, gypsum lath, and metal lath. Another reason is that modern methods of attaching lath to joist allow the plaster independence from much of the stress on beams. Instead of nailing the lath directly to the beam, builders now suspend it or use clips.

The report said there is need for continued research to keep abreast of new material and method. Example of newer materials were listed as lightweight plaster aggregates like vermiculite and perlite, which allow the use of lighter and less expensive structural members.

The National Foundation for Lathing and Plastering described the information obtained by the research project as "new and of great importance to those interested in various phases of building and construction."

"What am I arrested for?" asked the corrupt voter.

"You are charged," said the officer who was entering the arrest in the station-house ledger, "with having voted eight times."

"Charged, hey?" muttered the prisoner. "That's queer. I expected to be paid for it."

Gain the Equivalent of an extra floor

Promote 2" Solid ROCKLATH* and Plaster Partitions

If you have a twelve-story building, it's possible to add extra space roughly equivalent to the addition of a thirteenth floor—by using 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions!

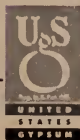

On a smaller scale, you can gain enough space in the average-size apartment to accommodate a closet!

With 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions you gain three inches along the length of every partition, compared with the conventional five-inch plastered partition.

2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions, properly plastered, have a one-hour fire endurance rating. They weigh only 16 pounds per square foot, installed, and have abundant strength. They cost no more, installed, than conventional partitions, and often cost less.

Ask your U.S.G. representative for the complete story of 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions next time you see him.

LABOR'S TASK FOR 1950

By Joseph D. Keenan

Director, Labor's League for Political Education

1950 is not just another election year but the election year that will decide whether Taft-Hartley will be repealed. Thanks to the efforts of AFL members at the polls in 1948 this Congress, in one session, passed more liberal legislation than had been passed in the previous ten years. But we were short 14 votes in the House and 5 votes in the Senate of a majority necessary to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act.

We might as well be political realists. There is little chance that the Taft-Hartley Act will be repealed until after the 1950 election . . . and then only if we have elected a clear-cut majority of liberals to both Houses.

Our job will be harder in 1950 than it was in 1948. As we step up our operations, so do our enemies. Our membership can be prepared for the biggest anti-labor anti-liberal propaganda drive since the Liberty League was formed to fight the Wagner Act in the thirties. It will be up to every trade union member and officer to cut through the curtain of lies and scare words and then go to the polls on election day and vote in his own self-interest. This will usually mean voting against the candidates supported by the newspapers and radio commentators.

To help our friends and defeat our enemies costs us money as well as our votes. Local union funds and assessments can be used to help local and state candidates, to pay someone to check the registration of every member and otherwise get voters qualified and organized for political action. Your regular union papers can say anything they want about political candidates. There is no law against discussing politics at union meetings.

We will have some strong political allies in this next election. We have been making some interesting checks on Congressmen with certain farm and independent groups in Washington. In almost every case a man who has voted against small business has also been against the farmer and the union man. We have found our enemies and friends almost identical. If we all can keep our heads above the confusing propaganda, the farmer, the union man and the small business man can make an invincible voting team.

Remember without 14 more liberal Representatives and 5 more liberal Senators, Taft-Hartley will not be repealed. Every vote counts this year. You can't be a good union member unless you are registered to vote.

CORRECTION

In the January issue of The Lather the new member of Local 235, Frank Earsteling 45197 was incorrectly published as Frank Elarsteling.

HOW DEMOCRACY FUNCTIONS

Under our Constitution, the President is the head of every part of the executive branch. He is Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Services. He directs our policies both at home and abroad. He is the man who sees that things get done in our huge government.

There are many limits to the President's power under our system of checks and balances. The Supreme Court can check the President.

Directly under the President are the great Departments—State, Treasury, Defense, Justice, Interior, Labor, Commerce, Agriculture and Post Office. These Departments are headed by Secretaries, who make up the President's Cabinet.

The Secretaries are appointed by the President. However, their appointment, like that of other important officials, must be approved by the Senate.

In our earlier years, all the business of our government was carried on by the Departments. In recent times, as government has become larger and more complicated, the great independent agencies have come into being, to handle specific problems.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has wide powers over all businesses which cross state lines. For example, the ICC fixes the rates which can be charged by railroads and buslines which operate across state boundaries.

All these Departments and agencies are responsible to the President. However, Congress has a great deal of control over them.

In the first place, they are created by Congress, which must pass laws defining their duties and powers. In the second place, Congress controls them by regulating the amount of money they can have to carry on their work. Congress alone — not the President — has the right to levy taxes and allot money to run our government.

Indirect Congressional control extends to every part of the executive branch. It is one of the most important parts of our system of "checks and balances" among the three branches of Government: Executive, Legislative and Judicial. Here are some of the other checks:

The President can veto any law passed by Congress. That means that the law is dead, unless Congress pass it again, by a two-thirds majority. In that case, the bill becomes a law despite the veto.

The Supreme Court can kill a law passed by Congress by declaring that it violates the Constitution.

Congress can impeach the President—that is, it can bring him to trial on charges of misbehavior in office. If the President is found guilty, he is dropped from office.

These and other checks are designed to keep any one part of our government from becoming too powerful.

In practice, the balance of power between the President and Congress varies.

Under very strong Presidents, we find the Chief Executive laying down the lines of policy, with Congress more or less meekly passing the laws he asks for.

Under other Presidents, Congress itself takes the lead in deciding what our policies shall be. The President merely manages the government, just as a manager might run a business under the policies of a Board of Directors.

The important point is that, under our Constitution, neither the President nor Congress can have its own way completely. In the checks and balances lies the guarantee that our government will remain free and democratic.

1950 TO BE BOOM BUILDING YEAR

The year 1950 will be a boom period in construction with the record $19 billion figure of 1949 being equaled this year, according to forecasts by Government construction experts.

Based on their estimates on incomplete figures for 1949 and plans for 1950, the Departments of Commerce and Labor issued a joint prediction near the end of the year saying that 1950 would be another record breaker.

The year will be another period of high level construction in housing with starts topping the 900,000 mark, which will be 37,000 less than the figure for 1949 and 31,000 less than 1948, which was another record year.

Under the new National Hospital Program there will be a sharp increase in institutional building.

Private construction will show definite decreases, Government statisticians say. Utility companies, except gas works, will build fewer new buildings or additions. Highway building will reach $1,900,000,000 in 1950, it is predicted.

The most famous of American landmarks stands on Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. It was built in 1735 and was used as a State House for over sixty years, for Philadelphia was the capital of Pennsylvania until 1799. It was also the capital of the country from 1790 until 1800.

In this picturesque old State House, now called Independence Hall, carefully restored to its original appearance, the Continental Congress met, Washington was made Commander-in-Chief of the American army in 1775, and here the Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4, 1776. Here is kept, as a sacred relic, the famous Liberty Bell with its motto, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land to all the people thereof."

A 17-man British construction industry team, back in England after a six-week tour of the U. S., summed up its observations and conclusions in a preliminary report last week. Major conclusion: The U. S. construction worker, sparked by the incentive of uniformly high pay; user of a vast number of portable tools and beneficiary of one of the most efficient systems of planning and design, is able to produce 50 percent more work for no more effort than his British counterpart. "The American worker," said the Englishman, "works more effectively than does the British . . . He puts everything he can into his work without holding back . . . The tempo of his job is fixed from the beginning like a machine belt in a factory."

WILLIAM GREEN, PRESIDENT, AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, SAYS:

"The Union Industries Show of 1950 to be held in Philadelphia will provide an effective answer to the challenge of Communism.

"There will be displayed many of the wonders of modern production methods — masterpieces of manufacture which cannot be matched anywhere else in the world. The keynote of this Union Industries Show is that high quality merchandise is the product of labor-management teamwork — labor and management working cooperatively together to produce industrial miracles for the benefit of the public.

"The purpose of the Union Industries Shows is to emphasize to the American people that organized labor is willing to cooperate constructively with employers who treat their workers fairly.

"The symbol of such fair dealing is the Union Label. The Union Label on a product means that it is made in America by union workers, under decent union standards and under clean and sanitary conditions. The same is true of the Union Shop Card and Button in service industries.

"The Union Label has served to raise the American standard of living to a level unmatched anywhere else in the world. It is the torch of progress which organized labor holds aloft in its march toward the achievement of a better life for the American people."

UNION LABEL — KEY TO PROSPERITY

MATTHEW WOLL, President Union Label Trades Department
American Federation of Labor

American citizens today have purchasing power unequalled for any nation in world's history. Their purchases, ranging from a dime's worth to the price of a home, are responsible for the stability and prosperity which we now enjoy. In fact, it is the purchasing power, over half of which is union-earned money, that makes the United States the greatest industrial nation on the face of the globe because, as consumers, we must have the means with which to buy our record output of merchandise.

The quality consumers seek in goods and services is available because of the skilled efforts of free American labor. It is usually designated by the Union Label, Shop Card or Button. We are proud of our skills because union-crafted articles indicate a rigid standard established by skilled workers who are members of national and international unions of the American Federation of Labor.

It is a fact that 80% of America's wealth has been created since 1900. This almost unbelievable velocity in the financial growth of our nation is due to increased purchasing power. If the American Federation of Labor had not been organized in 1881 and had not been so active during the first half of this century in obtaining a greater share of the wealth for the workers who produced it, then, as consumers, they would not have been able to buy the new comforts, improved living conditions and new inventions in the productive expansion of America's economy since the turn of the last century. In other words, if it had not been for organized labor we could not now enjoy the great industrial, scientific and commercial progress which has been made in these United States and the Dominion of Canada.

By patronizing only firms that display the Union Label, Shop Card and Button we constantly increase the market for top quality products and we guarantee the wages, hours and working conditions of all American workers. In this way the Union Label or any other official emblem of organized labor becomes the key to prosperity in America and we, therefore, urge the members of our unions as well as all consumers to continually buy only Union Label goods and to use only Union services.

The Union Industries Show is a splendid example of good relations between labor and management. It is the greatest show of its kind in the world. The fifth A. F. of L. exhibition will be held May 6 - 13, 1950, in Philadelphia.

Fate of Liberal Program Is at Stake

1950 . . . not just another election year . . . but THE election year that will decide whether Taft-Hartley will be repealed. This is the election that will decide whether the little people of America get a clear cut majority in Congress or whether the Taft-Dixie coalition will continue to hamstring every decent piece of social legislation that the people ask for.

In spite of the obstructive Dixie-GOP stalling during this last session, Congress passed more liberal legislation than had been passed in the previous 10 years. But we might as well be political realists. Many observers feel that the 81st Congress has gone as far as it can in the face of the Byrd-Taft bloc. The first session pushed through public housing, rural telephone loans, essential public power bills and a minimum wage increase on the domestic level as well as a liberal reciprocal trades act and the Atlantic pact on the international front.

Unfinished business includes repeal of Taft-Hartley, Civil Rights, health insurance, aid for education, and increased social security benefits. Of these only the last two are given much chance to get by both Houses.

Aid to education, however, may again be bogged down in the parochial school controversy.

Social Security was expanded and improved in the House-passed bill this last Fall, so many feel it is sure to go through the Senate. But, frankly, that is far from certain. The House-passed bill included benefits for the permanently disabled as well as for widows and older people. Naturally, the private insurance lobby is in there as usual fighting tooth and nail against disability insurance just as they did originally against old age and survivors insurance. So now it develops that the insurance companies and the American Medical Association lobbyists, Whitaker and Baxter, have worked out an arrangement whereby the insurance companies will carry the load for the AMA against health insurance in turn for AMA opposition to disability insurance.

With both the AMA and the insurance companies pouring millions into newspaper and radio propaganda, it is feared that enough Senators will be scared off to prevent passage of a good social security bill. It will be up to the people, the voters, to prove to Congress that there are more voters who want decent security programs than there are insurance agents and AMA publicity agents against such programs.

However, you don't have to be told that our daily press has a habit of giving a lot of free publicity on the editorial page to their big advertisers. You can expect most papers in the country to kill or twist every story favoring health insurance and disability insurance.

For that reason it will be a big job for every trade union officer and member to cut through the curtain of outright lies and scare words that will be heaped before the American people.

We will have some strong political allies in this next election. We have been making some interesting checks on Congressmen with certain farm and independent business groups in Washington. In almost every case a man who has voted against small business has also been against the farmer and the union man. We have found our enemies and friends almost identical. If we all can keep our heads above the confusing propaganda, the farmer, the union man and the small business man can make an invincible voting team. None of us can do it alone. If we let our mutual enemies divide us with false issues as they have in the past, we are lost.

To help our friends and defeat our enemies costs money as well as our votes. In traveling from one state to another, many local union officials have asked me whether any local union funds can be voted out of the treasury for political work. The answer is yes . . . so long as none of that money is used for a national candidate such as Congressman or President. You can use union funds and special assessments to help local and state candidates (in most states). The same applies to paying someone to check the registration of each member and otherwise getting voters qualified and organized for political action.

Your regular union papers can say anything they want for or against national as well as local candidates. There is no law against discussing politics in union meetings.

All the law says is that you can't use union funds or compulsory assessments to help a particular national candidate. For that each member is asked to voluntarily contribute $2 apiece to LLPE. I recommend that each local union pass a resolution at a regular meeting calling on every member to contribute $2 at the same time they pay their next month's dues. No union member can be compelled to contribute, but most will support the drive if it is approved by a majority vote of the local union.

If the union members get the guidance from their leaders which they deserve, they will exercise their voting power fully and intelligently in 1950 just as they did in 1948 and in the special elections this last year.

Remember, if 14 more liberal Representatives and 5 more liberal Senators are elected in 1950, Taft-Hartley will be repealed!

To the Secretaries of State and Local Building and Construction Trades Councils Affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Department

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

We asked you last September to get behind the Sparkman middle-income housing bill (S. 2246), and especially its Title III, which provided for cooperative housing. Congress did not act on the bill in the last session, and it is now up for consideration. The bill should reach the floor of the Senate later this month. While the section of the bill relating to cooperative housing has been changed somewhat in the present bill it is, if anything, better from our point of view than the original provision.

Title III of the Sparkman bill provides for 50-year loans, at low interest rates, to co-operatives and other non-profit groups. This will make it possible for them to build homes or apartments whose rents of monthly payments a union family can afford to pay. President Green recently testified in favor of the bill before a House Committee, and I appeared before a Senate Committee to urge its adoption. As it stands now, families in the middle-income group, which includes most union members, have been given no help whatever in solving their housing problem. While low-income families have been given help through the public housing and slum clearance legislation, the middle-income group is left to solve its housing problem as best it can.

It is most important that your Senators and Congressmen hear from you at once on this proposed legislation. Urge them to vote for the Sparkman bill, and particularly for its Title III. A detailed analysis of the bill is enclosed for your further information. Please call this to the attention of all affiliated local unions, and urge them to stress with their members the importance of immediate action.

Fraternally yours,
RICHARD J. GRAY,
President.

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS OF THE SPARKMAN MIDDLE INCOME HOUSING BILL (S.2246)

Cooperative Housing (Title III)

(1) Long-term low interest loans for cooperative housing projects for middle-income families — the loans to be privately financed through a National Mortgage Corporation for Housing Cooperatives, jointly owned and managed by the Federal Government and the cooperative housing group.

(2) Loans to be made at a 3 percent interest rate for an amortization period of up to 50 years but not to exceed the useful life of the project. A 5 percent down payment is required before occupancy.

(3) The entire program to be administered under a new Cooperative Housing Administration which will be established within the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

(4) Loans are authorized making possible construction of approximately 225,000 to 250,000 units.

PENSIONS

(Reprint from Labor Journal, St. Louis, Mo.)

Pension plans with industry do not give security to the worker. Too many pitfalls are in the offing. Too many things that would deprive him and his dependents of the pension can happen to a company worker before he reaches the eligible age for a pension.

Pension plans, which in reality are a substitute for a wage increase are merely another method of tightening the strangle hold that big business has on the workers of the nation.

The "insecurity" of capitalist pension plans may be shown through an analysis by Sumner H. Slichter, professor of business economics at Harvard, in an October 16 New York Times Magazine article. Here are the facts disclosed by Professor Slichter:

"Less than half of the men and less than one out of ten of the women of 65 and over in the United States are at work. Most retirements occur against the will of the worker at the decision of the employer.

"Employer-initiated plans do not give adequate coverage because they are limited to certain types of employees — usually long-service employees.

"The present 9000 employer-initiated plans cover a little more than one-third of the employees of the firms which have the plans.

"The plans may be abandoned at the will of the employer, leaving the employee without protection. Of 418 plans in existence in 1929, 45 had been abandoned by 1932.

"The plans restrict the movement of workers — a man who leaves one employer to work for another does not ordinarily carry his pension rights with him.

"The plans handicap older workers in finding employment. Even 20 years' contributions on behalf of a worker will not buy him a very adequate pension unless these contributions are at a high rate. Consequently, a man who is hired at the age of 55 and retired at the age of 65 or 68 would receive a very small pension.

"Employers do not care to undermine the morale of the workers by giving substandard pensions to employees that are retired, and they avoid this difficulty simply by not taking workers of more than about 45 years of age except for temporary jobs.

"Union-negotiated plans suffer from the same defects. No matter how strong the union, it cannot impose an adequate pension plan on those employers who are financially weak.

"In many instances the cost of the pensions (to all corporations) in a decade or so will be so large that the unions will have to consent to a reduction in the pensions in order to gain wage increases. Consequently, the so-called 'security' offered by many union-negotiated pension plans is illusory."

In the case of the miners, the underwriting of the pension fails to assure "that any part of the payments now being made into the fund will be available to provide pensions 10 or 20 years hence for the men who are today counting on getting pensions when they retire."

Of course we all know what happened to the miners' pension fund since Professor Slichter wrote the above, three months ago. It's gone and the miners are worse off than if no pension fund existed.

And, quite aside from the possibility that any pension plan may be abrogated at the will of an employer (if he is able to force his will, as in times of stress) pensions cease when employers go out of business, as many do in a depression.

Furthermore if living costs increased two per cent a year over the 30 year period the average worker would work before being eligible for a pension, the purchasing power of his pension would be cut in half.

The professor's statement covers a lot of ground. A worker who is fired loses his pension. A worker who is "disemployed" by the elimination of his job loses his pension. A worker who is laid off because of a lack of work loses pension benefits for the time of his unemployment, which may be permanent. A worker, who is thrown out of the union, and who loses his job as a result, loses his pension. A worker who is forced to seek another job, or another type of work, and who cannot fill his need by continuing in his old employment, loses his pension.

And be it noted, that a worker who survives these and other chances, including those connected with living until he reaches the age of 65 will receive his pension for a few short years, because the life expectancy after 65 is short.

The pension plans negotiated by the C.I.O. steel workers and the auto-workers call for pensions that are tied up with Social Security, with Uncle Sam paying most of the freight. Company announcements explained that the pensions provided by the company would total the contracted sum by the addition of Social Security retirement benefits, and that the companies would reduce their payments as the Social Security payments are increased.

In most cases the companies will be forced to part with comparatively small sums. Take the case of a married worker who has received an average income of $250 a month for 20 years: Social Security will pay him $72 a month when he is eligible. Under the Ford plan, this worker would receive an additional $28 a month from Ford.

It is this writer's opinion that pension plans with anyone but the government are the bunk. Industry should be made to pay into Social Security, amounts necessary to assure all workers a pension that will

These pictures and the two on Page 5 are taken from a model of St. Constantine Hellenic Orthodox Church soon to be erected in Chicago. Christopher John Chamales is the Architect. The model was completed in approximately 10,000 hours by metal lath apprentices of Local No. 74, Chicago, in their classes at Westcott Vocational School under the direction of Robert Hamilton, Metal Lath Instructor.

There have been classes in lather apprentice training in the Chicago Public Schools continually for over twenty years. The training received by the apprentices in these classes has proved very valuable to the contractor. Without classes of this type a large percentage of the apprentices would be inadequately trained journeymen. In 1947 the number of apprentices increased about 100%, and it was necessary to open another school for lather apprentices, this one on the south side, where I am now teaching. Brother James H. Hamilton has taken over the duties of teaching at the Washburne Trade School on the north side. Both schools teach from the same course of study and all apprentices must cover all the required school work before they can apply for their journeymen's cards. Apprentices receive the same pay for their school day as they do on the job.

The man who lacks faith in other men loses his best chances to work, and gradually undermines his own power and his own character. We do not realize to what extent others judge us by our beliefs. But we are in fact judged in that way; and it is right that we should be judged in that way. The man who has faith in the integrity of others in the face of irresponsible accusations is assumed to have the confidence in others' goodness because he is a good man himself.

TEACH THEM TO LIFT

Lifting know-how does not come naturally. Thousands of workers every year suffer strains or hernias from the simple process of picking up and putting down, according to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Standard's new booklet — "Teach Them to Lift."

Workers must be trained in safe lifting, and many tricks of the trade are told in this publication. Popular in style and amusingly illustrated, it is the second in a new series of safety pamphlets designed for the industrial foreman or supervisor.

"Untrained persons," the bulletin says, "often do a job the hard way. As a result, they have injuries. They soon lose their pep and energy, and they take more time — which slows down production." Methods are suggested for preventing the types of injuries caused by improper lifting habits, and 8 basic questions are given as a guide to the supervisor in teaching workers the proper lifting technique.

A limited supply of free copies is available from the Bureau of Labor Standards, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. permit them to live decently in their old age. A pension that would increase in proportion with the depreciation of the dollar. A pension that would permit them to move about from job to job and from city to city if they wish without losing their pensions. To tie a man to a job for 20 or 30 years to insure a pension is nothing short of industrial slavery. Pensions should cover workers in all walks of life and not a favored few. They should be paid in accordance with contributions from legitimate employment.

TRAVELING BROTHERS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE!

The continent known as Europe consists of twenty-five separate countries speaking twenty-five different languages. Out of it comes the worst in cruelties, poverty, despair and murderous wars.

On November 11, 1918, the whole world rejoiced over the ending of a cruel war. Twenty-one years later the same continent again caused war. Out of Europe have come ninety per cent of all the wars of mankind. The chief threat of the world today is the continent of Europe, the smallest of the continents, it covers about 3,800,000 square miles and it is only one-quarter bigger than the United States.

Again I say that the chief trouble with the world today is Europe with its prejudices, traditional hates and constant bickering. There is no hope for lasting peace and the brotherhood of man until Europe, as we know it, is obliterated and becomes a United States of Europe, with one language and all speaking that one, a melting pot as it were, all reduced to a single nationality of one government for all.

A depression will result if the United States continues to send large quantities of raw materials and foodstuffs out of this country. The U. S. A., with about 7 per cent of the world's population, cannot be expected to support the rest of the world. To continue to export in such huge quantities will lead to inflation followed by depression. The sharing of the wealth accumulated by our peoples by hard work will not, to any great extent, increase the well-being of the peoples of other nations.

To listen to people talk about the poor in other lands, a person would think we had no needy here, but we have, not only in our south, but in every section. We have people who could make good use of some of that which we are so liberal with to other people. Caring for the poor of other lands is a good excuse, but not the reason. Profits and votes, big business or big finance don't complain about big exports, not at all. The real complaint comes from the families who must stint because of the price of necessities. Business, finance and the farmer, all hail exports of goods and money, and they vote. Mr. Farmer is the biggest voting factor in the country. Consider the people, the cost of necessities have about reached the breaking point.

A preacher was visiting one of his poorer parishioners, an old woman afflicted with deafness, who expressed her great regret at not being able to hear his sermons.

Anxious to be sympathetic, he said, with self-depreciation: "You don't miss much."

"So they tell me," was the unexpected reply.

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS OF THE SPARKMAN MIDDLE INCOME HOUSING BILL (S.2246)

It is estimated that under this program, total monthly payments or rents can be reduced to $55-$65 a month for a 2-bedroom unit by savings which would be achieved in at least four ways:

- a. Reduced monthly financing costs through the lower interest rate and the longer amortization period.
- b. Savings through the non-profit feature.
- c. Savings because of an extremely low vacancy rate comparable to the experience in public housing.
- d. Reduced operating and maintenance expenses made possible by avoiding luxury services to tenants.

In addition, state and localities may contribute additional savings to this program by granting partial or complete tax exemption to cooperative and non-profit housing groups.

Other provisions

(1) Extends existing Federal Housing Administration Mortgage insurance program for rental and sales housing for higher income families.

(2) Improves the existing G.I. home loan program by increasing the Veterans Administration guarantee on G.I. home loan, authorizing the VA to make direct loans to veterans where private financing is unavailable at a 4 percent interest rate, and empowering VA to prescribe minimum standards for G.I. housing.

(3) Provides for disposition of war housing with first preference to veterans, cooperatives, and in some cases, to municipalities for low-rent public housing projects.

(4) Provides for direct loans to colleges and universities for construction of dormitories and other housing facilities for students and faculty.

MEDICAL CHARITY NOT WANTED

President James L. McDevitt of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor recently asked some pertinent questions about health insurance:

"Ask yourself, what would you do if tomorrow your wife or husband had to go under a specialist's care in a hospital for 6 months?

"Your bill would probably be between $3,000 and $4,000. Where would you get it? Mortgage your house? Borrow from friends? Or go on charity?

"Ask yourself, wouldn't it be better for all of us to pay a little each month of our working lives so that a sudden family medical tragedy didn't have to be family bankruptcy as well?

"The average American wants to pay his bills . . . he doesn't want free 'socialized medicine.' He doesn't want charity."

Commenting on McDevitt's conclusion, the League Reporter of the AFL League for Political Education said:

"That's right. Americans need — and want — national health insurance."

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS GO BY A NAME

Some unusual trade union names turn up in various parts of the world, the European Cooperation Administration reports, following communications from its staff of labor advisers overseas.

One of the most unusual list of names comes from the Greek mission where Alan Strachan is chief of the labor and manpower division.

He reports that unions are both "organized labor" and "associations for the protection of specific professional persons." There are 1785 "union" organizations in Greece, not all union in our sense, however.

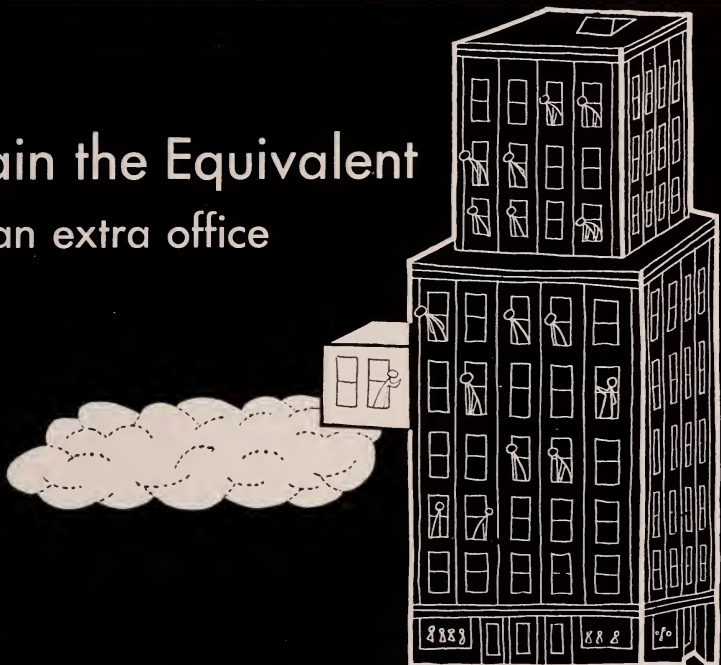

Some of the names include the "Pan-Hellenic Union of War Stricken Motorists"; the "Association of Ruined Bus Owners"; the "Union of Wronged Workers of Piraeus"; the "King Alexandria Motorists Confederation of Old Workers"; the "Council of Retired Lieutenant Generals"; the "Union of Retired Dancing Masters"; the "Union of Wronged and Mised Workers" (former Communists); and the "Union of Cobweb Sweepers of Patras."

Nations don't make wars. Wars are manufactured by relatively small groups of men who have axes to grind, who are in a position to poison and inflame public opinion, and who regard war itself as a legitimate instrument of policy. These are the war-mongers. Most of them pose as pure patriots. Some of them undoubtedly are.

The way to banish war is to wipe out the war-mongers, regardless of occupation, rank, religious affiliation, social status, or what-not. To do the job, an international underground of devoted men and women would be needed, ready to accept every risk incident to such an undertaking.

Gain the Equivalent

Promote 2" Solid ROCKLATH* and Plaster Partitions

If you have a fairly large office building you may be able to gain usable, rentable space on every floor roughly equivalent to the addition of an extra suite of offices.

On a smaller scale, you can gain enough space in the average-size apartment to accommodate a closet!

How? By specifying 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions! You'll gain three inches of space along the full length of the partition, compared with a conventional partition five inches thick when plastered.

You'll gain extra safety, too—because 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions, properly plastered, have a one-hour fire endurance rating. They have abundant strength, yet weigh only 16 pounds per square foot, installed. They cost no more, installed, than conventional partitions, and often cost less.

Ads such as this, directed to architects and builders, are featured in the leading architectural magazines. Such ads, by promoting the 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partition, help you sell your services.

Mayor O'Dwyer of New York has come out for legalized gambling on sporting events controlled and policed by the state. This would legalize race betting handbooks and football and baseball pools, but still bar slot machines and the numbers racket.

The mayor said that he was satisfied that the public is interested in sports not only from the spectator's standpoint but from the desire to bet on the events. He questioned whether use of every policeman in the state could enforce gambling laws. He pointed to the large revenue the state could get from licensing gambling and to the present high cost of what he termed futile attempts to prevent gambling and prosecute gamblers. He asserted that gambling would always be an invitation to criminal participation as long as it remains illegal.

On the prairie at night when hunting strayed cattle, we ride a mule as he will not topple us in a hole or slough.

He does not kick aimlessly, but only when he can reach the mark. He will not pull a load too heavy for him — and this is called stubbornness.

Regardless of how vicious he may be at other times, when sick he takes treatment docile as a lamb.

Loose in pasture he keeps to himself, will not associate with horses or cattle.

He insists on relaxing after a day's work, by rolling on the ground, even with harness on. He subsists on less than half required for a horse.

He possesses other qualifications which are inherent and are not taught or acquired by precept or example.

A shotgun changed the course of Broadway, New York City, at Tenth Street. In 1811 a commission was appointed to lay out a city plan of streets above Fourteenth. Broadway then extended to Tenth Street. Surveyors and engineers were told to carry it straight on up town, and if they had done so it would have paralleled Fifth Avenue. But when they started to lay their lines through the farm of old Hendrick Brevoort, where Grace Church now stands, the crusty old Dutchman drove them off with a shotgun. That is why Broadway turns at Tenth Street and goes diagonally across the city.

Foreign affairs remain the muddle they have been and will be for a decade. The conditions in Europe are logical and to be expected; they've happened in this manner after each great war. So, time is the best peacemaker and stabilizer.

CALLING ALL GIRLS

A lot of griping about the high cost of living goes on in male union meetings and in men's locker rooms. But the fact remains that the person who has to bear the brunt of the battle between fixed pay checks and rising prices is none other than that fine American institution, "The Little Woman."

First she has to cajole the old man to persuade him to let loose of a little more cash for each week's marketing. Then she has to cajole the butcher into finding her a piece of edible meat that she has enough money to pay for. The next step is to figure out some way to disguise one pound of inferior hamburger to make it look like two pounds of grade A sirloin. Finally she has to soothe her lord and master who, having paid out a good portion of his take-home pay for the dinner, wants to know why it doesn't feature porterhouse or a prime rib roast.

Another little task which usually falls on the self-styled "weaker sex" is to use enough flattery and persuasion on the landlord to get him to do something about the plaster that has a disconcerting habit of parting company with the ceiling at odd moments . . . usually three or four minutes before the dinner guests arrive. This kind of job was never easy. It is practically impossible now that the landlord is fortified by a 15 percent increase "voluntary" lease in one pocket, and a 10-page waiting list of housing-shortage victims in the other.

The American housewife has a world wide reputation for efficiency and tidiness. How did she happen to let our national household get into such a mess? Was it because she stayed home and did the dishes in her own kitchen, one November day in 1946, instead of going to the polls to tackle a larger, more important bit of housekeeping? Was it because she depended on her menfolks to do the voting that would keep our nation's house in order?

Lady, if you did, we hope you've learned your lesson. At least 8,000,000 workers failed to vote in 1946. The 8,000,000 votes they failed to cast counted as 8,000,000 votes for the enemies of working men and their families.—Railroad Telegrapher.

The Gallant Sex. — In a crowded subway train the other night two attractive secretaries were over-coming the unheard-of chivalry they met up with. A nice gentleman arose and politely offered his seat, followed immediately by his companion who did the same.

The bearing of the young ladies became almost regal — for these days such gallantry surpassed Raleigh's gesture to Elizabeth. Whether his conscience troubled him or he was just plain misogynous we don't know, but in a little while the first gentleman leaned over and said, "I don't think you girls will sit there very long — you're right over the heater and it's turned on full force."

Money, wealth, pay checks do not come out of the fog or the ether waves. It must be produced by work, which in turn is represented by goods created, services rendered, buildings erected, machinery built, etc.

The amount of paper money the government prints is conditioned upon the amount of wealth the public has, because eventually, unless the government can pay back to its citizens, good money in silver, gold or other form, dollar for dollar, for the paper money — it no longer is money; the public will not accept it in payment for work, goods and services rendered.

So, all wealth comes out of labor directly. But labor can not produce wealth unless it has the tools, the direction and the planning. The best carpenter in the world can not earn a penny unless he has tools and a job on which to use them. Hence management, employers, capital and the bosses are as essential to the production of wealth and prosperity as are the workmen.

And if some individual or corporation amasses a million dollars profit, and in doing this, give employment to a thousand people over a period of years, produces a product which adds to the comfort of living, and gives dollar value to its customers, wherein is the crime? Everybody is richer — workmen have had jobs they would not otherwise have had, and even the government has greatly enhanced its revenues.

"Yes," said the old man to his visitor, "I am proud of my girls and I would like to see them comfortably married. As I have made a little money they will not go penniless to their husbands. There is Mary, twenty-five years old, and a good-looking girl. I'll give her $1,000 when she marries. Then comes Elizabeth, who won't see thirty-five again. I shall give her $3,000, and the man who takes Eliza who is forty, will have $5,000 with her."

The visitor, a young Yankee, reflected a moment and asked:

"You haven't one about fifty, have you?"

"I haven't seen you at church lately, William," said the minister. "What's the matter?"

"My daughter's learning to play the harp," replied William.

"But what's that got to do with it?"

"Well, I'm not so keen on going to Heaven as I was!"

Much of the nation's vast reserve supply of coal lies in states where little coal is mined, for instance Wyoming, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota. The coal in these states is mostly of low quality. Many parts of the country have the low grade coal deposits. Lignite for instance, a substance between peat and bituminous coal, is used in many sections in lieu of real coal. Scientists are interested in an experiment tried in Alabama. A coal seam near Birmingham has been burning since 1884, and man has not been able to quench it. Air was blown in to feed the fire; gas produced by the blaze was drawn out through another channel and then used to fuel boilers of power plants and industrial plants.

It has long been argued that it was wasteful to mine coal just to burn it above ground to produce gas and it could be produced from coal without mining the coal. Those great deposits of low grade coal may therefore be burned profitably underground. The gases may run the wheels of industry and heat communities. Then, too, there will be little waste. Ordinary mining leaves half of the coal underground.

Each year fire destroys millions of dollars' worth of coal under the earth's surface. Coal mine fires in the Hocking Valley, for instance, are known to have been burning for more than sixty years. In the earth above some of these burning coal mines, the water is so hot potatoes can be boiled in it and boiling hot water can be taken from the many springs abounding.

Yes, there is a great field for those scientists to harness the power escaping from the burning coal mines, and there, too, many of the deposits of poor grade coal and lignite can be used advantageously to provide power and heat at little cost.

The British people have always preserved old customs, even when their origin has long since been obscured. For England is a land of tradition. Her people's civil liberties and democratic form of government are guaranteed by an unwritten constitution based on tradition alone.

Many of the customs commemorate small victories in the struggle to limit the power of nobility and royalty. For example, once the king has ascended the throne, he may never enter the House of Commons, nor can his name be mentioned there in debate. For the House of Commons represents the people.

It is sometimes difficult for Americans to understand or appreciate the spirit behind England's respect for old traditions. But to Britons the odd and colorful customs they treasure are a constant reminder that their hard-won democracy, too, is something to preserve and cherish.

SPEAK UP!

By Ruth Taylor

Centuries ago Euripedes wrote, "A slave is he who cannot express his thoughts."

How can you expect people to understand you if you cannot speak for yourself? How can you expect the proper evaluation of your work and your ability unless you are able to talk of it clearly, quietly, and with dignity?

Now don't say, "I can't talk about myself." Well, if you can't, who can?

I don't mean you're to go around loud-mouthed, bragging about what you mean to do someday. You must have, or acquire if you haven't it, the ability to sell yourself — but remember, you have to have something to sell before you begin. You've got to be sure your merchandise, which is you, is the best possible at the price. You have to have the assurance of ability and competence before you start talking and not just be a bag of "hot air."

And it wasn't just yourself Euripedes meant. "A slave is he who cannot express his thoughts." You have lots of ideas about the things that interest you. (I've met very few people whose only interest was themselves.) Learn how to talk about the things that interest you. Practice by saying what you think. It'll come hard at first — like anything new. But the more you do it, the easier it will become. I know — it wasn't easy for me at first, either.

Have something to say — even if it is only thank you. I know one man who was suddenly catapulted to an important job. He was a big frog in his own puddle, but when he attended his first big convention very few people had ever heard of him. They knew him before the end of it! I never heard a man make so many two minute speeches. When you summed them all up, all he did was thank the previous speaker for his "apt and appropriate remarks." Of course, all the speakers he complimented — and their followers — decided he was a man of discernment. And, when he finally had something to say — they listened — they were his friends. Now, couldn't you do that?

Remember — the oftener you take the trouble to put your thoughts into words, the clearer you will think and the better able you will be to explain your viewpoint. You will gain confidence and poise. You will feel more capable and better able to tackle not only your job, but the one ahead.

"A slave is he who cannot express his thoughts."

To The Officers and Members of Local Unions State and District Councils

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

I desire at this time to again bring to your attention the necessity of our members taking an active part in the program as set forth by Labor's League for Political Education.

We find that it is necessary in order to bring about the proper adjustment of such laws as the Taft-Hartley Act and other antagonistic labor legislation in the halls of Congress and the Senate, as well as in the State Legislatures where there is in effect what are commonly known as the "Little Taft Hartley Act" or other restrictive Acts applying to labor organizations, and which Acts have a tendency to retard the progress of working men and women all throughout the United States.

I would like to urge at this time that all of our members, their families and friends in the different sections of the country register in the primary elections, so that they will be able to vote in the regular elections for men who are known to be fair and just in their dealings with working men and women.

It should be our duty and strict responsibility to aid and assist in protecting the beneficial laws that have been placed upon the statute books by the friends of the working people of our country, as well as to try and defeat the enemies of the working men and women of our country who are attempting to destroy the progress that has already been made by the workers, by their attempts to enact legislation that is both harmful and detrimental, not only to the workers, but to the public generally.

Our International Union, through its local unions, has always attempted to assume a liberal and progressive position in the trade union movement and I sincerely trust that our membership will realize that it is to their best interests, as well as their responsibility to themselves and their families, to join with Labor's League for Political Education in attempting to prevent the forcing of the working men and women of our country back into any form of involuntary servitude through legislation.

And in order to carry out this program, it is necessary that our members join their Local Leagues for Political Education and do their part towards promoting and advancing the interests of our friends and defeating our enemies in the coming elections.

I would further advise that in order to carry on this work that all of our membership will take example from the action of our recent Los Angeles convention, and voluntarily subscribe at least $2.00 to help and promote work that is necessary to be done by the League in order to protect the gains that have been made during the past sixty years by the organized labor movement of our country.

I trust that our members will REGISTER and VOTE and that they will voluntarily subscribe to the political campaign of the League at least for the sum of two dollars.

Trusting that our membership will be governed in accordance with the recommendation of the recent convention and assume their proper responsibility in attempting to protect the gains that have been made by labor generally in this country, I am with best wishes

Fraternally yours,

William J. McSorley,
General President.

L.L.P.E. REPORT

By Joseph D. Keenan

Director Labor's League for Political Education

'Free Enterprise' Should Mean 'Fair Enterprise'

The "American Free Enterprise System." What is it?

Every day I watch Congress in action, and every time I read a lobbyist's hand-out I become more confused. The radio and newspapers tell us that everything that our AFL stands for is going to destroy "free enterprise" and going to lead us to socialism if not Communism.

Since the end of the war manufacturing, construction, sales and profits have boomed as never before. Business men never had it so good. Yet the big business boys aren't happy. The country is going from bad to worse . . . we must restore "free enterprise" . . . so they say.

Why aren't they happy? The only answer I can come up with is that they won't be happy until they and they alone can again dictate the rules of the game. Booming business and bonanza profits aren't enough to satisfy their souls. They also want unlimited power for its own sake as well.

In the good old days big business had that power. They elected the Congress. They named the President. They named the judges. The laws and the courts protected vested property rights first, and human rights second. Unions were kept weak so that the companies had absolute power over the daily bread of their employees.

Don't be fooled by the babbling of the phoney lobby fronts for big business. They aren't against government interference. They aren't against government subsidies. What they want is the "freedom" to conduct their "enterprise" in any manner they see fit and the public be damned. They want government interference to protect their arbitrary powers and not the constitutional rights of their employees. They want the subsidies to go only to business in the form of land grants, mail subsidies, incentive taxes and outright gifts. What they object to are government services to farmers and social security payments to ordinary citizens.

They want strong unions made weak and weak unions non-existent. They want a Congress accountable to the few . . . not to the people and for the people. That's the "free enterprise" Big Business really yearns for.

Sometimes I thank God for the reactionary 80th Congress. It refreshed our memories of how things were in the "good old days." Think back . . . not very far . . . just to the 20's and 30's.

The "free enterprise" that the big business boys want to go back to is the freedom to employ their own private thugs and industrial spies, to fire and blackball workers who join the union, to recruit boatloads of innocent immigrants to break down the wage standards and smash the unions.

They want to go back to the days of the Coal and Iron police and the Ford Servicemen. They want to go back to the day when the local police would wink their eyes at vigilantes who treated organizers to a tar-and-feather party. They want to go back to the days when judges were only too eager to issue an injunction to break a strike.

They want to go back to the days when the foreman could stand at the plant gate and take bids on jobs . . . who will take 40 cents for this lathe hand job . . . now who will do it for 30 cents . . . and so on.

They want to go back to the open shop days of the American Plan with its fancy speed-ups and stop watch incentive plans. They want to go back to the days when they could employ little children for 10 and 12 hours a day. They want a few million unemployed . . . it makes for better "labor discipline."

If you think this sounds like the day dreams of a soap-box orator, dig out some records in your library. You don't have to go back to the Homestead Massacre of 1892 . . . just go back to the 1930's . . . to Harlan County, Kentucky. In 1935 60,000 people lived in Harlan County, 45,000 of them in company-owned towns under the absolute rule of the coal companies. The reign of terror in Harlan County between 1934 and 1938 reads like a horror story from behind the iron curtain. The sheriff, the Commonwealth Attorney and the County Judge were all on the secret payroll of the coal companies. There were more than 300 deputy sheriffs paid and directed entirely by the coal companies as a private army. These deputies along with company "thug gangs" kidnapped, dynamited, beat up and murdered in cold blood local citizens and union organizers in a wholesale manner. U. S. Steel Corporation owned every road, store, house and theatre in Lynch, Kentucky, the largest town in the County. The only police in Lynch were company thugs . . . the chief of police took his orders from company headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Every constitutional right was violated. The companies were a law unto themselves . . . until passage of the Wagner Act. It was only this Act which brought about the world-shocking court trials and a union contract in 1938.

Harlan County was an extreme example of what was typical before the Wagner Act was passed. The rapid growth of union membership after 1937 proved beyond a doubt that employees wanted to join unions, but they feared to do so. They jumped when the Wagner Act gave them the chance. Trade union membership tripled between the passage of the Wagner Act in 1935 and our entry into World War II. From a low of less than 3 million in 1937 our membership in the AFL has jumped to almost 8 million today.

American workers remember the "good old days" and don't want to go back. This has been dramatically shown by the 98 per cent vote for the union shop given by millions of workers since passage of the Taft-Hartley Act.

If 98 per cent of the workers agree that strong unions won't wreck our system, then what else is there in our program that reactionaries object to?

We want Old Age and Survivors insurance instead of the county farm and degrading charity.

We want a farm program that will keep farmers prosperous and good customers for city-made products upon which our jobs depend.

We want unemployment compensation, compensation against injuries on the job, health insurance . . . not charity.

We want every child to have an equal opportunity to a good education.

We want private competitive business . . . not monopoly or government ownership.

We want the civil rights of all citizens of every race, creed and color protected.

Is this a dangerous subversive program? Will it weaken our democracy or make our country a more secure, prosperous and happy place in which to live?

Look back to 1933 or 1929 or 1922 or 1892. Do you want to go back? If you don't, then there is no time to waste. There is something you can do about it.

First, get yourself and every member of your family registered to vote. Second, contribute your $2.00 to Labor's League for Political Education. Third, read your Congressman's voting record . . . not the newspaper headlines. Fourth, sign up to be a volunteer election worker in your local LLPE. Don't do it next week . . . do it now.

And last, vote in the primary, vote in the general election, and tell your friends to do the same. The other side may have the money, but we have the votes.

If all of us use our votes as good citizens, then we will have a strong and prosperous America with true freedom for all and true competitive enterprise operating for the prosperity and happiness of everybody.

For 161 years Americans have been electing their Presidents by State majorities, not by the choice of individual voters. The candidate who carries a State, even by the narrowest margin, gets all that State's electoral votes. Three times the system has put in the White House a President who actually was the second choice of the American people.

HAGGERTY NAMED TO CALIFORNIA BOARD OF REGENTS

(CFLNL) SAN FRANCISCO. — C. J. Haggerty, secretary of the California State Federation of Labor, was last week appointed to the Board of Regents of the University of California by Governor Earl Warren.

The Governor thus recognized the long-held desire on the part of organized labor in California to have a spokesman on this important body. State Federation conventions first took up this campaign in the early years of the century.

Haggerty succeeded Herbert Fleishacker, San Francisco financier, whose term had expired.

Governor Warren declared that Haggerty was the first representative of organized labor to be named to the Board of Regents in the history of the University. The appointment is for a term of 16 years.

The Federation secretary has served as a member of the State Board of Education since June 20, 1945. Previously, he was a member of the State Personnel Board, being appointed to that position by Governor Culbert Olsen.

Haggerty is second vice-president of the International Union of Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers. He had been executive officer of the California State Federation of Labor since 1943 when he was elected to the position of secretary-treasurer. From 1937 to 1943 he was president of the Federation.

As legislative representative, he has presented the position of the Federation before the state legislature through the past ten years.

Prior to his election as secretary-treasurer of the Federation, Haggerty was secretary of the Los Angeles Building and Construction Trades Council. He is a member of Lathers Local 42, Los Angeles.

He served as a member of the Personnel Commission of the Los Angeles city school system from 1939 to 1943.

During World War II President Roosevelt named him to the Regional Management-Labor Committee of the War Manpower Commission, and he also served on various other federal and state agencies.

He was appointed by President Truman to a committee representing workers of the United States at the meeting of the Building, Civil Engineering and Public Works Committee of the International Labor Organization, held in Brussels, Belgium, November 25 to December 3, 1946, for the study of world labor problems. He was an adviser to the United States workers' delegation to the ILO Conference held in San Francisco in 1946.

SUIT CHARGES HOME FALLS APART IN YEAR

A house purchased last May now is falling apart, the buyers charged Saturday in a damage suit.

Clarence Otis Lee and his wife, Bernice, said that with the cold weather they noticed the walls in the house at 1214 Frontier were damp. It got colder. They got damper. The Lees looked carefully and, the suit says, they found:

1—A hole full of water under the house.

2—The first floor rests on pillars standing in that hole; the timber is rotten and crumbling.

3—Floors are beginning to sag; the south and west walls are falling apart.

4—The roof leaks. Both toilets leak.

5—You can see the hole under the house through a large crack in the kitchen floor.

The Lees asked $15,000 from Atty. Jay Goran who, they charge, sold them the house through "false representations." They want $15,000 more punitive damages and Goran jailed if he doesn't pay a judgment of the court.

JOHN D. KNEW SAM

During War I many conferences were held, conferences recessed for lunch, in many instances, conferences were late in getting back to the conference. On one occasion, Bernard Baruch had prepared a buffet lunch to be served in a room adjacent to the conference hall, to avoid delays in getting the conference in action after lunch. When the announcement was made that lunch would be served, a trickle was made to the buffet. Sam and I entered with the others, expecting to serve ourselves at the buffet. Instead, a man, dressed as a waiter, ushered us to a seat. Sam said, "I thought this was a buffet lunch." "Yes, but I am a waiter on this occasion and I will serve." He did, and Sam handed him the proverbial dime. The waiter was John D. Rockefeller. He took the dime and said, "I always heard that waiting was a lucrative job, and now I know." Sam never smiled, but John D. expressed great pleasure at the joke.

HERE'S HOW CONGRESS MAKES OUR LAWS

Before a bill becomes a law it may have to go through 24 different stages on Capitol Hill.

In commenting on this situation, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.) points out:

"Our legislative procedure . . . is in itself a rather time-consuming one, and prevents speedy action. It does, however, ensure full debate and an opportunity for all to be heard."

Let's trace a bill which is introduced in the House and finally makes its way to the statute books and becomes the law of the land.

1. A Congressman introduces his bill, say, to build a new bridge over a river in his district.

2. The bill is referred to the proper committee.

3. A subcommittee is appointed to study the measure.

4. Public hearings are held. Persons for and against the project are heard. Expert testimony of the subcommittee research staff is presented.

5. The subcommittee reports the bill to the full committee.

6. The full committee studies the measure and finally reports it to the House.

7. The bill is placed on the proper House calendar to await its turn for consideration.

8. The measure is debated. It can be passed, rejected or sent back to committee for further changes.

9. If the bill is passed by the House, it is sent to the Senate.

10. In the Senate the measure is referred to the proper committee.

11. A Senate subcommittee is set up to study the measure.

12. Once again public hearings are held.

13. The Senate subcommittee sends the bill to the full committee.

14. The full committee studies the measure and finally approves it.

15. Then the bill is given a place on the Senate calendar.

16. At the proper time the full Senate debates the measure. The Senate may pass a bill differing somewhat from the one approved by the House.

17. Then the measure goes to a conference committee made up of Senators and Representatives.

18. The conference committee agrees on a measure which it thinks will be accepted by both Houses.

19. The bill agreed on by the conference committee goes back to the House and Senate.

20. The House must vote on the conference bill.

21. The Senate must vote on it also.

22. If both House and Senate agree on the conference measure, then the final bill goes to the President.

23. The President decides whether he should sign the bill, thus making it law, or veto it.

24. If the bill is vetoed, the House and Senate can enact it into law by overriding the veto with a two-thirds majority in both Houses. This is rather infrequent.

Of course, anywhere along the line in the legislative procedure the bill may be killed by a vote of a subcommittee, a full committee or either House.

'Sno Use

The old mountainer grand-paw was sitting in his favorite rocker on the front porch of his little cabin. He was rocking leisurely, east and west.

Sitting beside him, rocking north and south, was his youngest son Bub, an innocent little shaver of 42.

Without turning his head, the old man said: "Sonny boy, 'sno use t' wear yerself out thataway. Rock with the grain and save yer stren'th."

The car skidded and overturned. The driver and his new girl friend found themselves sitting together, unhurt, alongside the completely smashed car. He put his arm around her waist, but she drew away.

"It's all very nice," she sighed, "but wouldn't it have been easier to have run out of gas?"

U. S. APPROVING HOMES TOO SMALL

By WILLIAM GREEN

President, American Federation of Labor

(Before House Banking Committee urging passage of Spence-Sparkman Middle Income Cooperative (Housing Bill))

Private builders are forcing American families into housing units far too small for adequate family living.

Federal Housing Administration sets a certain "minimum size of space" for rooms in a dwelling unit which builders of houses and apartments have to meet before they can get approval for FHA guaranteed loans. These standards simply do not provide enough space for decent family living.

Recently, our AFL Housing Committee noticed that some 2-bedroom apartments now being made available in the Washington area were renting at $75 to $80 a month instead of $85 to $95.

Encouraged by this apparent trend, we asked a member of our research staff to inspect these apartments. He found that although the rents in these apartments were indeed somewhat lower than in most new apartment developments in this area, the living space had been reduced more than proportionately. In fact, the living space in these apartments is actually at or near the absolute minimum required by the FHA.

For example, a typical 2-bedroom apartment which our staff member inspected had the following measurements:

Living room—10 ft. 2 in. by 15 ft.; bedroom—10 ft. 6 in. by 10 ft. 2 in.; second bedroom—8 ft. 3 in. by 10 ft. 8 in.; kitchen-dining space—15 ft. by 6 ft. 2 in.

This is an over-all area of about 440 sq. ft. which means that the total area of the apartment is about 525 sq. ft. These are apartments which are being rented to veterans in the Washington area with one, two and sometimes even more children.

These are the housing units which private builders are constructing, and FHA is approving, for middle-income families. These facts by themselves are startling enough but they become even more vivid when we realize that the housing units the federal government is approving for middle-income families would not meet the standards set for low-income families in public housing projects by the Public Housing Administration. In our opinion, the public housing standards represent an absolute bare minimum for decent family living.

If we permit these trends to continue, we are not only encouraging the construction of the slums of tomorrow, but we are creating definite psychological and community problems which will have a seriously injurious effect on every aspect of American life.

"Did the doctor mean it when he said you wouldn't live a week if you didn't stop chasing women?"

"I'll say he did. I was chasing his wife!"

LABOR CLEARED OF HIGH HOME COSTS

Organized labor is not to blame for the high cost of available homes.

The A. F. of L. has long said so. Now comes Herman T. Stichman, New York State Housing Commissioner, to back the A. F. of L.

"The responsibility for high costs has not been that of labor," Mr. Stichman told the A. F. of L. Executive Council and the Building and Construction Trades Department in meetings at Miami, Fla. He said the blame rests with "speculative builders" who "skimmed the cream and gouged the public with high rentals."

"As we look back over the years since the war, we see that the national housing economy is not improving," he said. "At the cessation of hostilities, there was no effective way to meet the tremendous demands for housing throughout the country from families who had been doubled up, from veterans who wanted homes of their own, as well as from young people who sought to marry, and this was not due to the results of the war alone."

Million Minus Homes

"There are still in this fifth year since the cessation of hostilities about 1,000,000 persons living in converted barracks, in quonset huts, and in other temporary shelters throughout the country."

Mr. Stichman urged the A. F. of L. to take a greater part in obtaining adequate housing programs. He told of New York State's program and the cooperative projects of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local No. 3 in New York City.

He said that organized labor had been "unfairly accused" of having failed to train sufficient apprentices and of inadequate production.

"New York State's program proves that the responsibility for high costs has not been that of labor, because we have used the same workmen, the same materials, the same land, and the same lenders, but we have watched and limited the profits to a reasonable amount," Mr. Stichman said.

CORRECTION

The contractor's resignation certificate of G. A. Skove 37157 by Local 81, published in the February 1950 issue of The Lather, was issued in error by the secretary and has therefore been cancelled. Brother Skove is a solicitor in good standing in Local 81.

CORRECTION

The name of Orren Grant Hatch, apprentice in Local 33, was incorrectly reported to headquarters and published in the February '50 issue of The Lather as Orin Grant Hatche. It is now correctly entered on our records.

CORRECTION

In May 1948 Howard John Pingston, formerly an apprentice of Local 505 in 1939, applied for membership thru Local 505 (Detroit). Due to the similarity in their names, his record became confused with that of Howard Walter Pingston 27556, a suspended member of former Local 453 (Detroit) since December 15, 1925 resulting in the erroneous reinstatement of this H. W. Pingston 27556 on May 17, 1948 as published in the June 1948 issue of The Lather.

This mixup in the records of these two Pingstons was discovered recently and it has been adjusted by the cancellation of the reinstatement of H. W. Pingston 27556 on May 17, 1948 and by the enrollment of Howard John Pingston as of May 17, 1948 with the number 45551, published in this issue (April '50) of The Lather.

The following transactions, entered on the record of H. W. Pingston 27556 after the erroneous reinstatement of May 17, 1948 have been transferred to that of H. J. Pingston 45551:

Suspension for nonpayment of dues by Local 505 on August 30, 1948, published in the January '49 issue of The Lather;

Reinstatement in Local 505 on February 25, 1949, published in the March '49 issue of The Lather;

Transfer from Local 505 into Local 5 on March 15, 1949, originally published in the April '49 issue of The Lather under the name of H. Pingston 10680 and later corrected to H. Pingston 27556 as published in a correction notice in the January '50 issue of The Lather.

Since the erroneous reinstatement of H. W. Pingston 27556 on May 17, 1948, has been cancelled, his record has reverted to its former status of automatic suspension since December 15, 1925.

CORRECTION

Suspension of E. Bender 11989 for non-payment of dues by Local 492, published in the February 1950 issue of The Lather, has been cancelled because it occurred thru an oversight which was neither the fault of brother Bender nor of Secretary South and was only discovered after brother Bender's name had been sent to headquarters for suspension by Local 492.

EDITORIAL

It is a signal honor to American Labor that Good Citizenship is to keynote the May 15-July 4 Independence Drive sale of United States Savings Bonds.

If any economic group SHOULD know the true meaning of good citizenship, that group is made up of our Labor Unions. Their members had to FIGHT for the right to be good citizens. They conquered mountains of Master-Servant dogmas in Labor's dark ages, to stand firmly forth as free men . . . shouldering equally with every other individual the responsibility of preserving the heritage bestowed on a free society by those famous lines of the Declaration of Independence:

"WE HOLD THESE TRUTHS TO BE SELF EVIDENT THAT ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL AND THEY ARE ENDOWED BY THEIR CREATOR WITH CERTAIN INALIENABLE RIGHTS, AND AMONG THESE ARE LIFE, LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS."

Today, men and women of the Labor Movement are in the front ranks of good citizenship . . . defying all who would deny individual freedom and dignity. They were among the first to buy War Bonds, the first to buy Savings Bonds, and will be among the first to answer when Secretary of the Treasury Snyder starts the new Bond campaign.

Our people know, perhaps better than do neighbors in other walks of life, that personal and family security means national security. They have enjoyed security a shorter time. They won it the hard way, and the lesson is fresh in their minds.

Labor families but recently crossed from the wrong side of the tracks. Today, thanks to better pay and working conditions, they live in better homes, eat better food, wear better clothes, have better health, better education, and ride the highways with the rich and the powerful.

All this spells Good Citizenship. Labor has come into great power in national life, and this imposes great responsibility. It has met the challenge steadfastly and honorably. Its participation has passed from the wage-level battle for base sustenance to substantial activity in civic and community life.

Many of its members are elected to high positions in public affairs. They are guided by the star of those, come and gone, who built the spiritual bridges over which later generations pass to higher achievements.

Labor is ennobled by its part in winning the war. It gave sons and daughters to armed combat, but its greater glory derives from the manner in which men behind the machines built equipment for every battlefield. They held the home front by freely relinquishing many of the rights which, under the law they could have held. No others at home sacrificed so many of their peacetime privileges. They wore their hero medals in their hearts, humbly thankful that they helped put victory battle badges on their brethren in uniform.

In all fair minds there is recognition today of Management's right to manage and Labor's right to bargain collectively. Wherever this prevails, the factory boss and the worker sit down side by side at a civic Service Club dinner, eat the same food, smoke the same brand cigar and walk out wearing the same size hat.

This is the kind of good citizenship Lincoln had in mind when he said that any man who had the makings of a good American had the makings of a good President. It is the kind Sam Gompers had in mind when he said that to be a good Citizen you had to be a good Union man. It is the kind we have in mind today when we say that to be a good Union man you have to be a good Citizen!

"WE NEVER FORGET"

Wendell Phillips, great preacher and reformer, once gave some advice to working people in which he said:

"If you want power in this country; if you want to make yourselves felt; if you do not want your children to wait long years before they have the bread on the table they ought to have, the leisure in their lives they ought to have, the opportunities in life they ought to have; if you don't want to wait yourselves — write it on your banner, so that every political trimmer can read it, so that every politician, no matter how short-sighted he may be, can read it, 'We never forget! If you launch the arrow of sarcasm at labor, we never forget! If there is a division in Congress, and you throw your vote in the wrong scale, we never forget!'

"You may go down on your knees, and say, 'I am sorry I did the act,' and we will say 'It will avail you in heaven but on this side of the grave, never!' So that a man, taking up the labor question, will know he is dealing with a hair-trigger pistol, will say, 'I am to be true to justice and to man; otherwise, I am a dead duck!'"

FRIENDSHIP TREATY WITH IRELAND

A Treaty of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation registering the long standing and close relationship existing between the United States and Ireland, was signed in Dublin on January 21 by United States Minister to Ireland, the Hon. George A. Garrett, and the Irish Minister for External Affairs, Sean MacBride.

Under negotiation for over a year, the treaty removes some anomalies which had existed because of changing world conditions, and emphasizes common interests of the two countries which are always taken for granted but never formalized.

Under the treaty, the United States recognizes Ireland's right to give imperial preference to British and British Commonwealth goods, even though Ireland formally withdrew from that family of nations two years ago.

Another clause provides that Irish citizens employed in the United States will have the same social security benefits and workmen's compensation benefits as Americans.

Irish physicians may practice medicine in the United States if they have the qualifications provided under American law.

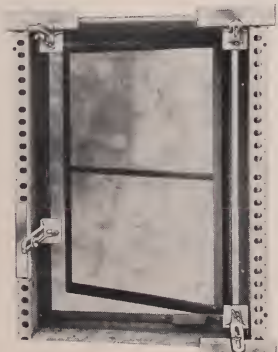

The treaty stipulates also that Irishmen in the United States shall not be drafted for military service unless they become American citizens.

The State Department stated that the treaty is "the most comprehensive of its kind that Ireland has signed with any country," and added that it "may be deemed a fitting expression of the close ties which bind the people of the United States and Ireland."

The treaty, which must be approved by the Senate is designed to provide a legal framework for general economic relationships between the two countries and their development "in harmony with modern economic conditions."

GET READY!*By Ruth Taylor

The other day I came across a homely proverb that was so pertinent I cut it out to mull over. Here it is: "You can't keep trouble from coming, but you needn't give it a chair to sit on."

We all know the kind of person who seems to welcome trouble — who, while bemoaning it, still invites it in. You know these are the people who enjoy poor health, who seem to take a mournful pleasure in talking about how bad things are. They get a sort of cheer out of seeing the darkest side of things. They are the ones who are always sure the worst will happen — and for them it does.

They are the people who always have an alibi. There's the girl who when asked why she didn't do more accurate work, said it was because she wasn't paid enough. Now she was not only giving trouble a chair to sit on but was spreading a feast for it. Here's was a vicious circle. She probably wasn't paid what she thought a good job was worth, but unless she did a good job, it was certain she wouldn't be paid at all!

There are those who face the future by penny pinching but at the same time squander dollars of time. Not that I'm talking against money in the bank. U. S. Saving Bonds have done a lot to convert their buyers to the importance of saving. But there is something more needed.

Don't forget that good health to face weather is better than a silk umbrella. And that sound preparation by education to earn a living is the best insurance against economic insecurity. The development of earning skill is an asset in more ways than one. The way to hold a job is to do that job better than anyone else can do it.

Certainly this period of world insecurity is going to be difficult for all of us, but we needn't make it. We don't have to offer trouble a chair. We can be ready to face anything by preparing for it — and by making ourselves invaluable in the job we now hold.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS PREDICT A BENEFICIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS

Leaders of the Democratic party in Congress predict that the second session of the 81st Congress, now a month old, will be fruitful and beneficial for the American people.

This session has already enacted into law repeal of the tax on oleomargarine and amendments liberalizing the Hatch Act to permit government employees to participate in local elections in Virginia, Maryland and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Democratic spokesmen who pledged fulfillment of much of President Truman's Fair Deal program are Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois; House Speaker Sam

Rayburn of Texas, and House Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

APPRENTICESHIP HELD VITAL PART OF NATIONAL DEFENSE PROGRAM

Apprenticeship is an important part of the national defense program, Director William F. Patterson of the U. S. Labor Department's Apprenticeship Bureau said recently.

Addressing 84 apprentices completing their period of learning at the Naval Air Materiel Service at Philadelphia, Patterson said: "American production is not by accident the finest on earth. It has taken years of ground work — years of training skilled workmen — to bring this productivity to its present level. The skilled worker, who is the foundation on which this production is laid, is likewise not trained overnight. He must be thoroughly indoctrinated into all phases of his trade by actual job experience and carefully chosen related technical instruction."

Emphasizing that it took 2 years to get American industry geared to full production during the last war, Patterson said: "Not only must we stock pile the munitions of war but also we must have available a sufficient skilled labor force. Another war — if it comes — will not allow us this period of grace. As important to our security as our technological knowledge are the hands of skilled workmen who put this knowledge to practical use."

He pointed out that apprenticeship — the best method of training skilled workmen — has been practiced in navy yards and on other government projects for a number of years and that these apprentices are an insurance policy for our national safety. Sound programs of apprentice training provide leadership in industry, he added.

Site of Union Industries Show

Philadelphia.—This is the huge Convention Hall—scene of many nationally historic occasions—where one more great event will be held when the AFL Union Industries Show opens there May 6 to run to May 13. More than 500,000 visitors are expected to see the show. The AFL executive council, American Federation of Women's Auxiliaries of Labor and the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor will meet concurrently with the show.

Attend the 5th AFL UNION INDUSTRIES SHOW You'll get a big kick out of it!

It is the only one of its kind and is scheduled May 6-13 at Convention Hall in Philadelphia. We want to make it the biggest and best ever held. In order that it will be the sensational success that every other one has been, we appeal to all national and international unions of the American Federation of Labor to participate in this unique labor-management exhibition.

Good relations — cooperation between labor and management — is one of the worthy goals of our Union Industries Shows. Public good will of American consumers is another objective. We anticipate that half a million people will see this spectacular AFL-union event. Admission is free and valuable prizes will be given away.

Over one and a half running miles of brilliant displays of hi-quality, union-made products and exciting demonstrations of efficient union services — marvels of union workers' techniques — will be seen in the huge auditoriums of famous Convention Hall.

It will be a grand and glorious feeling for all Americans who take pride in our system of free enterprise to witness the human element — the expert craftsmanship — which is emphasized in addition to commercial values at our now-famous Show.

Visitors will also get a big kick out of the music, the contests, the entertainment and US armed forces' displays in addition to the gorgeous exhibits during the 8-day, action-packed, round-up of union-made-in-America merchandise and union services.

Let's prove to the world that they are tops!

FIGHTING FOR SECURITY

The average American's friends in Congress are waging an inch-by-inch battle for an improved Social Security program. To win the fight they will need the support of every Union man in the nation.

What they're up against is the "socialism screamers" who have a lot of wind and a lot of money. As with every proposal to better the lot of lower-paid workers, the champions of Fat Business are against it and will fight to the bitter end any bills to give Americans more security and happiness.

The present Social Security program was adopted in 1935, and no constructive amendment to the Act has been passed for more than 11 years. Obviously, the plan is geared to a "depression" economy. Its limited schedule of benefits is definitely inadequate to meet the needs of aged persons and widows and children living in today's high-cost era.

In this day of the Cold War and the global tussle of ideologies, the eyes of the world are on America. If we fail to show the millions who are watching us hopefully that we can provide security for our citizens, they might fall for the bait which Communism dangles before them.

But the enemies of Social Security refuse to look at the suffering and hardship of the aged and the misery of a widow with young children. All they can see is "the evil of socialism."

The American Federation of Labor is fighting vigorously for expanded Social Security benefits. In Congress, the House of Representatives has passed a bill to improve the present program, but the House-adopted measure falls short of the progressive recommendations urged by the AFL.

Briefly, the AFL recommendations would just about double the pension and survivor benefits which you or your wife and children would receive under Social Security.

For example, if you have had an average salary of $200 per month and have been covered for 20 years by Social Security, you would be eligible for a pension of $42 a month under the present law. Under the measure recently passed in the House, you would receive $66. And, under the AFL's proposed program, you would get $84.

If your average monthly wage has been $200 and you die after having been covered by Social Security for 10 years, your widow and two children would receive $67.37 under the present law. Under the House-passed bill, they would get $126, and under the AFL program they would receive $154.

Representatives of the AFL, in testimony before the Senate Finance Committee, have emphatically urged the Senate to incorporate the improved schedules in the Social Security amendments.

Another important feature the AFL wants in the Social Security amendments is one to provide insurance for workers against temporary disability.

The foes of Social Security will fight hard and long against any of these improvements, which would mean so much to working men and women and their families. The only way the workers' fight can be won is by their letting their Representatives and Senators know how strongly they feel on the subject of Social Security.

UNDER-SEA TUNNEL?

The 22 miles of water separating England from the European mainland once served to stave off invaders, though it slowed peacetime trade. For decades it has been the dream of farsighted statesmen and engineers to join Britain and France by a railroad tunnel under the English Channel. Today, such an achievement lies within the realm of possibility, a potential miracle of the future world. Cutting through the water-impervious chalk 95 feet below the Channel bed, the tunnel would stretch 34 miles, linking Dover and Calais.

FEDERAL AGENCIES LET CHISELERS STEAL GOVERNMENT FUNDS

Washington. — Chiselers are stealing millions of dollars of U. S. funds through the failure of various departments of government to enforce the 8-hour day and Bacon-Davis laws on government projects.

The policy is victimizing workers, spreading unemployment when the need is to create jobs, and permitting the "scab" employers to get away unpunished with millions of dollars in federal funds.

The problem is of intense interest to all AFL international unions, particularly in the building and metal trades, and government services. It has been the subject of several AFL conferences.

"We are not going to get any cooperation from the government until we get a clear indication from the head of the government that he wants these laws observed," said AFL Secretary-Treasurer George Meany. "I am sure President Truman's policies are not in favor of violation of these laws."

The problem arises from these basic causes:

1. Failure to enforce the 8-hour day law originally enacted under President U. S. Grant and strengthened by laws enacted in 1892 and 1913.

2. Failure to enforce the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage law by permitting the agency which awards or finances government work to enforce the Bacon-Davis wage decisions, which has resulted in no enforcement at all in many cases.

Under wartime emergency powers still in effect, the President issued executive orders permitting suspension of the 8-hour day under certain conditions. Some government departments are now allowing abuse of this wartime expedient in such a way as to keep thousands of persons out of legitimate government work.

Over 70 years ago, when labor was not powerful and when reactionaries attempted to cut down the daily rate of pay when the 8-hour law was applied, President Grant adopted a liberal attitude.

The ideas carried in President Grant's proclamation of May 19, 1869, were laid down as the United States policy at that time, and it is still the policy, and should be observed without question by all administrative officers of the government.

Mr. Truman should let his old orders suspending the 8-hour day die on June 30, 1950, and not issue any new orders to nullify the 8-hour law.

The greatest damage to AFL union members occurs under the lax enforcement policy of the government's agencies which award or finance federal projects under the Bacon-Davis law.

Mr. Meany cited the case of a South Carolina contractor who signed with the Housing and Home Administration Agency to pay carpenters $1.50 an hour on a housing project. Instead, the contractor paid only $1.25 an hour but collected $1.50 an hour under the government contract.

"That is not only cheating the worker but it is actually stealing government money," Mr. Meany said. He urged a return to law enforcement on government contracts such as prevailed under the Civil Works and Works Project Administrations. Under the system then prevailing enforcement was in the hands of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Meany said policing of all wage-hour laws on government projects should be vested in the U. S. Department of Labor with authority to refer violations to the U. S. Department of Justice for prosecution and punishment.

CIO maritime unions charge U. S. ships are transferred to foreign flags to avoid paying American wage scales.

They're right. Their wages are comparatively so high many U. S. ship operators must shift to foreign registry to remain competitive.

Operating costs are at least 25 per cent more under U. S. than under Panamanian registry.

About 95 per cent of the increase is attributable to higher wages.

Using 100 as wage cost on a tanker under U. S. flag, such cost in other countries would be: Canada, 58; Belgium, 50; France, 37; Denmark, 36; Britain, 35; Italy, 34; Sweden, 32; Norway, 32; Netherlands, 26.

Maritime unions seek laws prohibiting transfer of U. S. ships to other flags. Such prohibition has little chance of enactment.

1950 BUILDING SEEN EQUALING '49

Building construction this year will equal the 1949 record of more than 19 billion dollars, government agencies estimated.

A survey by the Office of Domestic Commerce and the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured that private construction would drop but public expenditures would increase.

Their report said private building would fall off about 925 million dollars from 1949.

About the same number of persons are expected to be employed by construction contractors, reaching a peak of 2,400,000 in the best month.

It was estimated that private construction would be started this year valued at about $13,100,000,000, nearly 7 percent less than the anticipated total for 1949. Public construction, however, is expected to increase about 18 percent, to a total of $6,100,000,000.

The agencies saw no shortage of construction materials except possibly in steel early in the year. The supply of labor, the agency said, should be adequate to meet all requirements.

METAL LATH, PLASTERING PARTITION BIG AID IN RANCH TYPE HOMES

The trend toward ranch type home design is not only attributed to the exterior attractiveness of such homes, but also to the American family's urge for more elbow room and spaciousness, with every square foot designed for modern living.

One way that architects have discovered to attain this spaciousness even in the small home is through the use of 2-inch metal lath and plaster partitions which recently passed rigid fire resistive tests.

In one typical nine-room house, the architect used 2-inch metal lath and plaster partitions in place of the older, bulkier type of nonbearing wood stud partition. The result was to eliminate approximately 500 cubic feet of house and retain the same sized rooms. On a conservative cubic foot cost estimate, this resulted in a saving of more than enough to cover the additional cost of metal lath and plaster walls throughout the house. Each metal lath and plaster partition in the home saved four inches of floor space along its entire length.

THE FIRST APARTMENT HOUSES IN THIS COUNTRY

Long before the white man came to America there was a race of Indians called cliff dwellers because they built their dwelling places on the sides of steep cliffs. They probably made their homes hard to reach in order to be safe from visits of their enemies. While many of these homes were small, single family houses, there were larger ones of two and three story dwellings with many rooms in which different families lived.

Some of these cliff dwellings may still be seen in the valleys of the Rio Grande and Rio Colorado Rivers. Examination shows that many of them were skillfully built, and that every advantage was taken of the materials available. The stones were dressed and laid in clay mortar, very much as the bricklayer does his work today. The outsides of the buildings somewhat resemble the cement houses put up in later days, a coat of clay being spread on the outside walls and carefully smoothed off. The inner walls were plastered in the same way. The evidences standing until this day show remarkable signs of the durability of the work and the materials used by those people who preceded the white man and civilization to this land.

WATCH THE REAL ESTATE LOBBY

One of the most powerful lobbies in this country was given a sound beating when Congress passed the Housing Bill.

This bill, or a similar one, should have been passed two or three years ago and probably would have been had it not been for this powerful real estate lobby.

There are still millions of American families in the lower and middle income groups who are poorly housed. High construction costs have made it impossible for most of these people to better their housing situation.

Under the measure passed, states and cities must set up public housing authorities to be eligible for Federal aid in clearing slums and building houses and apartments for low-income groups. The real estate people will be out to stop every project possible, and they are busy everywhere. These people just don't quit.

GENERAL PRESIDENT McSORLEY IS AGAIN HONORED

General President William J. McSorley had the honor of being appointed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor to represent the United States Government at the meeting of the European Recovery Program Committee held in Rome, Italy on April 18-19-20, 1950.

General President McSorley attended this meeting and also had an audience with Pope Pius XII. We are pleased to report that our General President had a pleasant trip and that he has safely returned to this country.

Immediately upon his arrival he went to Philadelphia to attend the meeting of the Executive Council of the Building and Construction Trades Department and also took up with officials in Washington several matters affecting our International Union.

WEALTH ON 30-HOUR WEEK

Sumner H. Schlichter, Harvard economist, writes in the Atlantic Monthly that if American progress continues for the next 30 years at its rate for the last half century, the 30-hour week will be practically universal and output per man-hour will be about 88.4 per cent greater than in 1948.

There will be about 72,500,000 persons employed, and the product of their labor will be valued at 416 billion dollars. Population will be 175,000,000, and the value of the national plant and equipment will be more than double what it is today.

People will have far more leisure and they will consume at least 50 per cent more per capita than now, and probably from 75 per cent to 100 per cent more.

... the United States will gradually become a country of two-car families ...

... the family-size swimming pool is likely to become popular ...

Medical services of all kinds will be used far more than today.

The proportion of people completing high school and spending some time in college will rise ...

A nation on a 30-hour week will have more opportunity to pursue a multitude of arts, from gardening to painting and writing, than any people has ever possessed.

DEFEAT THE MARGARINE TAX

The 1948 convention of the American Federation of Labor has condemned federal margarine taxation as obnoxious and contrary to the public welfare. Labor's parliament blamed congressional failure to act on dairy interests "with their powerful lobbying," adding: "We have opposed taxing margarine because the tax imposes hardship on low-income groups. We recommend continued opposition to the tax."

What can the wage earners of America do in support of this policy? Well, it takes grassroots support to translate the struggle against legal and economic discrimination into living reality. That maxim was successfully applied against the Taft-Hartley Act in the last elections. It can be equally effectively applied to margarine tax law and other measures harmful to the consumer.

Heard on the streets of Omaha, August 10th, Hoover's birthday: Union men were leaving a meeting, and met some Republican Big-Wigs. One of the so-called Big-Wigs asked the laboring men what they were celebrating. The reply was, "Hoover's birthday." The Big-Wig asked, "How come you guys are celebrating Hoover's birthday?" "Isn't he the bird who gave the Republican Party the Coup-de-grace 24 years ago?"—(R. J. Cavanaugh, Local 765.)

Nothing is easier to start, and nothing moves faster when started, than economic fallacies, especially when there is added the impulse of an idealism which holds out to the world, relief from all the evils with which mankind contended since the beginning of time. Nothing is harder than for sober truth to catch up with those fallacies, but it does in the end, generally not until after the fallacies have done irreparable harm.

We will oppose those who, in their impatient grasping for the unattainable perfection, would make for a destructive instrument, who out of the ingredient of sentimental and emotional fallacies mixed with harmful substances of envy and demagoguery, would concoct fantastic economic systems, who ignorantly and arrogantly scorn the wise teaching of those who preceded us.

The individualism which I believe in, gives to every man the right to put forth his best efforts for his own personal successes, while at the same time it recognizes fully the right of the state to impose on the over-ambitious, reasonable restraints and regulations; to take means to protect the least able to protect themselves, to prevent exploitation and oppression of the weak by the strong; and to debar special privileges and other socially harmful practices.

GRAVY TRAINS

Most railroads of the United States have been granted more than twenty increases in freight and passenger fares by the Interstate Commerce Commission since 1946. They want another rate boost. What for? Freight rates are now 53% higher than they were two and one-half years ago. The Interstate Commerce Commission has gone overboard, it seems, to always help out the poor railroad magnates.

Some of the railroad cars for passengers still rolling seem almost of Civil War origin; they are so old and dilapidated.

When it comes to the high cost of living with 53 1/4% higher freight rates than only two and one-half years ago, it can be seen that the railroad magnates are getting their share of the profits accruing from the gravy trains they operate with the blessings of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Maybe Congress should do a little investigating.

SMART MOVE

Removing his shoes, he climbed the stairs, opened the door of the room, entered, and closed it after him without being detected. Just as he was about to get into bed, his wife aroused from slumber, turned and sleepily said, "Is that you, Fido?"

The husband, relating the rest of the story said: "For once in my life I had real presence of mind. I licked her hand."

DID YOU KNOW THIS?

When you speak of a macadam road, of a sandwich, of a boycott, of a volt in electricity, do you realize you are giving the names of real people?

John L. McAdam, a Scottish engineer who lived from 1756 to 1836, for example, invented a type of road-building in which crushed stone was packed down on a well-drained bed of earth. This kind of paving was named after him so long ago that most people have forgotten macadam was ever a man's name.

The sandwich was named after its inventor, John Montagu, 4th Earl of Sandwich, in England 200 years ago.

Just 70 years ago, a hard-hearted rent collector named Captain Charles Boycott was punished by the people of County Mayo, Ireland. Everyone agreed not to have anything to do with Captain Boycott. They cut him off from the rest of the world. This kind of action was afterward named after its victim.

A volt is a measure of the amount of electric force. It is named after Alessandro Volta, an Italian scientist. In the same way, the ampere, a measure of the strength of electric force, was named after A. M. Ampere, a French scientist.

STANDARDIZATION AIDS EFFICIENCY

"Standard gauge" always refers to the distance between the rails of the track. This distance today on American railroads is 4 feet 8½ inches.

Many years ago railroad tracks were built to more than a dozen different gauges, some as narrow as 2 feet, others as wide as 6 feet. This meant that where one railroad ended and another began, freight had to be unloaded and transferred to another train — or the trucks under the cars had to be changed for ones that fitted the next railroad's tracks. Both ways took time and increased the cost of rail transportation.

Adoption of "standard gauge," completed in 1886, made it possible for the railroads to move their cars without interruption over each other's tracks and in each other's trains.

Because of such things as "standard gauge" tracks, standard parts for rolling stock, and other aids to efficiency, American railroads today provide a continent-wide service — the most economical mass transportation in the world.

That's one of the big reasons why America produces more, and American families enjoy more good things than any other people in the world.

Overtime rates of pay are set by unions at punitive levels, not to provide swollen pay envelopes for a few workers, but to induce employers to spread the work among a greater number of employees at regular rates of pay and thus relieve unemployment.

By General President:

Kenneth Reno, 38363 Vs. Local No. 117

Brother Reno appealed against the action of Local No. 117 in levying fines against him, on various charges, among which was the failure to turn over books, property and funds to the local union, and the destroying of some of the local's property. The General President after carefully considering all of the evidence presented by both sides, as well as the report of Vice President Rodier who visited this locality and made an investigation, decided that the suspension against this brother is illegal, and ordered all fines remitted, with the exception of the $100.00 fine for destruction of the local's property, this $100.00 fine being upheld by him.

John D. Woodard, 40413 and A. J. Primps, 38173 Vs. Local No. 364

Brothers Woodard and Primps appealed to the General President against the action of Local No. 364 in levying fines of $50.00 against them and debarring them from running work in that jurisdiction for a period of two years, on charges of violating Sections 128, 129 and 179 of the International constitution. The General President, after carefully considering all of the evidence presented by both parties or sides in this controversy found the appellants guilty of the charges, and therefore sustained the action of the local union.

By General Executive Council:

The Council voted to grant the following requests: Request of Local No. 341 to levy an additional assessment of $100.00 against W. A. Davis, No. 41033. Request of Local No. 108 to levy additional assessment of $100.00 against R. E. Wilkinson, No. 43862.

NEW YORK'S BUILDING PROGRAM

Here is what New York has done and is doing:

In 42 months, from January, 1946, until July, 1949, 70,000 dwellings of private housing have been placed under construction.

In the same period, 42 new public housing projects were begun, an average of one a month. All but one were financed out of city and state funds previously appropriated. Their construction raised the total housing program of the city from 17,000 to 63,000 dwellings.

In the planning stage are 5,000 additional public housing dwellings, and a goal of 80,000 more has been set under the 1949 federal housing act.

The New York City Housing Authority has already selected 50 new sites and is studying more.

Housing built by the large insurance companies, receiving limited public aid in partial tax exemption, totaled 16,759 completed and 8,000 under construction or in the planning stage.

267,640 calls a year!

Promoting lath and plaster... selling more jobs for you

My name's Red Topper. As a U.S.G. salesman, I represent all the thousands of calls made each year on home builders and large commercial contractors. And what do I talk about? Why, the advantages that have made lath and plaster America's favorite for walls and ceilings!

And architects? I see them all regularly because calls here really pay off. A clear and concise presentation of the many advantages of lath and plaster seldom fails to swing jobs away from less satisfactory, competing materials.

And don't sell short the calls I make on dealers and lathing and plastering contractors. By keeping them posted on new products and new methods... light weight aggregates, for example... I give them ammunition to do a better selling job for the entire lathing and plastering industry.

Satisfaction! That's what we U.S.G. plaster salesmen feel when we see how many lath and plaster jobs are created by our calls on contractors, architects, builders and dealers. These calls we make—267,640 a year—are a good example of U.S.G.'s 50 years of teamwork promoting plastering.

ACTION ONE THAT TENDS TO STIR CLASS HATE

Following the Senate vote which kept the in junction in the bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act. Sen. Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) told his colleagues:

"This afternoon the Senate made labor legislation a political issue in 1950.

"I am perfectly willing that the American voters pass judgment on whether we have followed a course of action which conforms to the public will in the United States . . .

"The roll call which was taken . . . is the roll call about which we shall hear much during the 1950 and 1952 campaigns . . .

"I would rather not return to the Senate in 1950 than to have voted for a proposal which . . . during the next few years will stir up in America a class conflict that will play directly into the hands of the Communist and other radical forces in America . . .

"In my judgment, the amendment the Senate has adopted adds fuel to the fires of class warfare in America."

DRUNKS

The drinking behavior of the American male is being studied by an Englishman named John Tenney. The first chapter of his report is now disclosed. In the main Mr. Tenney says he has been impressed right off his feet. Whether the American male is tight tidely or half sea over, he is forced to command respect. Where a half-crocked Englishman will do anything to preserve his dignity, the American will go to any length to break his own down. Mr. Tenney came here after a tour of Australia. He states the bars in that country close at 6 p.m. and the chaps rush out of their work at 5 p.m. and down their pints. They go home crocked every night. He said for real enjoyment of drinking materials, no people on earth approach the English. He has found no Englishman ever goes in for a quick one. When he enters a pub he expects to make an evening of it. Tenney also states that only in Wales, did he find a detached attitude towards alcohol. I found them mostly interested in chapel going. The Welsh are not interested in getting stinko, not even on half and half.

The temperance lecturer asked his audience: "Now, supposing I had a pail of water and a pail of beer on this platform, and then brought on a donkey; which of the two would he take?"

"He'd take the water," came a voice from the gallery.

"And why would he take the water?" asked the lecturer.

"Because he's an ass," was the reply.

PROTECTING RIGHTS DEMANDS A FIGHT

Washington.—Nelson H. Cruikshank, AFL director of social insurance activities, listed four individual rights whose preservation "demands tireless, unrelenting vigilance and devotion."

He said these are (1) the individual's rights to enjoy those rights common to others; (2) the right to follow his own lights; (3) the right to organize, and (4) the right to unbiased information.

"In many parts of the country the very right of workers to organize is threatened," Mr. Cruikshank told the U. S. National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

"Too large a portion of our energies," he said, "still has to be devoted to fighting such repressive measures as the Taft-Hartley Act as well as similar measures passed by many states which are designed for the purpose of denying working people the very right to participate in an economic organization of their own free choice."

Mr. Cruikshank said that this attack on the individual's right to organize and other rights "anywhere and at any time constitutes a real threat to international cooperation."

What river has the greatest amount of shipping on it?

The Detroit River, which connects Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair. The tonnage passing through the Detroit River exceeds in volume that passing through any other river in the world.

WIT and HUMOR

A guest bought some limburger cheese to eat in his hotel room. When he got ready to leave he still had about half of the cheese. He didn't want to pack it; neither did he want to leave it lying in the room. Finally he removed a plant from its pot on the window sill, buried the cheese and replaced the plant.

A few days later he received this telegram from the hotel management: We give up, where did you put it?"

Old Gentleman: "You're an honest boy, but it was a $10 bill, not 10 ones that I lost."

Small Boy: "I know, mister, it was a $10 bill I picked up. But the last time I found one, the man who owned it didn't have any change."

---

Mary—"There's a lot of talk nowadays about a woman president. Do you think we will ever have one?"

Mabel—"No, of course not. A president has to be at least 35 years old."

---

The elderly Hebrew gentleman was making a transcontinental train trip. At Cheyenne a cowboy got on and took the seat next to him. They struck up a conversation and pretty soon the Hebrew remarked: "Oi, such a bizness. No dinink car they got on this tren end I em prectikely starvink."

"Don't worry about that," drawled the cowboy. "I brought some sandwiches with me, podner, and I'll be glad to share them with you."

"Vot kind of senwiches?"

"Ham."

"No, thanking you."

"Well, how about a pickle?"

"Kosher dill?"

"No, just plain pickles," said the cowboy, getting a bit irritated.

"No, thanking you."

The cowpoke blew his top. Pulling his six-shooter, he drawled in a menacing voice: "Lissen, podner, you're just downright unfriendly. Out here we don't allow folks to act thataway — so you just eat that pickle."

"Vell," sighed the elderly Hebrew, "so long es you got me trapped — gif me de hem sendwich too!"

Teacher: "Have you heard of Julius Caesar?"

Pupil: "Yes, sir."

Teacher: What do you think he would be doing now if he were alive?"

Pupil: "Drawing an old-age pension."

Weeping Widow—One of John's best friends had died, so he called on the widow to express his sympathy.

"Jim and I were friends," he said. Isn't there something I could have as a memento of him?"

She raised her velvety brown eyes, which a few seconds before had been wet with tears.

"How would I do?" she murmured.

The Customer Is Always Right

The real estate agent had just finished a glowing description of the golden opportunities of the property he was trying to sell to the prospective customer. "All this section needs," he said, "to become the garden spot of the country is good people and water."

"Huh," grunted the prospect, "That's all hell needs!"

"Mose, if you tell a lie under oath, do you know what happens?"

Mose said: "Yassuh, Jedge, I goes to Hell."

"And if you tell the truth?" persisted the judge

"I goes to jail," said Mose.

---

A man rushed into a bar and asked the bartender if he knew of anything to stop hiccoughs. His answer was a slap across the face with a wet towel. Surprised and furious, the stranger demanded the reason for such action. With a placating grin the bartender replied, "Well, you haven't got any hiccoughs now, have you?" "Hell, I never did have," was the indignant answer. "I wanted something for my wife. She's out in the car."

---

A motorist on a lonesome road passed a car stuck in the ditch and stopped to help. He found the car's driver using some string to harness a pair of kittens to the front axel.

"You aren't trying to pull that car out with those kittens, are you?" he asked.

"Why not," asked the other with some irritation. "I got a whip."

He had long dreaded the journey from his peaceful Cumberland valley to "the outside"—down to Chattanooga.

Now, preparing to leave at last and urged by his wife to write his name on a slip of paper and put it in his pocket, he was dogged by foreboding.

He wrote, "In case of accident, this was Seth Scruggs."

THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE

By Ruth Taylor

What is the American way of life?

We have used the phrase so frequently that sometimes it seems a trifle threadbare at the corners, its lustre dulled by familiarity. Our public speakers—particularly at campaign time—act as though it were an “abracadabra” or magic word that could unlock hidden troves of treasure.

Of course you know the full meaning of the phrase but have you ever tried to explain the American way of life to someone who did not know America, who was not steeped in the traditions of democracy?

I have—and let me assure you it is no easy task. But it does make you stop and think what you really mean by the American way of life. Here is what I found I meant by the phrase.

The American way of life is the way of opportunity for all. It does not mean an equal distribution of all good things, but an equal chance to work for a living at a fair wage. It means free enterprise—free to develop, but not unbridled license to exploit either man or natural resources. It means an equal opportunity to learn, not an equal ability to get ahead without work.

The American way of life is the way of self-restrained freedom. Under it we may freely express our own opinion—but we abide by the decision of the majority. The American way of life implies a decent respect for the beliefs of others, whether or not we agree with them. Under it freedom is permitted up to the point where it impinges upon the rights of others.

The American way of life is the way to progress through the utilization of every resource—not merely the natural ones of the earth but of those greatest resources of our nation—the intelligence, the initiative, the productive power latent in every individual, regardless of class, creed or color.

The American way of life is the way to the rainbow's end, to the fulfilment of the dream of brotherhood. We Americans may have different faiths, different backgrounds, different speech, different color. We have the same way of work, the same way of life. We know the same sorrows, joys and hopes. The American way of life is the way by which we may achieve the desire of all for a world unvexed by war, untroubled by want or fear.

The American way of life is our way. Let us walk in it for centuries to come, its road made steadily smoother by the patient feet of each generation.

“No mum. I'm not; and wot's more, the doctor says I never will be.”

THE HOME OF OUR PRESIDENTS

In the light of the attention that has been directed at the White House, by the remodeling that is being done on that structure, it is interesting to note that the original corner stone of the building was laid just 158 years ago, on October 13, 1792.

There had been much discussion in those early years of our country as to whether to build one structure to house both the government offices and the President, or two separate buildings. The latter idea was adopted. As proposed by Thomas Jefferson, and approved by George Washington, competitive sketches for the selection of an architect were advertised for the construction of “The President's Residence.” Nineteen sets of sketches were submitted, and James Hoban, a young Irish architect, Charleston, South Carolina, was given the commission to draw the plans.

George Washington selected the site for the city of Washington, having calculated it to have been the center of population. He also chose the site for “The President's House” which was first occupied by President John Adams.

Because of the disfiguration caused when the British set fire to the structure, it was given a coat of fresh white paint and became known as “The White House” an appellation it has carried ever since.

In America there is one automobile for every four people; in England, one for every twenty-two people; in Russia, one for every two hundred and fifty people. In America, there is one radio for every three people; in England, one for every five people; in Russia, one for every forty-five people. In America, there is a telephone for every five people; in England, there is one for every one hundred and fifty-five people; in Russia, one for every one hundred and eighty-eight people.

Makes Sense

Before older people complain of what younger people are doing, it behooves them to bestir themselves and see what they are doing for the boys and the girls.

---

A dejected looking old fellow walked into the psychiatrist's office and complained: “Doctor, my family thinks I'm mentally unbalanced, simply because I'm very fond of potato pancakes.”

“Why there's nothing wrong with that,” exclaimed the doctor. “In fact, I'm crazy about potato pancakes myself.”

“Oh, wonderful!” shouted the old man. “You must come over some time. I have twelve trunks of them in my attic!”

The "Labor Boss" Myth

"The rights and interests of the laboring man will be protected and cared for . . . not by the labor agitators, but by the Christian men to whom in His infinite wisdom God has given control of the property interests of the country and upon management of which so much depends. . . ."

With these words George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company answered the plea of a miner's son during the terrible coal strike of 1902. The miner's son, William F. Clark, died in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., just a few weeks ago. But the answer he got from the coal company president shocked the nation in 1902 and will live on in the memories of trade union men.

You think that things have changed since 1902? If you do, you are partly right. Today unions are stronger, and collective bargaining is accepted by the public. Today it is not good public relations for a boss to say he has the "divine" right and wisdom to rule the lives of his employes as he sees fit and the "public be damned."

But because industry heads can't come right out and say they want to abolish unions, it doesn't mean they would not like to do so.

They use more subtle means today. They say that the day of despotic capitalism is over. They now say the situation is reversed. It is the "labor bosses" who are dictating to big business and to the unfortunate workmen who have been forced into labor monopolies. They weep crocodile tears for these poor working people who have fallen under the heartless rule of the "agitators" and "labor bosses."

What were the arguments passed out by the proponents of the Taft-Hartley Act? Was it an act to destroy unions and outlaw collective bargaining? Of course not . . . it was an act to "liberate" the workers . . . it was an act to give oppressed industry heads equal bargaining power and protection against "big labor."

Former Congressman Fred Hartley wrote a book in 1948 called "Our New National Labor Policy." In that book he justifies passage of the Act because "The positions of labor and management were reversed . . . Labor was in the saddle and riding hard . . . Top labor leaders were equal in power to the elected heads of our government. Their power had long ago surpassed that of the largest corporation in the nation." He further stated "The plight of the laboring man was a real one. The rank-and-file worker meant no more to the leaders of organized labor than the rabble to Louis XVI." Throughout the book Hartley consistently uses the term "labor boss" to describe the elected union officers.

The labor-haters evidently believed their own words. They made union shop elections compulsory, thinking that American working people would flock to the polls and vote against their unions. What happened is history now. By overwhelming majorities 98 per cent of the elections favored the union shop. Is there any other institution in America that could have gotten a greater vote of confidence?

Compare the salaries of so-called "union bosses" with industry bosses. Even top union salaries are low by comparison. The two top officials of the AFL and CIO, William Green and Phillip Murray, draw salaries of only $25,000 each. By contrast A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation got a total salary and bonus income of $263,280 in 1948. When he retires at 65 he will receive a pension of $110,460 a year toward which he contributes not one cent. Benjamin Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, drew $207,900 in 1948. Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, drew $275,000 in 1948, and the president and five vice presidents all drew more than $70,000.

All the income of all the unions in the country didn't equal the net profits realized last year by one automobile corporation, General Motors.

Even more ridiculous is the charge that union members don't democratically select their officers and have no control over them. Here a contrast with industry is also startling.

Ask your self, can you name one institution that is more democratic than your union?

How about the firm for which you work? Who selects the board of directors? Who selects the top executives? Do the stockholders control the firm they own? Or is it controlled by a few insiders who own little of the stock?

Take for example the country's biggest corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, commonly known as the "Bell System." Walter S. Gifford just recently retired as head of A. T. & T. He received a salary of $209,000 and now gets a pension of $95,000 yearly.

This company is currently running advertisements that 900,000 stockholders own A. T. & T. But as any A. T. & T. stockholder knows, the divorce of ownership and control of the company was accomplished long ago. Mr. Gifford and other "inside" top officials and directors owned only 10,582 shares out of the total of 25 million shares that provided the company's capital. This is just 4/100ths of one per cent of all the stock. Yet these insiders controlled the company as surely as if they owned all the stock.

A similar situation exists in most corporations today.

Read the average corporation financial statement sent to stockholders. It is a masterpiece of vague confusion. Compare it to the detailed financial reports available to all union members and checked by their elected trustees. Remember there are more bank officials than there are union officials in prison for embezzling money.

All trade union officers aren't plaster saints. As in every democratic organization there are always a few elected officers who fall by the wayside. But at least if union members don't like one officer they can elect a new one. They have not lost control of their unions, in the way that stockholders have lost control of the corporations they own. The best proof of that is in the AFL mailing room. There are more than 40,000 local AFL unions. Officers turn over so fast that 25 per cent of the address plates of local union officers have to be changed each year. Is that dictatorship or self-perpetuating "labor bosses"?

Remember these facts when you are handed some of Senator Taft's leaflets in which he says that only the "communists" and "union racketeers" want repeal of Taft-Hartley.

When they say a particular law is aimed at your officers, not you, don't be fooled. When they weaken the right and power of your elected leaders to represent you effectively, they are taking a direct shot at your security and paycheck.

The kind of Congress we get depends upon the kind of job we do on election day. If we fail to re-elect our friends, we may well be put back to the good old days when neither the stockholder, the public nor the employes had any control over the arbitrary dictates of industry heads. If you want your wages and security protected by strong unions and freely elected officers, your vote is needed this election year.

Remember that in 1946 we failed to re-elect 45 out of 128 Representatives who voted for labor against the Case anti-labor bill. But in 1948 every friend of labor was re-elected. Which will it be this year? It is up to the 8 million members of the AFL. How? Contribute to LLPE, participate in LLPE, register and vote.

SURVEY SAID TO INDICATE LINK BETWEEN SMOKING, LUNG CANCER

Dr. Evarts A. Graham and Medical School Senior Report Their Findings in Journal of A.M.A.

(Reprint from St. Louis Post-Dispatch, May 26, 1950)

A survey of more than 700 patients in 50 hospitals from coast to coast indicates that the less a person smokes, the less are his chances of developing cancer of the lung and, conversely, the more heavily he smokes, the greater are his chances of developing this disease, two Washington University investigators reported yesterday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Ernest L. Wynder, senior in the medical school, who won the $500 Borden undergraduate research award last week, and Dr. Evarts A. Graham, professor of surgery at the school and noted chest surgeon reported:

"Excessive and prolonged use of tobacco, especially cigarettes, seems to be an important factor in the induction of bronchiogenic carcinoma (cancer of the lung)."

Figure Given

They found that, among 605 men with cancer of the lung, 96.5 per cent were "moderately heavy to chain smokers for many years, compared with 73.7 per cent among the general hospital male population without lung cancer.

"Among the lung cancer group, 51.2 per cent were excessive to chain smokers, compared to 19.1 per cent in the general hospital group without lung cancer."

A "moderately heavy" smoker was defined as one who smoked 10 to 15 cigarettes a day for more than 20 years; a "heavy smoker," one who smoked 16 to 20 cigarettes daily for more than 20 years; an "excessive smoker," one who smoked 21 to 34 cigarettes a day for more than 20 years, and a "chain smoker," one who smoked 35 or more cigarettes daily for at least 20 years.

"Rare Phenomenon"

It was a "rare phenomenon" to find cancer of the lung in a man who was a non-smoker, Wynder and Dr. Graham reported.

Among women, "tobacco seems at this time to play a similar but somewhat less evident role in the induction of such a carcinoma," they found.

More than 96 per cent of "lung cancer patients with a smoking history had smoked for over 20 years," the report continued. "Very few women have smoked for this length of time and this is believed to be one of the reasons for the greater incidence of lung cancer among men today."

The study showed 94.1 per cent of male lung cancer patients were cigarette smokers, 4 per cent pipe smokers and 3.5 per cent cigar smokers. There is a great prevalence of cigarette smoking among the general hospital population of the same age group," the study noted. "The greater practice of inhalation among cigarette smokers is believed to explain this finding."

Designs "Smoking" Machine

To analyze the content of a cigarette, Wynder designed a machine that "smokes" a carton of cigarettes daily. After the machine "smokes" a carton, he said, about eight grams of tar remain in the machine.

Discussing types of tobacco used by lung cancer patients, Wynder and Dr. Graham wrote:

"The majority of lung cancer patients are cigarette, rather than pipe or cigar smokers, in a ratio over and above that found in the general population. This fact may be due to one of the following reasons:

"1. Cigarette smoke is more frequently inhaled than is that of either pipes or cigars. Obviously the lungs of the inhaler are exposed to a greater concentration of smoke than those of a person who does not consciously inhale.

"2. Due to the greater physical and economic convenience, more people are heavy smokers of cigarettes than of either pipes or cigars. Among the latter two, one finds more minimal and light smokers than among the former.

"3. Certain irritative substances may be present in cigarettes in greater amounts than found in pipes or cigars. The role of paper, the use of insecticides during the growth of the tobacco, and other ingredients warrant further research in this regard."

Increase in Cases

The study points out there has been a great increase in lung cancer in the last 50 years. Last year about 20,000 persons died of lung cancer in the United States.

Wynder and Dr. Graham continued: "Since in a small percentage of cases lung cancer occurs in non and minimal smokers and since it obviously does not develop in every individual who has been a heavy and long-term smoker, it is apparent that smoking cannot be the only etiological (causal) factor in the induction of lung cancer.

"From the evidence presented, however, the temptation is strong to incriminate excessive smoking, and in particular cigarette smoking, over a long period of time as at least one important factor in the striking increase of bronchiogenic carcinoma."

Three independent studies have resulted "in data so uniform that one may deduce from each the same conclusions," the report said.

Next step in the research project, Wynder said, should be a study of specific particles in tobacco which could be removed to make smoking less harmful. He thought tobacco companies might be interested in research along those lines.

In July, Wynder will deliver a paper based on the lung cancer study before the International Cancer Congress in Paris.

Eller Lauds Stabilization, Labor Relations at Annual Meeting

Following is the text of remarks made by Peter W. Eller at the BTEA annual meeting, Feb. 21:

As most of you were present at our annual dinner and heard my report or have read NEWS & OPINION, which published it, I shall today make no formal report. My speech at the dinner covered the salient points in my administration of the office of Chairman of the Board of Governors for the preceding year, and it seems to me it would be unduly repetitions to ask you to listen to it again.

Mr. Wheeler has just rendered a detailed statistical report on the matters relating to jurisdiction of trade. In that connection I wonder if it is fully realized what our set-up for dealing with jurisdictional trade disputes accomplishes, not only for our members but for the industry and the public generally.

Despite the Taft-Hartley Act in which, as you know, the question of jurisdictional trade disputes is lodged entirely with the National Labor Relations Board, we have been able to carry on in a "business as usual" fashion, with the blessing and approval of the Building & Construction Trades Department of the A. F. of L., the National Joint Board for Settlement of Jurisdictional Disputes and Mr. Dunlop, its chairman, and likewise by Mr. Robert N. Denham, general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board, who is the virtual administrator of the Act. Those of you who were present at the dinner heard Mr. Denham's praise of our work.

Excellent Labor Relations

I also want to report that during the past year I have been invited to speak at many functions, dinners, luncheons and gatherings of various kinds. Many of them testimonial dinners or bon voyage dinners to outstanding leaders in labor and industry, as well as social occasions, and meetings under state and government auspices. While my remarks, of course, varied at these functions, there was one theme which permeated all of them, and that was my reference to the excellent labor relations we enjoy in this community through our stabilization agreement with the Building and Construction Trades Council.

The jurisdiction of trade set-up previously referred to is part of the fabric of that agreement, which brings me to the subject of the stabilization agreement itself. Very shortly we shall again meet with the representatives of the Building and Construction Trades Council for its renewal. Those of you who are members of the Board of Governors are familiar with the discussion of this subject at our January meeting, and with the resolution which was passed at that meeting. I think it is important enough that I should read it here. It is as follows:

"RESOLVED, That the Executive Committee of the Building Trades Employers' Association be and is hereby authorized to enter into negotiations with the Building and Construction Trades Council for the purpose of bringing about a new stabilization agreement before the expiration of the present agreement."

Lauds Stabilization Plan

In the opinion of many competent authorities outside of our association it is generally conceded that the stabilization agreement has been most effective in instilling the necessary confidence for owners and awarding authorities to proceed with the vast building program of the past and present year. In that connection I quote from a letter sent to me by Mr. Myron L. Matthews of Dow Service, Inc., on January 17, 1950:

"Under the terms of the Wage Stabilization Agreement the industry's customers, as well as the industry itself, have been able to operate in comparative peace, quiet and confidence. Under its terms many of the heretofore unknowns have become knowns. As a matter of fact, the benefits of the Stabilization agreement have been so desirable that many cities throughout the country have adopted similar measures for dissipating confusion and restoring confidence in the building industry. As the focal point for the entire country of all things that are good in the construction industry, the Building Trades Employers' Association of New York, under your leadership, is being looked to, I feel sure, to come up with the answer as to what to do from here in."

THE WIDOWS OF SPITE

Wives and families of union officers are often the victims of attacks by opponents of Labor unions.

By Martin Williamson***

Reprinted from the May issue of the "Butcher Workmen", official publication of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, of N. M., A. F. of L.

One gains a lot of experience in twenty-four years as a "house cop", especially in one of the largest hotels in Chicago. As a rule, a fellow having such a job is not in any manner a "snooper." His one duty is to keep order. When so occupied you get to know a lot of hotel guests, including labor leaders, and very often, their wives. It is the labor leader and his wife I desire to discuss in my brief story of people in general who, since the beginning of World War II, have crowded every room of every first class hotel throughout the United States.

Most hotel detectives are a rather decent lot. They never go looking for trouble nor are they particularly interested in the business of anyone, man or woman, who signs the hotel register. There are twenty-one "house cops" at the hotel where I spent my past twenty-four years of employment. It takes this many for the management to make sure that the fine reputation developed by the hotel since its establishment shortly after the Civil War, is maintained. There are all sorts of "crack-pots" who stroll about a hotel lobby. It is the business of my gang to find out if possible if there is anyone among them who loiters for the purpose of creating trouble for those who are registered guests at the hotel.

The labor leader and his wife very often are the targets, not only of the lobby "crack-pots", but of those also who occupy even the largest suites in the hotel as well.

A hotel "house cop" no longer finds it necessary to stroll about the different floors with his ear to the door or his eye to the keyhole. The science of being a hotel detective long ago has made such "snooping" unnecessary.

If there is undue merrymaking in any room when the clock approaches midnight, the "house cop" will know about it quickly. Complaints come fast and furious in a large hotel. If innocent merrymakers hear a knock on the door late in the evening, as a rule it will always turn out to be the "house dick" with his admonition to the merrymakers to "Pipe down. Some guests are complaining."

If someone goes berserk and jumps out the window, we guys who are supposed to keep order usually get the information first. This is also true in cases of illness. We are supposed to keep an eye on the pink ladies who sometimes attempt to ply their trade in the wee sma' hours. We must be able to lamp a pimp, a dope, a thief or a pickpocket a mile away.

If a "house cop" must develop the knack of picking out the bad element stopping at our hotel, it is natural that we would also be able to pick out those guests who are rated tops. The hotel where I do my chores has nearly 2,000 rooms — a sort of small city in itself. Many plans are formulated and schemes concocted in hotel rooms that are dastardly as well as benevolent. What a "house cop" knows and doesn't tell, except where a criminal act is in the making, would more than fill a book.

In my twenty-four years of helping keep order in our big hotel, I can sincerely say that those guests who represent organized labor are the cream of the crop and I know that I also express the opinion of twenty other house detectives associated with me.

There is a strange thing about a well known labor leader when he stops at the hotel. Paradoxical as it may seem, he is respected, admired, hated and envied. He is very often the target of unprovoked verbal attack. I can understand, knowing something of the labor movement, why this is true. I am old enough to remember when employers hired stool-pigeons by the thousands to spy upon the labor leader and report back to a strike-breaking detective agency every move the labor leader made. One would think that when federal legislation made such detective agencies unlawful to operate, that the employer hatred of the labor leader would disappear. Unhappily this employer envy and hatred of the man who represents his workers is still with us. The respect and admiration for the labor leader is mostly to be found among the millions who toil in mines, mills and factories.

If a group at one table in the dining room asks me, "Who is that fellow that is the center of attraction at the next table?" and I tell him it is John Doe, the well known labor leader, it very often happens that the whole group at the table of the one making the inquiry, forms a sort of disrespect for the man. This can be understood because as a rule men in overalls and girls in working frocks do not stop at the best hotels.

The labor leader is the victim of spite mongers more than any other hotel guest. These spite mongers even go to the extent of attempting to disturb the domestic tranquility of the man who represents the workers. This is particularly true on the part of employers who stop at the hotel. I can mention case after case where employers who meet with the labor leader at the hotel to settle labor disputes have deliberately attempted to create quarrels in the home of the labor leader when he would not bend to wishes of the employers in settling a dispute.

An example of what reputable labor leaders are up against, and what very often the wives of such labor leaders are subjected to, can be summed up briefly in the case of a president of a powerful international union. The character of this man is beyond reproach and his reputation is outstanding. Off and on he has been stopping at our hotel for a good many years. I remember during a bitter strike of his membership several years ago the wife of this man was in Chicago with him. The employers, unable to drive a deal in the strike that would be to their advantage, decided to attack him through his wife.

Their idea was to create for him domestic trouble along with the industrial worry the strike was causing him.

It was about 10 p. m. and Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, as I shall refer to them, were at the bar partaking of a pre-retiring drink. A woman, not bad to look at and making herself appear to be slightly intoxicated, walked directly up to the couple and said: "Hello, John, who's the girl friend?" John Doe looked at the woman and said: "Pardon me, I don't think I have met you before." Mrs. John Doe looked somewhat bewildered but when the "house cop" was called to remove the lady from the bar, the first seed in creating domestic trouble for the labor leader had been planted by greedy employers.

John Doe could not convince his wife that he had not met this woman before. The strike went on, but the labor leader lost some of the "zip" he was noted for. Each night thereafter and always near the hour of midnight the telephone in John Doe's room would ring. Mrs. Doe would answer with the usual "Hello," but the caller on the other end would gently hang up the receiver without saying a word. This created more suspicion in the mind of Mrs. John Doe. Well, the strike was eventually settled, but on each visit of these two good people to the hotel since then, Mrs. Doe always inquires if I will confidentially tell her truthfully if that other woman was in John Doe's life. Bear in mind, the employer responsible for all this told me later that the other woman in question was paid not only to make the original trip to the bar but to make the nightly telephone calls thereafter.

There are few men of prominence in the labor movement whose wives at some time or another have not had similar experiences. Many of these good women pass off such schemes of spite lightly. Other wives, however, while bearing up admirably under such circumstances, secretly nurse the suspicion that the gossip could be true.

A man in the labor movement ninety-nine times out of a hundred has a lot of personality. These fellows have to have it because most of them come up the hard way. The labor leader is easy to meet and makes friends quickly. As a rule, in the evening if he is not attending a meeting of his membership, you will find him with the local officers of his own organization around the hotel. Maybe he is chatting with those who represent other labor unions or chinning with guests at the hotel who are acquainted with him. Occasionally he will be found playing the 26-game at which a young lady is always in charge. Just as likely, he may be seated at a table with a group of men having their wives with them.

I have found the labor leader to be humorous and jovial as well as serious. He can laugh heartily at a joke. It is not in his make-up to be a sourpuss.

Not long ago a well-known labor representative was at the hotel. He was having a nice time with some friends. A spiteful female busybody who knew him only slightly left a nearby table to make a telephone call 300 miles distant to the wife of the man in question. When the connection was completed this spite monger merely said to the wife: "You don't know me, but I think it would be to your advantage to accompany your husband more often." When the wife inquired why, the spite monger said: "I know he has more than one lady friend around the hotel." The next day the wife in question arrived only to find her husband in conference with the employers to settle, if possible, a dangerous dispute. The only accomplishment of the spiteful busybody was to create suspicion and distrust in the mind of a good woman. Why did she do this? Nobody knows except perhaps that when she saw the labor leader at the table with other men and women her own narrow mind assumed that the labor leader was a chiseler.

Employers alone are not responsible for the effort to create trouble between the labor leader and his wife. I have observed, however, that there seems to be a natural suspicion of the labor leader in the minds of most employers. When the bosses are discussing a contract or grievance with him they play him up as a good fellow. They even have a few drinks with him at the end of a conference. However, many employers have told me privately that this or that fellow who represents a labor union is a little "too tough" on them. When there is no yielding by the union representative in the matter of wages, I can recall more than one case where I was told by the employer: "We'll find a way to get even somehow."

The labor leader also at times creates enemies even among those who work with him on the negotiating committee. When he acts with authority from his International Union, some of the "little guys" on his own committee consider him to be a "big shot." They resent this. I have found in some cases that these jealousies arise among those who on the surface, are quite close to him. This is always true when the little guys must be put in their places for sometimes running roughshod over the members.

Another factor in creating animosity against the labor leader at the hotel arises as a result of what might appear to be his preference for hotel employees in the service trade. I recall that one labor leader, who is very well known, would always sit at the station of the same bartender when he wanted a drink. Now these fellows on the union side draw a fairly decent salary. They certainly are not misers and, therefore, their tips to those at the hotel who give service, as a rule are somewhat better than those of the ordinary "run-of-the-mine" guests. In the case I have in mind, a bartender at the next station did not like this. He considered that he was being slighted. He had a wife who was working in the dining room as a waitress. The wife of this particular labor leader occasionally would sit at the table of this waitress. Believe it or not, at the prompting of her bartender husband, the waitress told the labor leader's wife that she wouldn't live with a traveling man if he made $1,000 a week because "none of them can be trusted five feet from home base."

This was nothing more than downright spite. It seems those who dislike labor leaders have a feeling that no attack can be made on them except through the channels of gossip. The employers and others know that the leader of labor, because of his years of hard work in behalf of his people, has the sincere confidence of the membership. These spite mongers, therefore, feel that the only method of satisfying their desire to "get even" with him is to "hit below the belt." This they can best do by striking at him through his home and his spouse. No attacks are made in the open against him. They usually come in mysterious telephone calls, anonymous letters and even in the form of threats made to the wife to the effect that the husband will probably be "shipped home in a box" before another month rolls by.

The labor leader at our hotel is in a little different position than men in any other profession. It is well known that as a rule he cannot be charged with dishonesty because as a "house dick" I have found nearly all national leaders of the workers to be absolutely on the level. The only method left, therefore, for attack is through poison pen writing and similar scum methods. Probably no other group of men holding responsible positions must be as careful of their conduct in public places as those who represent the workers. Their general knowledge of conditions of employment has convinced them that the slightest mistake on their part would cause their international union embarrassment. They know, too, that metropolitan daily newspapers would play up front page any act of misconduct they might be guilty of. On the whole, therefore, the labor leader goes about his work with the feeling that he must maintain the dignity that is expected of him by his international union.

Some of the wives of top men in the labor movement are as genuinely militant in labor matters as the husband himself. These women will fight at the drop of a hat if anyone says anything derogatory about their husbands' conduct, reputation or character.

I recall the wife of one labor leader whom I shall refer to only as Mrs. Lally. She received a spite telephone call at 3 a. m. The call was from a waitress who was not a member of the union. Lally, the labor leader, had one night chided this waitress because she would not join the union and he left the table without giving a tip. He said, however, he would double her tips when he saw her wearing a union button. This waitress felt compelled to vent her spleen on a good woman. In her telephone conversation she told Mrs. Lally that the husband was very untrue to her. "As a matter of fact," she said "he's been spending much of his time with me for the past four weeks." Mrs. Lally only laughed and said, "Well, listen dearie, he's been living with me for the past fifteen years. I happen to be his wife."

This was one woman who could take these spite mongers in stride.

As a "house cop" I think I know people and I consider the wives of our nation's labor leaders to be the unsung heroines of the trade union movement. Their men are away from them and their homes over long periods of time. These women rear their children most admirably in a God-fearing manner. They long for but cannot enjoy the companionship of their husbands. It has been said often that labor leaders at times remain away from home so long that when they return the youngsters of the family will say: "Mama, who is this man?"

These wives are in some respects near widows in that they are with their husbands for the most part only at conventions of the American Federation of Labor or their own International Unions. In being widows it is unfortunate that they are widows of spite.

As a "house cop" sometimes I wish I could play the role of priest. I wish I could talk with these good wives of the labor leaders of our nation. I would say to them that probably tomorrow any one of them might receive a telegram directed to her husband at their home. The telegram may request $100 and it may be signed "Alice." I would say also that they might receive letters couched in endearing words from some female. I would further say to these good women to totally disregard them because such telegrams and letters seldom, if ever, bear a return address. These are some of the things that a labor leader must endure because of his struggle to put more money in the pay envelopes of our nation's toilers. I know what I am talking about.

A "house cop" for twenty-four years gets thoroughly "hep" to the all too many mean, spiteful people who are found in every large hotel.

NOTICE TO ALL SECRETARIES AND APPRENTICE BOYS

It has been brought to the attention of headquarters that numerous apprentice boys are taking it upon themselves to leave the jurisdiction of the local in which they are indentured and going into other territories and working without getting the sanction of either local union.

This is in strict violation of our International Union and no apprentice boy is allowed to leave the local in which he is indentured, without securing the permission of that local union and without receiving permission from the local to which he is going. Any apprentice boys who take this responsibility of leaving the local in which they are indentured and going into another local's territory without permission, leave themselves liable to having their apprentice indentures canceled at headquarters.

I am requesting all Secretaries to notify apprentice boys to this effect with the hope that this practice will be terminated.

General Secretary-Treasurer.
Terry Ford,

The construction industry can expect a few good years following 1949. Public construction will increase in volume. States and cities are going in for schools, hospitals, better roads, also there will be an upturn in private residential building, a high grade.

Cities are filing more and more applications with the Federal Housing Administration for projects. Material interests and builders believe there is an urgent market which will continue for several years. Future needs must be met by construction.

BUILDING TRADES AGAIN DONATE THEIR LABOR FOR A GOOD CAUSE

One of the most heartwarming examples of cooperation between union labor and management reached a successful culmination recently in the Bronx, New York.

It was the building of "Quad Heaven", a $50,000 mansion, for Charles and Ethel Collins, proud parents of four babies born to them on May 4, 1949.

When the children were born, the Collinses were living in a three room apartment. To safeguard the future health of the four children, Linda, Barbara, Edward and Andrew, the N. Y. Journal-American sponsored a drive to build them a house.

Shortly after the Quad Committee was appointed, with Borough President James J. Lyons as chairman, Tom Cleere, Journal-American reporter was assigned to coordinate the details and run stories on the project.

The AFL Building and Construction Trades Council was contacted and after a meeting of the Executive Board of the Council, a promise of labor's cooperation was received . . . if materials were supplied.

Melvin E. Kessler, as chairman of the Bronx Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, volunteered to draw plans for a house.

As soon as the plans were completed, the Building Trades Council called a meeting of the business agents of the various trades in the Bronx.

This meeting, held at the Concourse Plaza Hotel, really started the ball rolling. Each of the Bronx labor agents immediately promised whole hearted support. It wasn't long before the foundation was completed.

In rapid succession, giving their Saturdays and holidays, mechanics from the various trades began reporting for voluntary work. In three successive Saturdays, Bricklayers from Local 37, AFL, shot up the walls of the 8 room "mansion".

Next came the carpenters. On their first Saturday 52 of them went to work with hammers and saws. From that day until the completion there was never a time that some carpenters weren't on the job.

Insulation was donated by two contractors who completed their bit in two days. While the bricklayers and carpenters worked, plumbers and steam-fitters, electricians and glaziers did their share.

As soon as the house was framed out, Mike Rizzo, business agent of the Lathers International 308, was ready to bring in his crew. Mike had been one of the Bronx agents who said to Cleere at that Concourse Plaza meeting: "Just give me the plans and you forget about the work to be done by the lathers. I understand you already have the material pledged. If you happen to be short of any, let me know and I'll get some of my friends to donate some."

No truer words were ever spoken. Rizzo moved his gang on the job on a Saturday and all but one of the upstairs rooms was completed. Not content to let the job delay, Rizzo then had another crew report on Lincoln's Birthday.

A. Stephen LaSala had sent the bulk of the lath material. Rizzo's men used it up fast before another shipment could be obtained from LaSala. That didn't stop Rizzo. He called a friend, William L. Morte of Fireproof Products Co. Inc., and the lacking supplies were soon on the job.

The next Saturday saw the end of the job for the lathers whose photographs are on the opposite page. The following lathers who are not in the photographs were also on the job, namely: Anthony Bila, Joseph Rizzo, Patsy Palumbo, Joseph Gagliardi, and Salvatore Mancino.

On April 25th, at the Concourse Plaza, McSpedon paid tribute to Mike Rizzo and his men. The occasion was a dinner, supplemented with top notch Broadway entertainment, which was given by the N. Y. Journal-American in appreciation for labor's cooperation.

The $64 ?

(From the Machinist)

Washington.—There are men in business who say that they cannot afford to raise wages now — despite increased productivity.

The men in Congress who speak for business say we cannot afford to increase social services.

If we can't afford these things now, when we are enjoying the greatest prosperity the country has ever known, when will we be able to afford them? In the middle of the next depression?

ELLER LAUDS STABILIZATION, LABOR RELATIONS AT ANNUAL MEETING

As Mr. Matthews gets around in many circles of the industry and samples opinions of many and diverse shades, we cannot ignore his comment.

Warns Against Change

Likewise I suppose many of you have read Mr. Matthews' article in Dow Service Reports, dated January 12, entitled "What About Wage Stabilization After June 30, 1950?" If you have not, I would recommend that you read it. While I do not contend that the stabilization agreement is perfection, in my judgment we should strive for its renewal, as I do not believe a reversion to the system of the respective associations making an agreement for their particular trade is in these days practicable, and could easily upset our present pattern of stability and consequently our market.

I realize, of course, that there are those who will challenge this view, which is indicated and indeed foreshadowed by reports which have reached me. Now, I approach this subject in no captious or censorious sense. I realize that there are some who feel they can make a better deal through bargaining by their own association, but that is not my judgment, and I would be remiss in my duty if I failed to acquaint you with it.

Mr. Hughes has just key-noted the theme of harmony. I do not believe that this can be over-emphasized. In fact, if the full potentialities of this association are to be realized it can come only from unity of all of the member associations. We are an organization of the outstanding general contractors and specialized contractors in the construction industry in Metropolitan New York, and we are looked to for leadership by the industry and the public. Let us be worthy of that trust.

NO EASY ROAD

The sooner a man is convinced that there are no short cuts in life the better. Some men never learn it. To the end of their lives they have a notion that there is a short cut to wealth, a short cut to reputation, a short cut to health, a short cut to happiness — if they could only find them. They walk along the high road with a continual sense of grievance. Every now and then they deviate to the right or left to reach in a step the fields of desire, but it always ends in their coming back to the main road again, a little behind where they left it.

RESOLVED, That the Charter of Local 73 be draped for a period of thirty days and a copy of these resolutions be sent to his relatives and to our International Union for publication in our official journal.

H. L. Beermann, Sec.,
Local 73.

What I learned from Dr. "X"...

Saved Mr. "Y" a neat
$5000<sup>00</sup>

What I learned was very simple—a space-saving wall building method that can save you plenty on partitions. Simple? A-B-C-simple! And so practical that all of us U.S.G. Representatives tell friends of this 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH* and Plaster Partition idea at the drop of a hawk. Yes sir, been telling 'em ever since Dr. "X" of U.S.G. Research gave this modern system the "GO light" a few short years ago. Results? Just wonderful. My experience with Mr. "Y" is typical . . .

Mr. "Y" was planning a 3-floor, 18-apartment job when I first saw his plans and specs. "Hm—144 x 43, eh?" I cautiously inquired. "Something tells me 2-inch Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions will save over all footage and give you the same size rooms. Mind if I figure it?" I asked.

"Say, Red Topper, that is a saving!" Mr. "Y" exclaimed. "Solid ROCKLATH and Plaster Partitions give me the same size rooms in a 141½ x 42½-ft. structure. 178 square feet saved on each floor—a neat $5,000 worth of space!" And I might add, strong, economical partitions, easy for lather and plasterer to erect.

Happy Mr. "Y"! And happy you if you talk building plans and plastering problems over with your U.S.G. Representative! We're loaded with ideas... ideas that are building good will for the lathing and plastering business... practical, profitable ideas for you. Let's talk 'em over—soon, and often!

WOULD PUT ISSUES ON THE BALLOT

I could not express my true feelings by any mark I put on the ballot. Let us have, before the next major election, a movement undertaken by the people to have the major issues facing the country put on the ballot. The men elected on that ballot should then be made true representatives of the people by obliging them to follow the will of the majority.

Not until this is done will I feel that we have at least a partial democratic government. I will no longer have reached the extent of my participation in government by voting for the man whom I feel to be the "lesser of two evils." I can state exactly how I want this man to act while in office and know that if my views are not accepted, at least those of the majority are — and not those of a few powerful cliques.

If we want to say we have a government "by the people," it's about time we have one in actuality as well as in theory.

RESOURCES OF THE UNITED STATES

The state of Tennessee is rich in minerals, its livestock and agricultural interests are varied and important; its lumber production is large; its commercial interests are assisted by reason of its navigable waters, especially the Mississippi river.

According to an announcement research developments offer reasonable promise that within a few years synthetic gasoline will be produced from coal at a cost close to that made from petroleum and natural gas.

The state of Iowa is a great agricultural empire, producing corn, oats, hay, wheat, barley, rye, potatoes, fruits, berries and other farm products. The state also ranks high in livestock, dairy farming, poultry and eggs, and produces large quantities of wool.

Cotton is the principal crop in Louisiana and the state has a large agricultural and fruit production, including strawberries, citrus fruits, sweet potatoes, sugar cane and other products. It is also the third largest petroleum producing state of the Union.

Along with its large production of fruits, vegetables and agricultural products, including bananas, sugar cane, tobacco and pecans, Florida has large fishing interests, phosphate deposits, and is rated as the second largest cattle producing state in the U. S.

The strong man at the fair had squeezed the juice out of a lemon.

Holding it up before the crowd he shouted: "I'll give $5 to anyone who can squeeze another drop of juice out of this lemon!"

Up stepped a little man. He gripped the lemon and, to the surprise of the crowd, squeezed out several drops.

"It's easy," he murmured. I'm a tax collector."

IS THERE NOW?

Is there anything un-American about replacing tenements and crowded trailer camps with clean, pleasant homes? About providing good schools for every boy and girl in the country? About prepaid medical insurance to prevent bankruptcy every time serious illness hits the head of the family?

Are the independent farmers of America agents from Moscow when they ask for low-cost electric power and government stabilization of farm prices?

Are American socialists when they ask fair wages for a fair day's work? Workmen's compensation when they are injured on the job? Laws that prevent exploitation of women and children? Labor legislation that requires bargaining in good faith?

If you believe these things are un-American, Marxist or socialist, then it is high time that un-American Activities Committee started an investigation of the AFL, the President of the United States and the 172 members of the Senate and House elected last time with LLPE support. Why? Because these are the things that the American voters called for in the last election.

CAN YOU HAVE YOUR CAKE AND EAT IT?

During the past year, the government has spent something like three hundred million dollars keeping up the price of potatoes alone. How much has been spent bolstering the prices of other farm products is anybody's guess. Now the Department of Agriculture is coming up with a new kind of formula. Through some sort of fancy figuring the Department is going to bring about high profits to farmers and low prices to consumers.

We certainly hope that the idea developed by the Department of Agriculture will work, but from where we sit it sounds something like our Grandpa's idea for keeping apples from spoiling.

"To keep apples from spoiling," our Gramps always said, "place the barrel in a cool room in a house with eight growing kids."

Behind the Slogans

The defeat of Senator Pepper points up the seriousness of the propaganda campaign being launched against the legislative program supported by the AFL and LLPE-supported candidates.

Reactionaries can't get votes by debating the issues. So they smoke-screen the issues with sensational appeals to emotion and prejudice.

Pepper was whipsawed from every possible angle. In the Negro districts he was called anti-FEPC. In white districts he was pro-FEPC. He was tagged as a Red. He was tagged as advocating "Socialism" and the regimented "Jail State." Naturally he was pictured as getting enormous financial support from outside "labor bosses." The doctors attacked him as a "socialized medicine" advocate. But it was Smathers' appeal to anti-Negro and anti-Semitic prejudices that probably did Pepper the most damage.

Smathers' election was publicly hailed as a victory by the Republican National Committee Chairman, Guy Gabrielson, by Chamber of Commerce President, Herman Steinkraus, by the NAM, and naturally by the Dixiecrats. He won because he had mastered the technique of avoiding issues but swinging wide and low in every direction. If you can appeal to enough different prejudices in enough different people you can add up a majority on election day.

Underlying specific campaign techniques such as were used in Florida, is the steady stream of softening-up propaganda being fed the American public.

On Capitol Hill and in the daily press, straw men are being conjured up to confuse, terrify and blind the people and get them to vote against their own self-interest.

In California for example, GOP Senate candidate, Richard Nixon is running on the strength of the part he played in convicting Alger Hiss. Of course there were a lot of others who contributed to Hiss' conviction. But, like many other reactionaries on Capitol Hill he is using this sensational case to cover up his own bad voting record and divert attention from the real campaign issues.

The same goes for the present antics of Wisconsin Senator Joe McCarthy. He is on a fishing expedition of the most irresponsible sort. His conduct indicates his motives are 100 per cent political. If there could be one Alger Hiss, then maybe they can find another with a fishing expedition. Taft let the cat out of the bag when he urged McCarthy to keep on talking. He said "and if one case didn't work out to bring up another."

New York Governor Dewey got on the bandwagon last month. In the May 5th issues of the Washington Star he not only slurred labor with a crack about "ability to tax union treasures without the consent of the members," but the article carried the headline "Truman lambasted by Dewey as Tolerant of Spies, Traitors."

The intent of all these hysteria mongers is to give the impression that they and they alone are the champions of American democracy and that the government is crowded with traitors. Obviously that is not true. It was the Justice Department that got the evidence that convicted Hiss. The loyalty board headed by a Republican has done an excellent job of weeding out potential traitors. Even the head of the FBI has stated that there is no Communist threat in the State Department today. Actually McCarthy and his supporters are the ones who are aiding Russia. Their conduct causes disruption at home and loss of prestige abroad.

The anti-labor groups are spending a fortune trying to persuade the American people that the program of the AFL and its candidates for public office will lead the country to socialism if not communism.

The National Association of Manufacturers is reported to have spent $3,000,000 to influence school children.

The Committee for Constitutional Government and the American Medical Association are the two largest spenders in this vicious propaganda drive. Both have worked out an interlocking directorship with the Real Estate Lobby in a new super lobby federation in Washington. This organization operates under the innocent name "National Committee to Limit Federal Taxing Power." Herbert Nelson heads the Real Estate Lobby in Washington and recently made the headlines with the statement "I don't believe in Democracy. I think it stinks . . . I don't think anybody except direct taxpayers should be allowed to vote. I don't believe women should be allowed to vote at all."

The American Medical Association and the Committee for Constitutional Government together are distributing throughout the country hundreds of thousands of copies of John Flynn's book "The Road Ahead . . . America's Creeping Revolution." This book contains the master propaganda pattern used by most of our opponents at the present time. The Flynn line is that laws such as Social Security, aid to education and the minimum wage law lead to Socialism and that will eventually result in loss of freedom and lead to communism.

This theme is being promoted on all sides. America's Future Inc., which is an adjunct to the Committee for Constitutional Government, now is supplying employers with statements by various reactionaries to be inserted in pay envelopes.

Former Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes has backed up the theme by denouncing "The imposition of creeping but ever advancing socialist programs."

Top executives such as L. R. Boulware of General Electric are touring the country making speeches using the Flynn line. This is a typical quote from a speech by Boulware: "Our real danger is that while we are scared to death of Communists, too many of us seemingly haven't even come to fear socialism at all."

Unfortunately, in all this business the real victor is Stalin. There is nothing that does more harm to American influence abroad and nothing that gives the Commies more grist for their mill than a dirty "white supremacy" fight in this country. This is especially true as it affects Asia where first Tojo and now the Communists use stories of American racial discrimination to whip up anti-American feeling.

Europeans cannot understand how an outstanding advocate of fair labor laws and improved social legislation can be beaten by a "Back-to-McKinley" reactionary. It creates doubts about how strong and progressive our democracy is. It makes them easier prey for Communist propaganda.

I will never forget the day the Taft-Hartley Act was passed. I was in Paris. AFL representatives abroad were trying to rebuild democracy in war-torn countries which looked to America for spiritual as well as material guidance. They laughed in our faces that day. They asked who were we to preach democracy when we couldn't make democracy work for the benefit of the common people in our own country.

The cold war is a battle for the hearts of men. Whether our children will live in a free or in a slave world depends upon the outcome of this world-wide ideological battle. We must make democracy work not only for our own sakes but for the sake of freedom everywhere.

It is unfortunate that there are lobbies and politicians who would jeopardize American prestige abroad because they think it is good politics to drum up hate, fear and confusion in the minds of Americans at home. However, I don't think we should stoop to their tactics. But we cannot remain silent.

We must strike back through LLPE and expose the Nixons and the McCartheys as the real enemies of American democracy. We must point out that sensational headline-hunting is usually nothing but a cover up for bad voting records.

Every AFL member has a real responsibility this year. To register and vote is not enough. Liberal Congressmen don't get lavish campaign contributions. They fought for you in Congress. The least you can do in return is to contribute your $2 to LLPE. Your local union is collecting contributions right now. Give today.

UNION LABEL WEEK — COMING UP

*Matthew Woll, President
Union Label Trades Department
American Federation of Labor*

This year Union Label Week was designated for September 2nd through the 9th by resolutions unanimously adopted by the last conventions of both the American Federation of Labor and the Union Label Trades Department.

The AFL resolution read in part, "In all our promotional activities it is our desire to keep a constant reminder before members of labor unions, women's auxiliaries, their families and friends of the necessity of giving preference to Union Label goods and the patronage of Union services.

"We depend upon our friends all during the year to demand the Union Labels, Shop Cards and Union Buttons and we spearhead our campaigns by conducting a Union Label Week."

In every city and community in America, appropriate ceremonies should be planned at once to publicize Union Labels, Shop Cards and Union Buttons and also to promote the sale of Union-made goods and the use of all Union services. Union Label Week affords an excellent opportunity to build good will with all Americans and stimulate good relations with manufacturers, unionized industries, and other "fair" business establishments. In cooperation with merchants and other firms we should make this eight-day period the outstanding event of the year.

This year also marks the Centennial Celebration of the birth of Samuel Gompers, the founder of the American Federation of Labor. It will be fitting to have joint exercises and other activities to include both Union Label Week and commemoration of the centenary of Samuel Gompers because he had been an ardent advocate of the use of Union Labels, Shop Cards and Union Buttons.

In 1909 when the Union Label Trades Department was established by the AFL, it was Samuel Gompers who said, "We want the public to know that the product which our Union Label covers is the best of its character and kind that can be had; that Union Label goods are made under better conditions for the workers, as to wages, hours and sanitary conditions than non-union products. That our hallmarks, the Union Labels of our organizations, stand for higher and better things than a mere trade-mark. The fact that so many of the Union Labels of our organizations are imitated and counterfeited, demonstrates beyond question their value. It is said that imitation is the highest form of flattery, and imitation of our Union Labels, the counterfeiting of them, is a flattering endorsement of their real value."

We urge that every channel of publicity be utilized during Union Label Week. It starts on Saturday when opening ceremonies should be held during the day or evening at a large mass meeting, banquet, picnic, or other popular event. The next day is Labor Sunday when many churches hold special services for American workers. Monday is Labor Day and this year all AFL activities including Labor's League for Political Education, Women's Auxiliaries, Gompers' Centennial, and our Union Label campaign should all be dramatized in parades, meetings and other forms of celebrations.

Then the momentum of these opening days of Union Label Week should be sustained by every available method until Saturday night, September 9th, at 12:00 midnight. Newspaper advertising, window displays, movies, radio programs and speeches will be extremely effective in maintaining public interest at high pitch throughout the entire period.

During Union Label Week let us renew our solemn pledge always to patronize only firms which display Union Labels, Shop Cards and Union Buttons.

"Go Union and buy Label" or "Protect American standards — patronize firms which display the Union Label, Shop Card and Union Button" are a couple of slogans.

The Man Who Never Forgot

"Lord, strike me dead — my wife, my kids want bread and I've no work to do." This was the cry of starving London workers in 1856 when machines robbed them of their jobs. A little boy heard this cry, and he never forgot it. The boy was Samuel Gompers.

This year marks the one-hundredth anniversary of Gompers' birth. Everywhere people are remembering the man who devoted his lifetime to preaching the dignity of labor, the workers' right to decent wages and fair working conditions and to a voice in setting those conditions.

"Frisked" by the Boss

Only six years old when the poverty and helplessness of his London neighbors impressed him, Sam Gompers became a worker himself at the age of ten. Starting young was a necessary custom of the day, and the boy chose cigarmaking.

He earned 12 cents a week, making cigars from daylight to long after sundown. With all the shop-workers, he was frisked nightly by a boss who wanted to be sure nobody walked home carrying off a single cigar!

In the workshop he learned of America and joined in singing songs of freedom from the new nation, then ridding itself of slavery in a civil war. His union set up a fund to help jobless members reach the States.

When Sam was 13 his family moved to New York City, settling in the poor immigrant section. Among the cigarmakers he found others who believed their only salvation lay in organizing themselves to correct by mass demand the life of want and insecurity, then the lot of all working people.

For years the few unions which formed were powerless. The early idea of unionism to most members was to call a strike whenever dissatisfied and walk off the job. They simply lost their jobs — and their officers were blacklisted in all shops.

They all knew unions had to be stronger in number. Only a few, like Sam Gompers, the cigarmakers' president, realized unions would have to bargain with employers in an orderly way if anything were to be accomplished. Sporadic strikes bore no fruit and only won for them the right to starve on the streets. Mass meetings of the workers were often broken up by club-wielding policemen. Radicals attached themselves to unions, giving them a "bad name" with the public.

Despite trouble, within and without, the labor movement gained numerical strength and public favor. Sam Gompers was its acknowledged leader. When a great portion of the workers united in one organization, the AFL, he was elected president.

Everybody's Champion

Though the salary as AFL head ($1,000) was less than Gompers was making in his trade, he accepted the challenge to unite all workers. Setting up office in a shed next to his Cigarmakers' headquarters, he spoke wherever and whenever he was invited, often spending his own meager funds to get there.

Everywhere he encouraged working people to form unions. When there were several groups in the same craft, he gave them an AFL charter as an International union. With a rich and powerful voice he told the worker's story, believing that if only it were understood, it would be supported by all.

He championed labor's rights in Congress, too, winning such things as equal rights for women workers and the prohibition of child labor. When management claimed the Sherman Anti-Trust law applied to labor and the courts issued injunctions to straight-jacket workers, Gompers proclaimed to the world

To the Officers and Members of our Local Unions, District and State Councils

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

I am addressing this letter to you at the request of Director Keenan of Labor's League for Political Education, who informs me to the effect that there have been none of the members connected with 236 of our local unions that have made a voluntary contribution of at least $2.00 for the promotion and the advancement of the interests of the Political League.

Labor's League for Political Education was organized primarily for the purpose of promoting the rights, interests and liberties of the working men and women of the United States. It has no official connection with any political party, nor has it any connection with any form of ideology or ism. Its sole purpose is to promote and protect the rights and interests of working men all throughout this country, and especially to protect the gains that have been made through our economic and political strength in the State Legislatures throughout the United States, as well as in the halls of Congress and Senate of the United States.

These gains which have been made in the betterment of our social and economic conditions have been made over a long period of time through sacrifice and struggle on the part of the members of the trade union movement who have preceded us, and in order to protect these gains, as well as to promote and advance the interests of the working men and women of our country, we must at all times be alert and practice the doctrine of eternal vigilance.

It has only been through these efforts that we have been able to accomplish for the working men and women, as well as the masses of the people generally in our country, their rights to practice without restraint their religious and political freedoms, and it is in my opinion necessary for us all to take a more alert interest in the affairs of our country as they apply to the future of our special political and economic privileges, if we desire to prevent ourselves and those who may follow us, from being forced into conditions of involuntary servitude, such as those which existed in our country, and in other parts of the world prior to the inception of the trade union movement.

It has only been through the instrumentalities of the trade union movement that we have been able in the past, to extract ourselves from conditions of slavery, serfdom, peonage and bondage of other descriptions into which we were placed, through ignorance and illiteracy in many cases, to suffer the injustices, impositions and the exploitations heaped upon us by the unfair and exploiting employer, who very rapidly realized that the great majority of unorganized men and women in those times were unable as individuals in any way to resist these impositions.

The trade unions of America, such as those exemplified by the American Federation of Labor, have brought about many of these changes which have been responsible for the conditions that we are enjoying today, and have been over a period of close to fifty years. The labor movement has been primarily responsible for pioneering mostly all of the worthwhile improvements that have been accomplished during that time in our social, economic and political form of society, including the system of compulsory education which has done so much to improve the social, economic and cultural makeup among the people of our country.

And it is for the purpose of admonishing our membership of the necessity for the rule of practicing the doctrine of Eternal Vigilance, especially as it applies to the laws and lawmakers of both our State Legislatures and the Congress and Senate of the United States, as we must at all time be alert to protect our rights and interests as against the encroachment of those who would desire to destroy the movement that has meant so much in the improvement of the living and working conditions of our people throughout the country.

We should always remember that these are OUR interests, and we must preserve and protect our interests, as well as to try as best we can to promote and advance them, and it is this function of Labor's League for Political Education that we desire to bring to your attention. It is for the purpose of having you realize more seriously and more firmly your obligation and responsibility as working men and women that you must join in the spirit of cooperation with the Political League and its officials for the purpose of protecting your rights and interests.

We must adhere to the slogan of the late Sam Gompers which was to the effect that we shall reward our friends and rebuke our enemies, no matter where they may be or to which party or ideology they may belong.

I would therefore kindly request that all of our members give serious thought and reflection to these comments, as well as to realize the necessity for protecting the rights, liberties and privileges that have been gained by the working men and women of America, and in order to accomplish this purpose I would advise all of our membership to voluntarily and freely sign one of the Pledges sent to the Secretary of your local union for a voluntary contribution of at least two dollars apiece.

This is both necessary and essential in order to carry on the campaign of enlightenment now being spread all over our country by Labor's League for Political Education; such a contribution will yield the biggest returns in both happiness, security and satisfaction for both yourself and your family and those who may come after you.

The Lathers' International Union has always tried to be a progressive organization; it has always attempted to have our membership do their part in all movements that have for their purpose the promoting and advancing of the interests of working men and women, and I sincerely trust that our membership will continue to follow this policy; so they and those who may follow them, will continue to enjoy unrestricted the full fruits of our liberty and freedom, which are guaranteed us under the constitution of the United States, without any shackles or any system of bondage being attached thereto.

I am with best wishes

Fraternally and Sincerely Yours

WM. J. MCSORLEY

LAW ONCE "CAGED" CIGARS

Germans always have been fond of cigars, which they now can buy at moderate prices. In an earlier era, however, the cigar was regarded as a dangerous item in the country, the Manchester Guardian remarks.

Until a century ago, it is explained, Prussia enforced a law prohibiting cigar-smoking in the streets. Anyone seen with a lighted cigar in a public thoroughfare was liable to arrest. The regulation apparently was inspired by fear of fire.

When the law was rescinded, cautious authorities stipulated that, to prevent accidents, a wire cage should be fixed over the lighted end of a cigar smoked in public.

THE MAN WHO NEVER FORGOT

that no one could have a monopoly on labor because it was not a "commodity", for "you cannot weigh a human soul on the same scales as a piece of pork!" And the law was changed.

World-Wide Dreams

Having led the nation's workers through War I, he was sent by President Wilson to the Versailles peace conference. Gompers formed an international labor group (the ILO, which still exists) to raise the living standards of workers the world over. Later, he founded and headed the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

Sampel Gompers lived to see his own American Federation grow from a few hundred thousand to 3 million members (8 million today). His last message to those members, before his death December 13, 1924, urged them to be true to America and to their unions. His dying words were for his country ("God bless our American institutions. May they grow better day by day") because he firmly believed "America is an ideal — the ideal of people everywhere". As a boy he heard men cry in the streets — and he never forgot to fight for the ideal of all people: A better life.

PLAY SAFE WHEN IT'S DARK

As a preventive against accidents around the home or yard at night a flashlight will more than prove its worth.

Here are ten commandments for its use for safety in the dark.

1. On dark stairways to prevent falls.
2. For walking on highways or streets at night.
3. On a bicycle.
4. In the car, for changing tires, or for signalling when stalled.
5. Outside chores at night.
6. Near the bed to eliminate stumbling or groping for light switches.
7. For throat examination if a child complains of illness.
8. When gas fumes are expected to be present.
9. For unlighted closets.
10. For checking the baby's comfort at night without disturbing him with a brighter upper light.

Although modern homes have electric lights, there are always corners or areas that have no light or insufficient light; then the flashlight is the answer.

NOTICE TO LOCAL SECRETARIES AND MEMBERS

This is an official notice that an assessment of 13c per member is levied for the month of July in conformity with Section 97 of the International constitution for the purpose of paying the per capita tax of those members who were tax-exempt during the year ended June 30, 1950.

This 13c assessment is for the month of July only and it is to be collected at once and forwarded to headquarters with the next report of the local union.

Faternally yours,

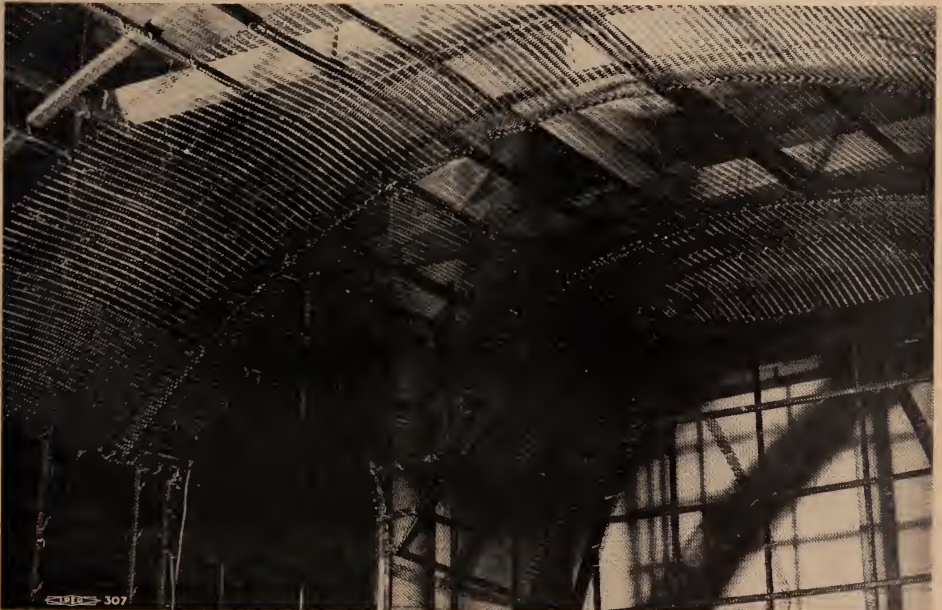

TERRY FORD,
General Secretary-Treasurer.

America gave the world the lofty steel frame building which we call the skyscraper. Chicago is credited with producing the first one. Throughout the world today there are many examples of this type of construction. There is scarcely a city of any size in the country that does not have at least one or more skyscrapers. In fact, it is not practical to build a building of any height without the steel frame.

Here are two views of the barrel ceiling with window and door penetrations erected by the apprentices of Local 147 of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. See Page 4 for additional explanation.

NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE LIU

As directed by the delegates to our 20th Convention and also by the International Executive Council at its January 1950 meeting, your International officers are making a study of the cost of a group life insurance plan for our organization.

In order to assist us to secure an accurate estimate, we are mailing special cards to the secretaries of our local unions, requesting them to have all of their members in good standing fill in these cards completely and then return them to headquarters.

When your secretary distributes these cards, complete yours and give it back to him promptly so that he can send them back to us as quickly as possible.

Please keep in mind that by signing one of these cards, an individual member does not incur any obligation, either on his own part or on the part of the International, to participate in this group insurance plan. The information on these cards is to be used solely to determine the cost of such a plan so that the Executive Council can study the advisability of adopting it and make a suitable recommendation to the 1952 Convention.

Faternally yours,

TERRY FORD,

TAFT BATTLES HIS OWN NLRB PLAN

Every now and then you still hear someone say: "You know, I don't agree with Senator Taft's conclusions, but that man's got a head on his shoulders. He really thinks things out."

"Let's see how he 'thinks things out.'"

Last June Robert Taft (R., Ohio) said on the Senate floor, "I believe that the amendments we have suggested are important. Perhaps the most important one is the elimination of the independent General Counsel."

That's plain English. A year ago Taft wanted to abolish the office of General Counsel which the Taft-

Hartley act had set up in the National Labor Relations Board.

Last March President Truman urged Congress to do exactly that -- eliminate the job of General Counsel. Now if Taft is the type of person his publicity men make him out to be, you would expect him to go along with the President.

But what is he doing this year? He's fighting Truman's proposal to abolish the counsel's post.

Why? Because Taft is just as much of a politician as, say, Sen. Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) or Sen. Kenneth Wherry (R., Nebr.).

Last year, Taft was trying to drum up support for his fake amendments to T-H. So he decided to go along with the proposal to abolish the office of General Counsel.

This year Taft is running for reelection. The principal plank in his platform seems to read: If Truman for it, I'm agin' it.

What was that someone was saying about Taft thinking things through.

LIQUOR AND LONGEVITY

The horse and mule live 30 years
And nothing know of wines and beers.
The goat and sheep at 20 die
And never taste of Scotch or Rye.
The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is mostly done.
The dog at 15 cashes in Without the aid of rum and gin.
The cat in milk and water soaks.
And then in 12 short years it croaks.
The modest, sober, bone-dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, then dies at ten.
All animals are strictly dry:
They sinless live, and swiftly die;
But sinful, ginful, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and ten.
And some of them, a very few,
Stay pickled till they're 92.

CHIDES "NOVEMBER CITIZENS"

Well, maybe you are "just a November citizen."

Read along now and see if Miss Anna Lord Strauss, president of the League of Women Voters, is talking about you in this statement made for the A. F. of L. Labor's League for Political Education. Miss Strauss says:

"My personal opinion is that too many of us are just November citizens.

"To begin to think about elections just before the general election in November is too late. The time to work, and work hard, is before the primaries when good candidates are persuaded to enter the race.

"The November citizen has no choice except the nominees of the parties. If both candidates are mediocre, the X he puts on his ballot may be an unhappy choice."

Miss Strauss said that the power to nominate is as important as the power to elect. "We can elect good officials in November if good candidates are nominated before that time," she said.

Don't be a November citizen because you have only one vote, Miss Strauss advises. She explains:

"We can understand why a voter feels his voice is only one small squeak when he reads of the 45,000,000 or more votes cast in a presidential election. He is apt to feel helpless indeed! But such helplessness just isn't based on fact.

"I know of one good candidate for a local school board who lost by one vote.

"A good candidate for a state legislature lost the nomination by 10 votes. The following day at least 15 of her friends called her, each giving some feeble reason why she had not gone to the polls.

"A present Senator from Texas owes his nomination and subsequent election to a mere handful of votes.

"In 1944, one Congressman from Missouri got in by a margin of 300 votes, with 63,000 qualified voters staying away from the polls. In the same election, a Pennsylvania Congressman nosed in by a margin of 500 votes, with 40,000 voters not bothering to say whether or not they wanted him in Congress.

Yes, each vote does count. We must convince each voter that that is true. Furthermore, we must encourage each voter to use all the knowledge and experience at his command to cast his vote wisely."

"Not a thing, Red. Only—"

"Okay then." I say, "let's sing it out: 'PLASTER . . . to be sure!' Ah, that's sweet music to a U.S.G. salesman like myself. What a slogan—a whole sales story, wrapped up in the biggest four words ever to hit this industry. Let's tell it to the whole world, I say."

"But that's just what we're going to do," they insist. "If you'll just slow down and get off your high house . . ."

So I listen to those promotional boys from the home office. "How do you like this?" they ask me. "Big, colorful job signs that sell plaster for the entire industry . . . easy for your contractors to display on jobs or trucks to tell the world: 'PLASTER . . . to be sure!'"

"I'm convinced," I assure the boys. "You're really going to help my lathing and plastering contractors tell the world it's 'PLASTER . . . to be sure!'—Hey, what about some samples for my friends?" They agree, so—clip this coupon and shoot it to me. I'll see that you get a supply of signs and stickers free . . . to tie in with U.S.G.'s big promotional drive and help your own business. ## A FAMOUS REPUBLICAN'S VIEW

A famous Republican once summed up his views on fair wages this way:

"In the early days of our race, the Almighty said to the first of our race: 'In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread,' and since then, if we except the light and air of Heaven, no good thing has been or can be enjoyed by any of us without first having cost labor. And inasmuch as most good things are produced by labor, it follows that all such things of right belong to those whose labor produced them. But it has so happened in all ages of the world that some have labored and others have, without labor, enjoyed a large proportion of the fruits. That is wrong and should not continue. To secure to each laborer the whole product of his labor, or as nearly as possible, is a worthy object of any good government."

President Lincoln wrote those words in notes for a speech on tariffs he planned to make when he took his seat in Congress in December, 1847.

YOU OWE IT TO YOU

Promise yourself that when the Social Security Act is enlarged and amended — and it looks like soon now — you will write L.L.P.E. for a digest of the bill and learn what's in it for sure.

According to experts at the Social Security Board, the present law is one everyone assumes he knows but rarely does.

If it weren't for undertakers, for instance, not half the people would know that close relatives who help pay burial costs of an insured worker are entitled to collect for part of the expense. As it is, only a fraction of those entitled to this money ever apply for it.

Under the revised law, it is proposed that other than close relatives can get the money — if they helped defray funeral expenses. The sum available is three times the worker's primary monthly benefit.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

Heavy pressures are forming against many of President Truman's twenty-one Reorganization Plans in line with the Hoover Commission Reports. Republicans and Democrats alike, all over America, have worked hard to carry the reorganization of the Executive Branch program along the road to reality. We are in a cold war and the need for wise management and full use of our resources is as great today as it ever was in time of armed conflict. This may be our last chance to assure an efficient, effective, well-managed Federal Government. Fourteen big, well-organized, influential national organizations are now opposing one section or another of the Commission's Reports, and because of this sniping, the whole program of reorganization of the Executive Branch is in danger. It seems that the Hoover Commission Reports are fine, except where someone's toes are stepped on.

AFL ON GUARD

No slave labor products will be used at the new United Nations headquarters in New York if the American Federation of Labor can help it. The AFL, always the uncompromising opponent of human slavery in any form, is keeping a watchful eye on the award of contracts by the UN.

Both Soviet Russia, which has slave labor camps containing literally millions of persons and Communist-dominated Czechoslovakia, have indicated they are interested in selling furnishings and other equipment to the UN for use in the new world capital buildings.

The AFL has repeatedly urged a thorough investigation of the terrible slave labor conditions known to exist in Russia. Satisfactory action on the American labor's proposal has not yet been taken by the United Nations. In the interest of freedom and justice, the AFL intends to press hard for a searching problem of slavery wherever it exists.

IT'S YOURS, STRIVE TO IMPROVE IT

You want your union to be a permanent investment. Since your union is a permanent investment, you do not make that investment lightly.

Remember that a union is what its members make it. When you join, expect to attend the meetings and to express your views. Help to make it the kind of union that will serve your needs. Think over and understand the principles and policies you and your fellow members are setting up through your union.

Since you benefit from the gains other union members have won, work to make the union better than you found it.

KLEBERG'S PAPA WINS "KENTUCKY DERBY"

Remember former Congressman Richard M. Kleberg, Texas reactionary, who dropped out of the House in 1944, when it was discovered that he had been taking "kick-backs" from his office boy's meager pay?

Kleberg certainly did not need the money, for he is the son of the immensely wealthy Robert J. Kleberg, one of whose race horses, "Middleground," won the recent "Kentucky Derby."

Papa Kleberg gets the $925,000 Derby prize, and he does not need that money. He is the owner of the fabulous "King Ranch" in Texas, much bigger than the entire State of Rhode Island, and about the same size as Delaware.

How explain why the son of all that wealth would stoop to pinch from his office boy's pocket pennies paid by Uncle Sam? And isn't there something wrong in America when any man can rule like a feudal lord over such a vast estate as the King Ranch, which would make thousands of family-size farms?—Labor.

WHO IS LABOR

Sixty-eight million American men and women—your neighbors, your friends, the people who live next door to you, the man who lives upstairs, the people who pay 80 per cent of the taxes of the United States, the people who supplied 75 per cent of the armed forces in time of war, the people who have built this great country and who have contributed their time and money and their blood in every important moment of its existence, the people who today merely ask to be treated as Americans. This is Labor!

DON'T let it happen in 1950

By Joseph D. Keenan

Liberals have always lost ground in the off-year elections. When there is no Presidential contest to capture the concern and the votes of the average citizen, reactionary Congressmen make hay. The 1934 election was the one exception to this rule. Liberals in Congress not only held their ground but increased their majority that year.

What will it be this year? Are we going to let down those who stood by us in Congress? Or are we going to break the 1934 record by sending a clear-cut liberal majority to Congress?

This is a real test for Labor's League for Political Education. 1948 was our first trial in the political battle. Not one friend of labor went down to defeat. Dozens of reactionaries went back to private life after that great political upset on November 2, 1948.

The professional politicians and the reactionary lobbies laughed at our newly formed political league before Election Day. They changed their tune as they watched the news tickers bringing in the results from all over the country that election night.

But, frankly, I don't put too much faith in the 1948 election as a forecast of labor's political strength. First, 1948 was a Presidential election year. Second, the farmers, small businessmen and veterans were also treated badly by the Eightieth Congress and voted accordingly. Labor was just one group among many working hard to defeat reactionaries.

The real test comes this year. Are we just a flash in the pan that came in on the tide in our first dive into the political surf? Or do we really have the unity and determination to save our friends even when the tide is going out?

Louis Bean, political analyst to whom nobody listened in 1948 because he predicted Truman's victory, is coming out with a book in July that contains some very startling facts. Every A. F. of L. official ought to buy a copy. It is called "The Mid-Term Battle." After a quick run through this booklet, you will stop flexing your muscles over past success and get down to work with cold perspiration on your brow.

All we lacked were fourteen votes in the House and five in the Senate in order to repeal Taft-Hartley last year. It sounds as though we ought to be able to win that many more seats easily, doesn't it? The truth is we will have to work twice as hard as we did in 1948.

If you read between the lines, Louis Bean has a moral for every one of us. One-fourth of the people who vote in Presidential elections do not vote in mid-term elections. There is only one way we can win this year and that is by getting out a record vote. Since 1940 ten million votes have "disappeared." To capture those missing votes is our job.

Sure it would be nice to sit back and rest on the strength of our victory in 1948. But that is the best way for us to get a bloody nose this Election Day.

For instance, prior to the 1948 election four out of six West Virginia Representatives were anti-labor and so was one Senator. As a result of that election, West Virginia now has a 100 per cent liberal delegation in Congress. Sounds wonderful, doesn't it?

But don't forget what happened in West Virginia in the off-year election of 1946. At that time every Congressman except one was a friend of labor. When they got through counting the ballots, only two friends survived.

Another horrible example is Connecticut. It goes up and down like a roller coaster. A liberal candidate for Congress is always the favorite in Presidential years, but in mid-term election years like this one nobody has any faith in Connecticut voters to save their friends. Even a strong team of candidates like Senators McMahon and Benton and Governor Bowles does not impress the analysts. It is going to take a superhuman vote-getting effort to put over these L.L.P.E.-backed candidates. I predict it will be done, but it won't be easy.

Don't think that I am making the contrast of 1946 with 1948 unfairly. Fred Hartley, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act, quoted in his recent book some embarrassing examples of labor's failure to reward our friends in years past.

Hartley reminds us that it was after the setback in the mid-term election of 1938 that the infamous Smith Committee was set up to investigate the N.L.R.B. We lost so many seats in that election that the House passed seventeen Smith Committee amendments weakening the Wagner Act. Only a liberal majority in the Senate saved us.

Even after the 1940 election the Smith amendments passed the House by a 2 to 1 margin. And what happened to our friends who stuck with us when they came up for reelection in the mid-term election of 1942? Here is what Hartley said:

"One hundred and thirty-six House members voted against the Smith amendments. Of this number fifty were defeated in the 1942 elections."

We have 203 friends in the House up for reelection this year. Are we going to let fifty of them down as we did in 1942? Or are we going to help them to reelection?

Liberals of both parties such as Senator Pepper of Florida, Senator Morse of Oregon and now Republican Congressman Dayton Phillips of Tennessee have not only had to buck mid-term election apathy. They have also been smeared as "reds" for their support of organized labor. Unprecedented amounts of money are being spent to defeat liberals everywhere. These liberals can look only to us for help.

If you want to help, here is what YOU can do:

First, give $2 to the L.L.P.E. campaign fund. Your local union secretary-treasurer or shop steward is collecting now. All A. F. of L. affiliates are concentrating on getting 100 per cent collections in during June and July.

Second, volunteer to help out on your local union or precinct committee.

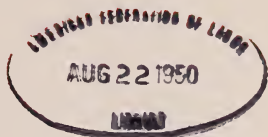

Third, REGISTER and VOTE.

DECLARATION OF POLICY

Adopted by

THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE OF LABOR'S LEAGUE FOR POLITICAL ACTION

Washington, D.C.

July 19, 1950

To fight Communism abroad and to safeguard democratic rights and economic well-being at home. This is the job which faces the next Congress.

Never was there greater need to elect men of wisdom and vision to Congress. It is Congress which writes the laws and sets our country's policy both here and abroad.

The reactionary opponents of labor have proven incompetent to set policy. Not only on domestic policy but in fighting the Communists abroad, they have proven bad security risks. The National Committee of Labor's League for Political Education, composed of the Presidents of the National and International Unions recognize that the future course of world events depends in large part upon the effectiveness of labor's vote in defeating reactionaries in this crucial election year.

We recognize that the best liberal legislature in American history was enacted following the election of President Roosevelt and a liberal Congress in 1932. After the mid-term Congressional election set-backs in 1938, labor was faced with a hostile Congress until 1946. Only the Presidential veto prevented the enactment of reactionary anti-labor laws. Following the 1946 mid-term defeats even the presidential veto was ineffective against a more than two-thirds reactionary majority in both Houses of the 80th Congress. The Taft-Hartley Act was enacted and military preparedness was crippled by the 80th Congress.

Shocked into action by the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act, the American Federation of Labor formed Labor's League for Political Education. The League, in its first year, contributed greatly to the 1948 election victory. As a result, reaction was not only stemmed, but in the 81st Congress liberal legislation was placed on the statute books for the first time in a decade.

This Congress passed the Public Housing Act, increased the minimum wage to seventy-five cents and improved the Social Security Act. These laws came as a direct result of the 1948 elections. To hold these gains, to make greater improvements and to repeal the infamous Taft-Hartley Act, labor must increase the liberal majority in Congress.

Labor has the votes required for victory. The 1948 election proved that. However, in an off-year, records show that labor's vote tends to stay home — resulting in dangerous losses in friendly House and Senate seats. This was true in 1938. It was true in 1942 and especially was it true in 1946. Consequently, it is absolutely necessary for us to see that labor's vote does not stay at home in 1950 but appears in full force at the polls on November 7 next.

So far in the 1950 primaries it has become apparent that labor's enemies have unlimited funds to spend and will stoop to any depth to achieve victory. In order to insure labor's victory it is hereby recommended by the National Committee that each National and International Union and all affiliates of the American Federation of labor put into effect the following program of action:

All National and International Unions and all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor shall immediately instruct their regional and district representatives to call on the local union deputy collectors (financial secretaries) and to call regional meetings of all local union officers, for the purpose of instructing local union officers to:

1. Set up within each local union a committee designed as the Registration Committee. This committee shall conduct a drive among the membership with the goal of registering every member and his or her family in order that they will be qualified to vote in the November elections.
2. Set up a committee designated as the Contribution Committee to conduct, among the membership, a drive for voluntary contributions. The goal shall be a voluntary contribution from members and friends. Funds shall be forwarded to the L. L. P. E. National Office each week as collected. (NOTE: The National Committee finds that local unions have collected funds and that these funds are lying in the local office awaiting the completion of the collections. It is a recommendation that these funds be sent each week, because these funds are needed now.)
3. Impress upon their membership the urgent need for their full and complete cooperation with state and local L. L. P. E. and the great part that their active participation can play in the overall political effort which must be made in the coming campaign.

The National and International Unions and all the affiliates of the American Federation of Labor shall obtain from their various representatives complete periodic progress reports on the extent of registration and the amount of funds collected from each of their local unions. The first report should be made to the International Union Headquarters not later than September 1 prior to the American Federation of Labor Convention.

The above Declaration of Policy was prepared by a Drafting Committee composed of:

Richard F. Walsh, Chairman—International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators.

John P. Burke—International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Marx Lewis—United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union.

John E. Rooney—Operative Plasterers' and Cement Finishers International Association.

Fred Tobin—International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers.

The Declaration of Policy was unanimously adopted on July 19, 1950 by the National Committee of Labor's League for Political Education, meeting in the Washington Hotel, Washington, D. C.

THERE CAN BE NO COMPROMISE

(William Green in testimony before Senate Committee on Education and Labor)

Only free labor is productive labor. There can be no free labor when the right to strike is proscribed. The right to strike is the workingman's most fundamental right, and upon it all trade union organization is predicated. There can be no free and bona fide collective bargaining without the right to strike, because without it no equality of bargaining power can exist.

Without free and voluntary collective bargaining there can be no true industrial peace or any real labor productivity. Considerations of involuntary servitude aside, it is the consistent experience of labor over the years that prohibitions on the right to strike, engender but do not solve labor disputes, and create a hostility between management and labor which is fatal to efficient production.

It has been said more often by representatives of industry than by representatives of labor that any attempt to impose a system of compulsory arbitration leads directly to, and in fact constitutes, totalitarianism, bringing with it all the attendant evil of bureaucracy, political favor and the stifling of private enterprise and free labor. There is no escape from the argument that, once government undertakes to establish wages, it must undertake to establish prices and methods of operation.

American heritage and tradition are that industrial managers decide for themselves what wages they can pay, what prices they can get, and under what conditions they can operate, and their employes determine for themselves under what wages and conditions they choose to work. As long as any industry is run for private profit, and as long as labor is to remain free, there can be no compromise with proposals for compulsory arbitration or with prohibitions on the right to strike.

To All Local Unions,
District and State Councils

July 14, 1950.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

I am herewith enclosing you copy of agreement entered into by Committees from the Executive Council of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union and also a Committee composed of members of the Executive Council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

These two Committees have held several meetings at different times over a period of more than a year in reference to the jurisdictional dispute between the two organizations over the question of metal base and metal door and window casing trim, and after these many meetings the both Committees came to the conclusions as set forth in this agreement.

This agreement was submitted to the Executive Council of our International Union with the unanimous recommendation of the Committee that it be approved and adopted.

The Executive Council of the International Union complied with the recommendation of the Committee and approved this agreement unanimously.

We know that it is not all that many of us would like, but under the conditions and circumstances existing at the present time, it is the best settlement upon this type of work that the Committee was able to make, and it is therefore submitted to our local unions, state and district councils with the hope that the provisions of this agreement shall be carried out by all of our local unions and general membership.

We believe that this settlement of the jurisdiction dispute existing between the two international unions over this class of material will have a tendency to bring about a wider and broader use of these materials by the elimination of the fear that has heretofore prevailed amongst architects, contractors and builders who feared to both specify and use these materials fearing jurisdictional trouble over the same on their jobs.

Trusting your local union will be governed by the same, I am

Faternally yours,

Wm. J. McSorley

General President.

1. Whenever partitions or walls are erected with light iron furring and metal lath applied, the metal base, beads or guards, attached thereto for the purpose of receiving plaster shall be the work of members of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers International Union.
2. All other metal trim applied to other types of partitions or walls before or after plastering (except metal corner beads or guards to receive plaster) shall be the work of members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.
3. The setting of all metal door bucks, or frames and all metal window frames shall be the work of members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have hereunto set their hands and seals this 10th day of May, 1950.

FORESIGHT NEEDED

By Ruth Taylor

Now, while the battle rages on the Korean front, there is another battle raging on the home front — a battle of words. Those to whom talk is more important than action are trying to place the blame — on anyone but themselves. Those who argued for cuts in arms appropriations have forgotten their previous stand and are waving the flag for all they are worth. Too many of those who saw the danger are devoting themselves to shouting "I told you so" and trying to pat themselves on the back.

But what we need now isn't hindsight, but foresight. Of course it was plain to see — if we had wanted to look. But no, we were too interested in ourselves, in our group's wishes, in what we wanted out of life. And all the talk in the world won't change that picture.

There isn't any use in going into what has happened. We must put aside the indoor sport of post-mortems and look ahead. Whether we call it "policing for the United Nations", or "preventing the further spread of communism", it still remains a war. American lives are being lost, American boys are being called up, and each and every one of us needs to look ahead.

I do not mean that we are to become arm-chair strategists and plan out the course of the war. That is up to the military. I do not mean that we are to become cracker-box philosophers and map our government's policy. We elected men to do just that.

I mean that, as individuals, we must look ahead. We must recognize that this is our crisis, that we have a part in it, a role to play. We said we wanted peace, not only for our time, but for all time. So we set up machinery to curb aggression, for we had learned at too dear a cost that the only security for our freedom was freedom everywhere. Now we must stand ready to make that machinery work.

We do not know what will be asked of us in the days ahead. We cannot tell how long we will have to endure, nor what will be the tension put upon us. But we do know that we must be ready to do our share in work, in money — in sacrifice. We must pull our part of the load, putting aside personal desires and prejudices, proving again — as we have in the past — that we are a nation united, standing by our duly elected authorities, accepting necessary restrictions in good spirit, serving as best we can wherever we are of the most use.

The foresight we need is the kind that looks beyond the present crisis to the goal which we have set — a goal of peace on earth and fair play for all. We have been given another chance to prove our desire to attain that end. It is up to us how we use that opportunity.

WHAT NEW RENT CONTROL LAW MEANS TO TENANTS: QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Because rent takes such a big chunk out of so many pay envelopes, here are answers to the important questions being asked by tenants about the new Rent Control Law.

Can rents be raised under this new law?

What happens after Dec. 31?

Your landlord can charge anything he likes, unless your city or town Council votes to continue rent ceilings. If the city or county council asks for it, present rules will continue until June 30, next year.

Suppose the city council refuses to act?

Then rent controls end automatically on Dec. 31. After that the ceiling rent is anything your landlord charges.

Can the landlord raise rents before Dec. 31?

Not unless he gets special permission from the area rent office.

How will I know whether he has really gotten permission to raise the rent?

As a tenant you will get from the Government a formal notice through the mail of any raise in your rent.

Do I get a chance to argue against a raise in my rent?

You have the right to appeal, first to the Government's area rent office for your city and then, if necessary to the Office of the Housing Expediter in Washington.

Suppose my landlord has been making me pay extra for janitor or elevator service, or charging more than the ceiling?

You can file a complaint with the area rent office. The Housing Expediter has plenty of authority under the law to deal with black market landlords.

What if my landlord threatens to evict me?

The new law is still as strict about evictions. So long as you pay your rent promptly, do not commit a nuisance or do any thing illegal in the house, you can only be evicted by a Government order.

Will I get advance notice of such an eviction?

Under the law, no tenant can be evicted until proper written notice stating the grounds for eviction has been sent by the landlord to the tenant and to the rent office. If the rent office decides the grounds for eviction are not adequate, or that notice of eviction is being used as a threat, the Government can stop the eviction.

Suppose the landlord says he wants to move into the place himself?

Then he can evict you after three months notice. But the Government will check to make sure that he really does move in.

What if he sells the place to someone else who wants to move in?

You're supposed to move three months after notice.

Suppose the landlord says he wants to remodel the property?

You can be evicted on three months notice, but again the Government will check to make sure he does the remodeling.

Historically, the United States has not really had economic busts, but experienced temporary setbacks of varying severity. What is commonly called a depression is a period of readjustment during which accumulated maladjustments and disparities are corrected.

Depression is a slowdown resulting from disturbance to economic balance, which is a condition precedent to economic health and material wellbeing.

The precise truth, it seems to me, lies somewhere between the spirit of Oriental fatalism shown in view A.—namely that periodic depressions are fore-ordained and must inevitably occur — and view B, namely that a formula has been found for perpetual nonstop booms.

Major dislocations are preventable through pursuit of prudent economic principles. The late Paul M. Warburg, intellectual father of the Federal Reserve System, summed it up succinctly when he observed that the way to avoid a bust is to "sit on the bulge during a boom."

California led all states again in dollar volume of new construction during the first quarter of 1950.

New York was second, Texas third.

California, the pace setter ever since 1941, slipped behind its 1949 mark, however, while New York and Texas showed sharp construction gains over last year.

The total value of new construction for the nation as a whole was $4,431,000,000 in the first quarter this year, compared with only $3,732,000,000 for the same period in 1949.

ECONOMIST CITES VALUE OF UNIONS

At a time when smears of unions and union leadership are so general, and when some self-styled economists lend themselves to such tactics, it is particularly interesting that an economist with a national reputation, Dr. Edwin E. Witte, head of the department of economics at the University of Wisconsin, has taken up the battle in behalf of the unions, contending that they are the strongest bulwarks of democracy and the principal force against communism.

Representative Andrew J. Biemiller, of Wisconsin, thought so highly of an address Dr. Witte delivered to students at Wayne University, Detroit, that he read the entire lecture into the Congressional Record (issue of April 6, 1950).

Dr. Witte cited the great importance of unionism in modern life, and went on to cite some of the criticisms of unions and union tactics, criticisms which, as he pointed out, are often mutually contradictory. For example, some labor foes say unions are, too strong and others that they have only minority backing.

Dr. Witte declared that he could see no signs of monopolistic control by unions, and pointed out that the great growth of unionism has been in the last 15 years. Yet unionism is almost as old as the Nation.

In contrast to corporate wealth and resources, he said, even the great resources of labor seem puny; in other words, the corporations are still so powerful that outcries against labor are likely to be merely a smoke screen.

Has Stopped Communism

"No one," he said, "has done so much to keep communism from making real headway in this country as have the unions."

He cited unionism's benefits to union members, and pointed out that unorganized workers also benefit from union activities. He contended also that unions benefit management and the general public:

"Certain it is that in the last decade in which unionism has been powerful, corporation profits have reached all-time highs. A Federal Trade Commission survey of the profits of 528 manufacturing corporations in 25 major industries disclosed that in all these industries the total profits were greater in 1948 than in 1940. In all but two of the 25 industries, also, the rate of return on investment was greater. An average return of 10 percent on investment in 1940 became 20 percent in 1948. I doubt whether there is much of a causal connection between the growth of unionism and the great prosperity of industry. But strong unionism, very certainly, has not resulted in financial ruin for industry. Strong unionism has coincided with increased production, higher salaries to management, larger dividends, heavy reinvestment of profits in plant modernization and expansion, and general prosperity.

"Unionism has also benefited the general public. The economic gains won by the unions for the workers have not been at the expense of other major elements of our society. Higher wages to workers have meant a great purchasing power, which has benefited all groups. Treatment of workers in accordance with human dignity costs nothing but raises our entire social level. The advances made by the workers in industry have aroused many jealousies, but, at least to date, other groups have prospered along with the workers and have benefited from their economic advances."

THE FAIR DEAL

We know that today, largely as a result of the 1930 depression and the second world war, our own people are deeply disturbed with anxieties. We Americans have seen an entire economic structure completely collapse, leaving millions jobless, starving, hopeless. This was followed by a war that disrupted our homes, robbed our young people of the best years of their lives and left us victorious over one totalitarian aggressor but faced with another no less menacing. Many of us are full of apprehensions and anxieties. What does tomorrow hold? What about my job? What would happen if serious illness strikes me or my family? Can my children get a decent education? Can I save enough for a respectable old age?

If a free society is to win the battle for men's hearts and souls, it must furnish surcease from the apprehensions and anxieties that lead men to surrender their freedom for the phantom promises of totalitarianism. The Fair Deal is doing this by furnishing certain minimum basic securities. Our social security laws provide minimum protection against the hazards of old age and unemployment. Through health insurance, we hope to provide protection from the catastrophe of sickness and disease, and incidentally from the high cost of dying. Our housing laws will give decent shelter to more and more of our people. Our minimum wage laws put a floor under wages so that men cannot be forced to work for starvation pay. Federal aid to education, when it comes, will help give every boy and girl equal educational opportunities so that none will, except of their own accord, remain slaves of ignorance and the victims of industrial incompetence.

These great programs of the Fair Deal will strengthen the ring of freedom that centuries of struggle have drawn around Western man.

Oscar R. Ewing.

The other day I saw a sign in a store which read: "Gigantic Sale!! Great Reductions!! Prices slashed from Outrageous to Unreasonable!"

DECISIONS OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Published in accordance with Section 123 International Constitution:

"All decisions of the Executive Council must be published in the following issue of The Lather, showing how each member of the Council has voted."

The Council voted to grant the following requests:
Request of Local No. 238 to levy additional assessments of $100.00 each against:

J. Gentry, 40165

E. H. Griffith, 42315

Paul E. Myers, 43196

Request of Local No. 346 to levy additional assessment of $100.00 against:

John Irons, 13397

Approved recommendations of General President to contribute the sum of $500.00 to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund (Trade Union Committee).

To perpetuate an industry, the product of that industry must have the confidence of the people. Merit in the article is what is necessary to hold confidence, which means sales. The customer must not only be satisfied at the time he buys, but throughout the years that he expected the article to serve. When a person buys plastering he expects it to serve indefinitely, and it will if the seller is quality-conscious.

Plastering has endured through centuries and plastering can repeat past performances. It all depends on the interest taken when the operation was in progress. None but the right kind of plastering is good enough. Plastering is an integral part of any habitable structure.

The state of the building industry is one of the best criterions of the nation's welfare. It must be kept healthy and to be so all integral parts must add to that healthy condition, especially the plastering. A building only can be as good as its plastering.

Twenty-six new Veterans' Administration hospitals and six major additions to existing VA hospitals are scheduled during calendar year 1950, the VA announced recently.

These projects will contain approximately 11,710 new hospital beds. VA's present authorized bed capacity is 131,000.

The dollar does not fluctuate in the United States. A dollar is always a dollar here, although the amount of goods people are willing to part with for a dollar may vary considerably.

A dollar does fluctuate in foreign countries, and foreign moneys fluctuate here, because they are bought and sold as commodities and are worth only what the buyer is willing to pay. Countries on the gold standard fluctuate very little, for gold has a standard value and the currency is redeemable in gold. In such a case the only difference in value will be a small fee for handling.

CORRECTIONS

Through an error in printing, the word "special" instead of "social" was used in Paragraph 4, Line 4, of General President McSorley's letter regarding Labor's League for Political Education, which was published on Page 2 of the July 1950 issue of The Lather.

Withdrawal card issued by Local 214 to N. H. Croft 41962, published in the July 1950 issue of The Lather, has been cancelled because it was reported by the Secretary of Local 214 thru a misunderstanding.

Suspension of L. B. Smith 25520 for nonpayment of dues by Local 438 on May 4, 1950, published in the June 1950 issue of The Lather, was reported to headquarters in error and has therefore been cancelled.

The name of Clarence Benard Root, apprentice of Local 62, was incorrectly reported to headquarters and published in the July 1950 issue of The Lather as Clarence Benard Roop.

It all started with an EXTRA MEASURE!

It was 'way back in 1922, at our Fort Dodge plant. What started out as a day of triumph, with a brand-new tube mill turning out the finest plaster ever—wound up with the boys in a predicament of major proportions.

You see, the easier-working, better-aging tube mill product is finer ground, so it's bulkier. Result: the standard jute bags they had been using before, and were figuring on using for this new, improved plaster, couldn't "take it"—couldn't take the weight of plaster marked on them. The bags were inches too short—and thousands too many, for they had a big supply on hand.

While they stood there in gloom so thick you could trowel it, some genius wisecracked, "Better get some sideboards!" And I mean genius! For it proved to be no trick at all to have 4-inch bands of red cloth sewn on to make the bags hold more—and to show the extra measure of plaster on each bag!

Well, those red band bags with the finer plaster really made their mark. So when the supply gave out, they ordered bigger bags—only this time with the red band "built right in" at the top. And U.S.G. had the red band and the name RED TOP registered as trade marks. From then on everybody knew U.S.G.'s finer product by the red band and the words RED TOP on the bag.

Today, as in '22, the RED TOP stands for an "extra measure" of quality and performance in plastering materials. Ask for the RED TOP trademark when you buy. It's your protection.

Canada is a stable country. Europe is going through a social revolution. The trend is away from personal initiative, prudence and thrift, towards governmental paternalism. In Russia the state controls everything. Only the North American continent is conservative.

A country is stable if there is stability in its family life. Canada has a very high marriage rate. Its divorce rate is very low. A country is stable when its citizens save their money, and Canadians do that to a high degree.

In 1929 when banks were failing by the hundreds, not one Canadian bank had to close its doors. During the war Canada paid her own way out of wages and government bonds. She did not accept one dollar of Lend Lease, on the other hand she contributed to Great Britain and her allies.

Canada moves ahead steadily in established order. Canada is rich and vigorous. Canada exports to the world. The country is rich in mineral wealth, which is scarcely touched. Other countries could profitably take a lesson from Canada and the way she administers to her economics.

A method of making concrete in which air bubbles take the place of sand has been reported to the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. The air concrete was said to be particularly promising for the construction of walls and roofs of farm buildings.

The method was developed by the government's national bureau of standards.

Tiny air bubbles not only replace the sand used in ordinary concrete, but also make the product lighter in weight. Mr. Valore said it is a better insulator against heat or cold and more resistant to water penetration. The concrete is prepared in conventional mixing equipment in the normal way, except that an industrial aerating agent or detergent is added to the cement and gravel.

SPACE SAVING IS COST SAVING

The 2" solid partition system of plaster and metal lath for non-bearing wall construction saves space and cuts costs in apartments, hotels, schools, hospitals, housing developments and commercial office building, reports the Metal Lath Manufacturers Association, Cleveland, Ohio. For example, in the 16 million dollar Red Hook USHA Federal Housing Development at Brooklyn, New York, this system not only saved over $300,000 as compared with the conventional 4½ partition, but also through its space-saving features made possible the construction of 260 additional rooms at no extra cost. Comprising 25 six-story fireproof apartment buildings, the project contains 300,000 sq. yds. of gypsum plaster and metal lath partitions — over 60 miles of non-bearing wall partitions 8' high.

A COMMUNIST IS ANYTHING BUT A LIBERAL!

By ELLIOTT CARLTON, Labor Reports columnist

You hear it phrased in many ways nowadays. "He got into trouble because he is a little too liberal."

Sometimes, of course, that is literally true. Some people would consider advocating better treatment for mothers-in-law a little too liberal. Others will call you a liberal if you seem to indicate that an eight-hour work day is long enough.

But usually, unfortunately, when a person is termed "a little too liberal," he is being called, in a polite way, a Communist. And that is altogether wrong.

A Communist is NOT a liberal. He is anything but a liberal. You don't have to take my word on this. Just turn to Webster, the guy who wrote the dictionary. He'll stress that a political liberal is a fellow who is not bound by authority in political philosophy. Moreover, he says that a liberal is a person who arrives at an opinion independently.

Does a Communist arrive at an opinion independently? We all know that a Communist must follow a party line. Are Communists not bound by authority in political philosophy? To ask that question is to answer it, for the masters in the Kremlin are truly their masters.

Now, then, let's get it clear. A liberal is a liberal because he believes in the democratic processes. He does not live a life based on orders gotten from a political boss.

In other words, to call a Communist a liberal is to flatter the Communists and to act in a prejudiced way in regards to liberalism.

And that prejudice is like all other prejudices. We know that prejudice, whether it is manifested through the Taft-Hartley Act, or by racial or religious prejudice, is harmful to our way of life.

We know that. The labor movement has demonstrated its awareness of the principle of brotherhood by being in the forefront in the campaigns against Taft-Hartleyism and racial and religious intolerance.

Yes, we know that. Now let's make it clear that we know the difference between Communism and liberalism. Let's not let the Communist call himself a liberal — and let's not allow the Dixiecrats and their henchmen to tar a liberal with the Communist label.

After all, our union is an organized espousal of liberalism.

The real worth of money is not face value, but what the stuff will buy in goods or services. Purchasing power is the only standard by which a fair wage can be measured.

How in the world can the American people ever expect to have prices come down when the government insists on buying to keep prices up? If nature were left alone, the natural supply and demand would control the selling prices on commodities, and as food commodities came down everything else would come down in proportion.

With the present setup of the government continuing to buy to create a shortage which, in turn, causes high prices to continue, the result can be nothing else but a hardship to the general buying public.

HUSBAND TRACER

It's possible, they say, to harness part of the atom so it will record the time husbands get home at night. A bit of radioactive material put in an aluminum capsule and slipped into HIS pocket does the trick — if you have a recording gadget somewhere near the door! They're using the same idea now to check the comings and goings of birds and moles. Let us know if it works!

Steel column protected with perlite plaster gets 4-hr. fire rating. An official fire test rating of 4-hrs. for steel columns protected with 1½ inches of perlite plaster on metal lath has just been completed by the Underwriters' Laboratories. In the test, the steel column did not reach its critical temperature until after the 4-hrs. and 50 minutes of exposure to fire in the testing furnace.

WHY WE ARE STRONG

By Harry E. O'Reilly

A. F. of L. Director of Organization
(In The American Federationist)

In the first century after the founding of our nation, our economy was based mainly on agriculture. In the late 1870s we saw the beginning of the development of industrial centers and a migration of our people from the rural communities to the cities, where the factories and mills were being established.

During the time that these industrial centers were developing, the workers were joining together in local unions for mutual protection and for the improvement of their wages and working conditions. From Colonial days there had been groups of workers organized in local unions, but with the industrialization that was taking place after the Civil War and with the banding together of employers to promote their mutual interests, the necessity for the formation of local unions and for the federation of these local organizations of workers became imperative.

Effective organization was required in order to stop the cutting of wages and the shifting of work from one locality to another, especially when a strike in a particular industry was in progress. In other words, the playing of one labor group against another, to the advantage of the employer, had to be met.

Confronted with this pressing problem, the labor leaders of those days could also see the vital necessity for legislative action in favor of labor, as well as the need for a medium for the dissemination of accurate information and a program of collective action.

Discussions and meetings were held by these labor leaders. A call was issued for a great national conference to be held in Pittsburgh during December of 1881. Out of this conference, the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions of the United States and Canada emerged on the American scene. The delegates came together of necessity. No doubt they did not realize that from their deliberations the economic and industrial history of a nation was to be changed with the beginning of the emancipation of those who were bound to the mine, mill and factory.

Soon it was found that the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, although a forward step, could not do the required work effectively. Consequently, another national call was sent out and in response to it the American Federation of Labor was established. The primary objective of the American Federation of Labor was to organize the workers of the nation into unions so that they could rise out of the darkness and realize their place in the sun, through collective bargaining for shorter hours, higher wages, healthful and sanitary working conditions and security in their chosen lines of endeavor.

The basic policy of the American Federation of Labor was the encouragement and formation of local trade and labor unions, followed by a closer federation of such organizations through international and national unions, state federations of labor and central trades and labor unions in the various cities.

Through these organizations it was determined to carry out the purposes of the American Federation of Labor and to disseminate information regarding the policies and principles of the trade union movement to the workers of our country. The aim was to encourage the workers to unite permanently to secure the recognition of the rights to which they were justly entitled, whether it be through the medium of collective bargaining or through legislative action in Congress and the various political subdivisions of our government.

From that day forward, the American Federation of Labor's fundamental principle has been to enhance the well-being of every worker and his family in our nation. From its very beginning the A. F. of L. stood for the eight-hour day. Before the turn of the century it stood for an adequate wage for work performed (the worker is worthy of his hire). It stood for healthful, sanitary and safe working conditions, believing that a worker had an inherent right to be protected while performing his toil and not have his health impaired.

It was the American Federation of Labor through the years that secured the enactment of legislation which designated the labor of a human being as not an article of commerce. It was the American Federation of Labor that carried on a courageous fight in the legislative halls of the nation for the right of free collective bargaining. In fact, the American Federation of Labor has consistently been in the forefront of every great movement to better the wage-earner's daily life and has jealously guarded the worker's freedom.

In adhering to these traditional policies the American Federation of Labor has made its fights for all the citizens, on the principle that what is good for one is good for all and good for the nation as a whole. Labor has not asked that benefits accrue only to members of organized unions, but it has asked that all workers join with the American Federation of Labor to hasten the day when wage-earners everywhere can realize their aims, ambitions and security through their membership in local unions.

The American Federation of Labor from its inception has been the answer to the worker's economic needs. Its philosophy immediately captured the imagination of the working people. In spite of dual and splinter movements from within and without, as well as the antagonistic and oftentimes ruthless employer opposition, the American Federation of Labor has continued to grow and expand, serving the workers day and in day out — as well today as in any time gone by.

Great international and national unions have grown from local unions in every community, both in the United States and Canada. State Federations of Labor have developed in all of our states and territories. A central labor union of the American Federation of Labor serves in practically every city. Over 40,000 local unions are affiliated with these organizations, all of which, in turn, are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

From the beginning, the American Federation of Labor's organizations were voluntary. The autonomy and self-government of the affiliated organizations have always been paramount in the councils of the American Federation of Labor. Each and every member has an opportunity to participate actively in the functioning of his organization, for his benefit and for the benefit of his fellow-workers. It can be said, conservatively, that the membership, through the process of nominations and elections, designate several hundred thousand of their fellow-workers each year to officiate in the councils and the administration of their organizations.

At regular intervals meetings of local unions and city central labor unions are held. International and national unions and State Federations of Labor hold their conventions at prescribed times. Active local union members participate in these trade union sessions, which are held for the purpose of formulating and carrying out policies and programs beneficial to the working people.

The American Federation of Labor through the years, in following the basic, fundamental policies of autonomous and democratic self-government, continued to draw workers to it who, in a voluntary manner, themselves developed this medium which has improved and enriched the daily lives of the wage-earners of this nation.

The same spirit of voluntarism prevails today, just as intensely as in the beginning, when the workers in all walks of industry turned to the American Federation of Labor. We find that in this present year there is a greater realization among the working people of our nation of just how vital the American Federation of Labor is to them.

Vast numbers of volunteer, practicing trade unionists in every locality are making it possible for the unorganized workers to know the glorious history of the accomplishments of the American Federation of Labor in the interests of the working people.

Throughout the nation, in this year 1950, meetings are being held for this purpose. The 1950 organizing campaign of the American Federation of Labor will be the greatest one in its history, with workers joining by the hundreds of thousands.

Never before has the American Federation of Labor been in a better position to go before the workers. It stands for one thing and for one thing alone—an equal opportunity for all wage-earners to realize a full measure of return for their toil.
